Most people spend about so much money in a year. If things happen that obviate the necessity of spending it for one thing, it goes for something else.

TAXES DO NOT STAY PUT

Taxes are the most important part of the fiscal systems of government in the United States today. Taxes and public debts have grown at such a pace since the World War that taxpayers and officials are now developing a keen interest in matters of public finance.

Taxes do not stay where you assess them. The heat, which the thermometer measures, covers everyone. Taxes, like the heat. affect everyone. Taxes show themselves in our daily cost of living. There is no such person in this country, or in this state, or in any community, as a non-taxpayer. As has well been stated, every man and woman in this country works between six weeks and two months out of every year to pay the national, state and local taxes.

What this country needs now more than anything else in the field of taxation is a simplification of the tax laws, common sense thinking, coupled with efficient and intelligent administration. Involved laws and rules governing taxation have caused much dissatisfaction. The individual should have some idea of how much tax he will have to pay, without having to employ an attorney to aid him in the making of calculations. Our courts are crowded with tax questions and interpretations of tax laws. This creates an element of uncertainty which is very disconcerting both to public officials and to taxpayers. Our tax laws should be simple and understandable, so that all of the people know what they are paying all of the time.

A RECORD OF PROGRESS

Any person who feels that he has no interest in oil should read the articles which have been appearing in the Saturday Evening Pos on the past, present and future of petroleum. These articles show that the United States produces over 70 per cent of the world's petroleum and that Americans are now producing oil in practically every great petroleum domain overseas, notably Latin America, and are increasing their holdings every year. It can be truthfully said that the sun

Twenty years ago only 4.5 gallons of casoline were derived from a 42-gallon barrel of crude oil. Now nearly 15 gallons are obtained. The American oil industry is not. only cooperating to conserve our domestic supply of crude oil by tilizing it to the fullest extent, but t is securing oil land holdings in every foreign field and is experinenting in and perfecting substittes from which we will eventually derive our gasoline and lubericating oils.

No industry has had more un certainties to contend with, no in-No. 349—An 80 ft. front on Donegal Springs Road, Mt. Joy. New 8 room brick house, all mod-ern improvements. The fact that our nation in 1927 absorbed 93.9 gallons of oil per capita as against 2.8 gallons for $3,600.00. the rest of the world. shows why re are all interested in seeing th American oil industry maintained on a safe and sound basis so as to be able to furnish us a family nenever sets upon the Yankee driller cessity today at reasonable figures.
