Local Attorney Comnits Suicide

WILLIAM M. HILLOWBUSH IN HALES GAS IT HIS HOME HERE AND WAS FOUND DEAD THIS MORN-· ING

known local attorney, committed suicide at his home on West Main street last night by inhaling gas. He s sixty-one years old.

When Henry Brooks went to the Hollowbush home early this morning to build the fires as usual, he was greatly surprised at the strong odors of gas when he unlocked the front door. Without going in he solicited before Squire George D. C. Danner, the assistance of Mr. Harry Krall. of Manheim. Together they returned to the house body of Mr. Hollowbush lying on the kitchen floor. He was dead for some time according to the condition of the body.

Mr. Hollowbush told the writer ene month ago that he had met with finan wises and at that time placed his new brick house in the local realtor's hands to be disposed of immediately. Worry and a nervous break down, in all likelihood prompted him to end his life.

Bags had been laid at the bottom of the doors and both jets of a two stove were turned on full when the body was found.

Deputy Coroner H. O. O'Neill and his physician D. C. Stoner held an investigation and found it to be rese of suicide. Deceased was sixty-one years old.

He was a member of Mt. Joy Lodge No. 277, I. O. O. F. His only relaes are several cousins at Lancasand Harrisburg.
