

do you want $100 more for your old car?

Right now—this week—we can give it to you. Later on, in another week or two, we can't.

If you act now—you will have two things to be thankful for. You will own a new Super-Six, the six that leads all others in popularity, in volume of sales. And you will have bought it at a real bargain.

Leadership in quality has for years given Hudson-Essex outstanding public favor. And the growing volume has permitted economies passed on to buyers in price, far below any rival.

More than 1,000,000 Hudson-Essex cars in service, and this year the greatest sales in our history are simply the results of giving greater value than was ever offered at this price.

There can be no proof so convincing as the praise bestowed by Hudson-Essex owners, and the fact that these cars continue, as for years, the outstanding sales success of motordom.

Here is a chance to turn in your present car for more than it will ever be worth again. And—more important still—to own one of the first choice "Sixes," as proved by their sales leadership.

To all labor there is a dignity if a stout heart accompany it. We all must serve and he is doubly blessed who serves with a smile.

The relatives, friends and acquaintances of those who have employed us speak with admiration for our respectful administration of the service, and with earnest praise for our fairness.

Now that you folks have a all had plenty (?) of that 60 cents a pound turkey food over Thanksgiving, I guess most of you are getting over the shock of the price.

Of course it's generally known (or at least should be) that folks like myself can't eat turkey at any such prices—BUT, how I did punish chicken.

Printers are about like the boy who was 16 years old before he knew that chickens had anything else but wings and necks.

We fellows never know what turkey tastes like until along about the age of 40 and then only if some good kind friend invites us out to dinner.

The teacher in one of the lower grades back at school told a pupil that if the earth travels about the sun, what travels about the earth. The pupil said: "Tramps."

When you watch the many cars that pass up and down Main street, is it any wonder that instead of boys learning to nail shoes on horses they learn to put fenders on cars

A certain chap here is up-to-date on table etiquette. At a local restaurant he poured the coffee into the saucer but instead of blowing to cool it, he fanned it with his hat.

I met a couple, he was 60 and she was 18. She called him sweetie but she really meant Santa Claus.

Wouldn't this be a very good time to think of making the coming Christmas a real one? We think there should be more forgiving and less giving.

"Have you ever driven a car?" a Mount Joy lady applicant for a license was asked.
"One hundred and twenty thousand miles," put in her husband, who was standing near by, "and never had a hand on the wheel."

Now if any of you birds have a wife who helps you drive, don't go and tell her this one. Don't forget they offer mighty good suggestions—occasionally.

Down at Smith's restaurant the other evening a fellow claimed he could speak seven languages. When they asked him to say "good morning" in Italian he said: "Gooda mornin'."

A Manheim street joke. One man asked another how his wife was and the colored fellow remarked: "Well it 'fears lak she's jes' about washed out."

One of our fellows was pinched at Lancaster for parking too near a plug. As a bluff he said to the officer: "Wait a minute, Mr. Officer. Didn't I meet you at the policemen's ball last night?"

The officer said: "No, you did not. It ain't till tomorrow night."

I know a certain chap at Lancaster who has a pair of bird dogs that are hard to beat. He was out hunting the other day and a man in the crowd shot a quail. One dog retrieved it and the other, having nothing to retrieve, picked up a very small pig and carried it.

A certain local business man said to his stenographer: "How about going on a business trip with me next week?"
She said: "Say, I may be your stenographer but I'm not portable."

"Heaven will protect the working girl," the old song says, "but what we want to know is who is going to protect the poor fish the working girl is working."

A fellow went up to Rohrer's to swap cars. He told Enos he had this car for years and never had a wreck.
Enos said: "You mean you had this wreck for years and never had a car."

First smart alex: "I hear that you herd sheep."
Second smart alex: "Yeh, that's what I herd."

Talk about absent-mindedness, here's one has 'em stopped. A certain business man here went home, kissed his wife and then started dictating a letter.
She nearly killed him.

A young couple were strolling on Main street when he said: "Where

Health Talk

WRITTEN BY DR. THEODORE B. APPEL, SECRETARY OF HEALTH

"In certain parts of Africa the natives celebrate feast seasons which assume all the characteristics of gastronomical orgies. In fact they are literally gorging parties where the participants eat and drink themselves into a stupor, repeating the process until nature revolts," said Dr. Theodore B. Appel, Secretary of Health, today.

"While there may be some excuse for ignorant natives thus to conduct themselves, it is very questionable whether Americans can justify their excessive and sometimes painful eating proclivities on feast days as Thanksgiving and Christmas. However were the average citizen to limit himself to holidays and banquets for his over-indulgences the situation would possess little else than a display of temporary injudiciousness. Unfortunately, such is not the case.

"To many people, excessive eating is a daily habit. It may be said that except for foolish maidens with a slenderizing complex America's most general offense against itself is its unreasonable attitude towards its stomach.

"With the approach of Thanksgiving it would be wise for people to reason that the day means more than over-taxing the body with food. Indeed, a splendidly practical method of giving thanks would be to determine upon a logical food intake not only on that day but on all the days to follow. Life will be longer and happier if this advice is heeded."

Promoted Copyright Law

Noah Webster, the dictionary maker, was the first American to benefit by the copyright laws. In 1783 Webster published "A Grammatical Institute of the English Language." He described it as "an elementary book for facilitating the acquisition of our vernacular tongue and for correcting a vicious pronunciation which prevailed among the common people. The first part was known as "Webster's Spelling Book." It is still in print and has sold over 60,000,000 copies. Shortly after the publication of this book Webster made a tour of the southern states in the interests of a copyright law. The federal copyright law was passed in 1790. It was especially appropriate that the first author to take advantage of this law should have been one who labored to promote it.—Mentor Magazine

Police Woman in Society

The police force in a New York suburb includes a woman, whose modest home is filling up with bridge prizes. She is playing bridge somewhere almost every day. All she has to do, ordinarily, is to report by telephone every few hours. That irksome and interrupts the game, but she does it.

"This is Louise," she says to the officer on desk duty. "I'm down at Mrs. Cadwallader Smith's. Nothing doing, I hope."

"All right, honey," answers the ratherly voice from the other end. "On with your play. Hope you win the mother-of-pearl blackjack"—Kansas City Times.

Good Bargain

"Isn't that a new coat, Mandy?" asked the clerk in a small town store of a seemingly happy customer, a large, good-natured colored woman who recently had been married for the third time.

"Yes, sir, this is a new coat. This is a present to me from my new man," admitted Mandy.

"And what did you give him?" asked the curious one.

"Me? What did I give him?" I give him nothin' 'cept just me. I just give him me."

Composition of Marl

The term "marl" is used in a general sense for any soft, earthy and crumbling strata or deposits. In a more specific sense, however, the term is applied to an earthy, crumbling deposit consisting of fine clay and perhaps sand. Chemically it consists of clay mixed with calcium carbonate in varying proportions. It is used as a fertilizer on soils deficient in lime.—Exchange.

Ask a man for information says a woman critic in the American Magazine, and no matter what the subject nine out of ten of them will have a beautiful time enlightening you on it.

are you going, little Miss?"
She replied: "You ought to know; you're taking me."

A small boy strolled into Chandler's drug store and said to the clerk: "Give me a nickel's worth of asafetida."

The clerk wrapped it up and passed it over.

"Charge it," said the boy.

"What name?" queried the clerk.

"Hunnifunkle."

"Take it for nothing," retorted the clerk. "I wouldn't write asafetida and Hunnyfunkle for no nickel."

At the dance the other night George Halbleib said to his lady: "My shoes are just killing my feet."
She said: "They're killing mine, too." A WISE OWL
