100,000 Potatoes In One Big Pyramid

Largest Potato Exhibit—The potatoes will fill approximately 400 sacks and will be placed in the form of a pyramid, with the sacks open so that visitors can see the quality of the tubers. This pyramid will form the center of the largest potato exhibition ever held in the world and will impress visitors with the fact that Pennsylvania is one of the greatest potato-producing states. Twelve thousand square feet of floor space, the entire 1st floor of one of the largest garages in Harrisburg, will be used for the potato features, which include a display of machinery, the meetings of the Pennsylvania Potato Growers Association and competitive exhibits by producers in all parts of the Commonwealth.

Interesting Program—The program for the annual meeting of the Potato Association includes a variety of interesting events. The meeting opens with a discussion of potato machinery at which time various types of potato machinery will be brought into the meeting and opportunity given to discuss their merits. Topics such as "Potato Marketing Problems in Europe," "A New Selling Stunt," and "What Has the Past Year Taught Us in Growing Better and Cheaper Potatoes?" are also listed for discussion.

Medals will be awarded at a banquet on Wednesday evening to the 132 potato growers who produced over 400 bushels of potatoes on an acre during the past year. The average production in Pennsylvania is about 116 bushels per acre, which means that the 400-bushel members have produced about four times the average yield.
