Building and Loan Associations

MONEY INVESTED THEREIN IS SAFE TO INVESTOR AND ALWAYS HELPS BUILD A COMMUNITY

This is a class of institutions that is not appreciated by the public to the extent that they deserve, in fact few persons realize the enormous amount of money invested in these most deserving institutions and still fewer know the degree of safety of their investments in such when properly conducted. The following will show the relative importance of their value and safety as compared with other institutions of the financial class. During the year 1927 twenty-one Building and Loan Associations failed with loss to stock holders estimated at $1,030,000. For the year ended June 30, 1927, 689 Jacob Hill Byrne, esq., of Lancaster, a good roads enthusiast, addressed the meeting on the beauty of the Susquehanna river compared with some other advertised scenic rivers of the world. State and Private Banks failed, with a total of liabilities of $206,655,000, and for the year ended October 31, 1927, 139 National Banks failed with a capital of $8,257,000; no estimate of final losses in these two classes of failures is yet available, nor is any data yet available as to Savings, Loan and Trust Companies. The last available report of all the Building and Loan Associations of the United States is that of 1926. This report shows that there were in the United States 12,626 of these Associations Pennsylvania leading with 4,460. The total assets of these (Turn to Page 8.)

Looking North By Harry Drace

A FORMER RESIDENT OF THIS COMMUNITY WRITES INTERESTING ARTICLE ON HOW THINGS ARE DONE THERE

Shaunavon, Sask., Nov. 8, 1928. Editor Mt. Joy Bulletin: Dear Sir: I am sending you a brief manuscript entitled "Looking North." My sole purpose in sending these few extracts of the north to Mt. Joy, is not meant to be egotistical on my part, but that I, a former resident of Elizabethtown, have been virtually "flooded" with inquiries from young as well as older friends in Mt. Joy and vicinity who wish to know how things are done in the far north and northwest.

Once it was the West—now it's the North. Not so many years ago men set out to claim the Canadian wilds they headed toward the west. As they progressed they were followed by the thin lines of steel which pierced the great rocky fastness of nature and drove with irresistible force through the very heart of the mountains. Today we see great masses of freight wrested from the depths of the earth, or garnered as a gift from Mother Nature, or manufactured by man's toil and industry, pass to and fro from Montreal to Vancouver, across a land once believed to be inaccessible and barren. Along this route churches, schools and homes were moulded into progressive villages and towns, and industries feeding upon the timber, metals, and virgin soil sustained their accumulating population.
