WEEKLY LETTER WRITTEN EXPRESSLY FOR THE BULLETIN BY DR. DAVID H. REEDER

Goitre: An unusual demand for a practical method of treatment for goitre without surgery has caused me to investigate the methods used by some of the successful physicians who have specialized along that line. I think that of all the methods of treatment which I have investigated, that employed by Dr. David Grant Roy is the most practical and successful.

I have, in order to give intelligent and helpful suggestions, kept under observation a number of patients that have been successfully treated by Dr. Roy, and in each case the result has been highly satisfactory.

Dr. Roy's method is simplicity itself and is thoroughly practical common sense. He uses a preparation of stainless iodine in the form of an inunction, but he does not, as the practice has heretofore been simply apply the iodine to the skin over the gland. He first at my suggestion, by manipulation, raises the clavicles and relaxes the muscular tissues surrounding the gland, the patient prone upon the back. The inunction is then applied after which it is driven into the deeper tissues with the high frequency current. Treatment is applied daily with the result that in cases of young girls the enlargement somewhat disappears within a couple of weeks. In cases of older girls and young women four to six or even eight weeks may be required.

In one case coming under my observation, a woman of perhaps forty-five years had a very troublesome goitre of twenty years' standing, and symptoms of exophthalmic difficulties were beginning to manifest themselves in a very uncomfortable manner. After three months' treatment the circumference of the neck and gland had been reduced from seventeen and three-fourths inches to thirteen and a half inches and although the enlargement was still visible, the patient was so well satisfied that she stopped the treatment. At that time there were no symptoms of exophthalmic trouble.

After observing this method for a long time, I worked out a simple and practical method of treatment which the patient could use in the home without the high frequency appliance. This, with a corrected diet give the same result and is much more economical.

In his remarkable book, "Beauty and Motherhood," Dr. Ferdinand Herb says that, "The thyroid gland is one of the most important organs of the body. The functions of this gland are manifold. In some ways it supports, in other ways it antagonizes the ovaries. The intimate connection between the thyroid gland enlarges at all of those occasions that serve as milestones in woman's sexual life; puberty, menstruation, pregnancy and change of life. This enlargement is but the outward sign of the increased activity of the thyroid gland during these periods. It is not desirable from a standpoint of beauty, and happily, disappears when the wave of disturbance has passed. Only in comparatively few instances does the enlargement become permanent and then, in a way, disfigures the neck.

The characteristic enlargement of the thyroid gland is not always so pronounced as to be visible to the eye. However, observing women frequently notice it in the seeming tightening of their collars or neck bands at those specified times. One of the most important functions of the thyroid gland is the destruction of poisonous substances in the blood. The greatly increased demand made upon it in that direction is probably the reason why in the majority of instances its enlargement is so conspicuous during pregnancy.

Blasted out of solid rock, a new "strong room" covering an area of two and a half acres has been constructed 150 feet below the Bank of France in Paris.

Having no other instruments at hand Dr. W. W. Council removed a patient's tonsils with a jack knife at a remote settlement in Alaska.
