Human Eye Unable to Catch Bird's Activity - The barred owl turns a somersault in midair, too fast for the human eye to see, but not too fast for the camera to snap. It cost me a wet and muddy day last week. Samuel Scoville writes, in the Forum. We splashed our way through mud and water until we came to a couple of large hollow trees not 50 feet apart. In one was the nest of a barred owl containing two eggs in a hollow about twenty feet up, while in the other tree a barn owl had made its nest in a hole some fifteen feet from the ground and laid there six round white eggs about the size of a crow's egg. Both nests contained dead field mice, while in the barred owl's hole was the wing of a screech owl and the feathers of a marsh hawk, which that fierce sky pirate had evidently killed and eaten. While we were staring up at the trees, the female barred owl came skimming like a gray shadow through the woods and, approaching the nesting hole, suddenly plunged into it, apparently without slackening its flight in the least. One of my friends obtained a snapshot of it as it entered its nest and the camera showed something which our eyes were not quick enough to follow and gave the explanation of how so large a bird could plunge into a tree at full speed without receiving any injury. When the plate was developed it showed that just as the owl reached the hole it turned a somersault, reversing its wings, checked its flight for an instant and slid in feet foremost, a bit of aeronautics which I fancy only the most skilled flyers among the bird folk can perform.

What becomes of your dismantled Christmas tree after the holidays? Don't try to burn it in the fireplace, even if partially cut up. The dry, brittle evergreen will start a roaring fire and possibly set fire to the chimney, endangering the house. Have the tree dragged away to a safe place for a bonfire, and use it as a nucleus to get rid of any other rubbish that can be burned up. The same precautions apply to any sort of Christmas greens.

INCREASED COMPENSATION FOR WORKERS AFTER JAN. 1

Compensation insurance payments to workmen injured or killed in Pennsylvania will increase approximately 25 per cent, after January 1, 1928, by terms of amendments to the Pennsylvania workmen's compensation law enacted by the State Legislature.

Because of the increased payments for which the companies will become liable, rate increases of approximately 25 per cent will also become effective on compensation policies written at the same time. The principal changes effected by the amendments to the compensation law are: Increase of the maximum weekly payment from $12 to $15; increase in the minimum weekly payment from $6 to $7; increase of the maximum amount for total disability from $5,000 to $6,500; increases in the basic weekly wage used in computing payments from $20 to $24 as the maximum and from $10 to $12 as the minimum; increases in percentage of actual salaries, up to stated maximum, allowed in payments. The waiting period between time of accident and time compensation begins, is reduced from ten to seven days, and allowance for burial expenses is increased from $100 to $150.

Although appendicitis received its name in 1886, medical authorities have traced cases as far back as 1684.

What She Wanted - "Sylvia looks very sweet tonight, don't you think?" asked the fair-haired girl at the dance. "Positively stunning!" declared her partner, and then realized what he had done. "Of course," he added, "she looks prettier at times than others." "The fair one melted slightly. "The real test of beauty," she said, "is to look pretty always." "You do," declared her partner. "How perfectly sweet of you to say so. But Sylvia is pretty." "You are prettier," declared her partner. "Don't be absurd," said the fair-haired girl; "but it's perfectly sweet of you to say so."

Alert and Observing - Knowing therefore that you cannot be a good master unless you have a universal power of representing by your art all the various forms which nature produces—which indeed you will not know how to do unless you see them and retain them in your mind—look to it, O Painter, that when you go into the fields you give your attention to the various objects and look carefully in turn first at one thing and then at another, making a bundle of different things selected and chosen from among those of less value.—Leonardo Da Vinci's Note Books. Translated by Edward McCurdy.

Taste Not in Money - Taste, runs the saying, flaunts no dollar sign. One can spend a million dollars and have a hideous home, and vice versa, one can spend but a few dollars and achieve good taste in the home with simplicity. Taste is more than a question of education, it is more than a question of breeding. Some few have 't to begin with, more achieve it and a great mass of people have it thrust upon them, fortunately. We say fortunately for the majority of home owners are content to let those who have taste design and decorate their homes for them.

Spenser - Like most poets, he felt the impulse of the day and hour. His poems reflect the color of the sky over his head, blue and somber by turns. His plety, though at all times sincere, was more or less apparent according to the seasons—more or less exuberant according as he felt the blessing or buffet of fortune. Yet above the span of his checkered career and all alternating quest after earthly joy and heavenly bliss, an indubitable idealism is spread like the rainbow arching over a landscape beaten by the rain and illumined by the sun.—Emile LeGouis, in "Spenser."

Shrubby Is Protected - People tempted to gather ornamental materials along the highways and in the forests for holiday purposes should remember that state law protects all evergreens or deciduous trees, shrubbery, and ornamental vines. Better be safe than penalized.

THE STATE AUTHORITIES INSPECT FOOD PRODUCTS

Every day of the year pure food agents of the Bureau of Foods and Chemistry are on the job somewhere in Pennsylvania inspecting food products to see that consumers get pure wholesome foods. These men have won the finest cooperation and goodwill of the thousands of reputable food dealers and manufacturers because of their rigid enforcement of all food laws. Careless or unscrupulous dealers, however, are found here and there so that it has been necessary during the past 21 years to take 21,000 legal actions.

This vigorous and widespread law enforcement has resulted in the food supply for 9,000,000 consumers being made as pure and wholesome as it is humanly possible to make it. Twenty-five years ago, it is said that 2 per cent of the staple grocery products offered for sale in Pennsylvania were either adulterated or misbranded. Today less than 1 per cent is in violation of State laws.

Consistent advertising always pays.

CHRISTMAS JOYS

By C. WILBUR GROFF

Ring out "Joy Bells, Ring out "Joy Bells." Again there is a joy that everyone tells. Each year we meet with this "glad day." And again have a "Glad Joy" to say.

We think of this as a day of rest, Set aside for its origin to be blest: On this "glad day" we all wear smiles. Whose length would reach for many miles. This day of rest is devoted to all, It stands outstretched and very tall, It comes to all to celebrate here.

With A MERRY CHRISTMAS and A HAPPY NEW YEAR.
