EVOLUTION OF THE HOME
Gas and electricity, the telephone, vacuum cleaners and other labor saving devices, have played most important roles in the evolution of the modern home.
Now, with the innovation of automatic oil and gas burning furnaces, another great step forward is being made. The cellar that is grimy and dusty from wood and past. New standards of efficiency, coal fuel is being relegated to the economy and comfort in home heating have been reached.
In modern industry the new and better has always replaced the old, and the same trend is now established in the equally important field of domestic life.

ALL FIRES PREVENTABLE
The majority of fires result from hazards that could have been removed, at the beginning, at a small cost or with a little caution. Hundreds of millions of dollars and thousands of lives are destroyed each year because of ignorance or carelessness.
The unpreventable fire is almost non-existent. The chief causes of conflagrations are defective chimneys and flues, carelessly handled matches and cigarettes, defective wiring and electrical equipment.
It is better to prevent fires than to extinguish them after they have done their damage. It should be the civic duty of every citizen to see that all possible fire risks under his control are regularly inspected and made safe.

USING THE SCHOOL HOUSE
In many country communities it is becoming more and more the custom to make use of the school buildings for a variety of helpful purposes, in addition to that for which they are primarily intended.
Where no other building is available, the school house affords a convenient place for pleasant and profitable gatherings, such as men's and women's clubs, boys' and girls' clubs, debating societies, singing, public speaking, entertainments and the like.
While practically every school house is utilized for some of these purposes, in many communities a complete winter program is planned, so as to make it a regular social center, around which all neighborhood activities revolve.
This tends to foster a spirit of cooperation and neighborliness, which is extremely beneficial. With the advent of radio, these gatherings may have music and other features of broadcast programs to enliven the evening, at little expense.
By systematically using these means so readily at hand, the country school house may greatly contribute to the attractiveness of rural life.

BE THANKFUL EVERY DAY
Soon our country will enjoy another Thanksgiving Day for which we should be truly grateful.
Over the nation as a whole there is practically no unemployment. Soil products have been bounteous and farmers have generally had good prices.
Our factories, mines, sawmills, transportation, insurance and utility companies have all been doing a good business and rendering a great service to the public than at any time in the nation's history. Electric light and power, the telephone and gas service are so common to the average American family that they are considered necessities, rather than novelties or luxuries, as is the case in most other countries in the world.
Improved and paved highways ended isolation for the farmer. Labor saving appliances are as common to the American housewife as the latest labor-saving machine is in our factories.
The American workman has the power machinery at his disposal that the workmen of any other nation—therefore his progress is greater and his wages are higher.
We have an unprecedented number of newspapers and publications so fully informed on local and world news.
We may not exist in this form as far as a government that protects and provides for the well-being of its people in conjunction with freedom of action, the United States is further than any other nation.
We should be thankful every day for a government that makes it possible for
