QUALITY AT LOW COST

A young couple here had a scrap. A few days later he called to see her and there she was, all dolled up with lips as red as cherries. He said, "Let's kiss and make up." She replied, "If you'll be careful I won't need to."

A man right here in town contemplates building a brick house this coming Spring. Monday he telephoned to the Masonic Homes at Elizabethtown and inquired if he could get a couple of Free Masons.

They tell me Carl Engle won't go in bathing when he goes to the seashore, for fear of getting lost. He's afraid the bathing beauties might get him.

I was in a certain home here and admired the artistically splattered wall paper in the breakfast room. The lady said that's where her husband eats his grape fruit.

At court last week a colored man was asked if the woman was expensively garbed and he replied, "Deed she was, sah. Ah knows expensive garbage when I sees it."

George Mumper tells me that a farmer in his section told the hired man to give the cow that produces the most milk, all the chop she would take. Next day he found his pump full of chop.

The codfish lays a million eggs. And the helpful hen lays one; But the codfish doesn't cackle. To tell us what she's done; And so we scorn the codfish coy. And the helpful hen we prize, Which indicates to you and me It pays to advertise.

A man here called up a bird store at Lancaster the other day and said, "Have you 30,000 cockroaches to send up to me at once?"

"What in heaven's name do you want with 30,000 cockroaches?"

"Well," replied the fellow, "I am moving today and my lease says I must leave the premises in exactly the same condition in which I found them."

Of all things Clyde Gerberich would like to know, "Does an incubator chicken love its mother?"

Out autoing Sunday a Florin woman said, "I think we have a cylinder missing." He said, "I'll bet those mean kids next door took it."

Paint helps the looks of any old house but it has the opposite effect on an old face.

The patriotic man gets shot for his country and the alcoholic man gets shot for himself.

A man at Salunga came to Daniel Brubaker's shoe store here and asked what was good for his wife's fallen arches. The clerk said, "Rubber heels."

The customer said, "What'll I rub them with?"

There are a lot of things in this world of ours that don't seem quite right. Some professional men have a lot more privileges than others. The doctor, for instance, can call on another man's wife, charge for a visit and get away with it. If the editor tried anything like that he'd get a load of buckshot.

This morning I told Charlie Bennett his coat was ripped. He said, "Nope, just seams ripped."

A fellow here who owns a 1916 Ford says it has so darn much play and does so many motions that he named it Charleston.

A customer at Cap Williams' barber shop was asked if he wanted his hair cut any particular way and he said, "Yeah, off."

A lady on Marietta street told me she hadn't any sympathy for a man who drinks. I told her I hadn't either. Only envy.

There's a chap in town who sleeps in a bed 8 feet wide and 12 feet long. I'll tell this cruel world that's a lot of bunk.

Henry Garber says he knows how many itches there are in a mosquito but he hasn't figured out yet just how many peeps there are in a key-hole.

They tell me Scotch athletes are so blamed tight they even hate to loosen up their muscles.

Educating The Motoring Public

VALUABLE INFORMATION FOR MOTORISTS FURNISHED THE BULLETIN BY LANCASTER AUTOMOBILE CLUB

Warning to motorists to look to their headlights is sounded by S. Edward Gable, president of the Lancaster Automobile Club. "It is important that headlights be focused properly and that drivers carry extra bulbs in the car," Mr. Gable said. "State motor patrol officers are enforcing this regulation, a number of arrests having been made in Lancaster county recently, and the automobile owner whose headlights are not properly focused and the one who fails to carry extra bulbs are liable to arrest and fine."

"If cars are equipped with legal-type lights, focused in compliance with State regulations, the beams will light the road ahead for a sufficient distance, yet will not blind the driver of the oncoming vehicle," the Auto Club head continued. "Car owners realize this yet again and again we hear complaints about glaring headlights from motorists who are frank to admit that the light on their own cars likely would not pass inspection. They protest loudly against the other fellow's shortcomings, yet fail to look to their own."

Mr. Gable pointed out that the motor code provisions regarding headlights are firm, yet do not work hardship on the car owner. The law provides that the motorist with headlights that do not comply with the law be directed to an official adjusting station and given 48 hours to have the lamps put in proper condition. If a checkup made at the end of 48 hours reveals that the headlights are not adjusted as ordered the owner is summoned to court. Drivers who fail to carry extra bulbs, however, can be fined without giving notice.

"In view of the fact that the State law requires that headlights be adjusted properly, and because night driving is safer and more comfortable for all concerned if lights are all focused properly, I urge every car owner to see to it that his headlights are adjusted in compliance with the law," Mr. Gable said.

A Private Tutor

Helen was five years old and was not old enough to go to school. She was somewhat envious of several neighbor children who started to school this year.

After school in the evenings and on Saturdays Helen had listened to the wonderful accounts of her sophisticated little friends until she felt that she must defend her unlighted preschool age.

"I don't think I shall ever go to school," she volunteered one day. "Daddy knows everything, so I think that I'll just stay at home and let him teach me."

A Cloud for a Lining

It was their first quarrel, and it lasted longer than post-homespun squabbles generally do. But finally it was over, and the wife was confiding to a friend. "My dear, it was really terrible while it lasted," she said. "But I'm glad in a sense. See what a splendid present Percy gave me afterward."

Her friend picked up the magnificent evening wrap. "Oh, how gorgeous to have a husband like that!" she cried. "That's a cloud with a silver-fox lining."—Yorkshire Post.

Colonial Bedsteads

The turn-up bedstead was popular in New England. "This," writes Alice Morse Earle, "was a strong frame filled with a network of rope, which was fastened at the bed head by hinges to the wall. By night the foot of the bed rested on two heavy legs. By day the frame, with its bed furnishings, was hooked up to the wall and covered with homespun curtains and doors." These beds were in the kitchen, the place chosen because the room was the warmest in the house.

African Tribal Language

One of the greatest difficulties of missionaries in the Sudan lies in the perfect babel of languages existing among its many tribes, a great challenge to the ambitious linguist, as there are no books of any kind among them, and no teachers. Added difficulties are the various intonations of each word, a wrong tone being used often completely changing the meaning of the word. Recently it has been discovered that in one tribe seven different tones are used.
