A NEW SIX AT A PRICE WITHIN THE REACH OF MILLIONS

On Saturday, Buick will present the new Marquette—designed by Buick engineers and built in Buick factories. Marketed as an additional member of the Buick family, it will in no way affect Buick itself. Buick will continue to express the policies that made it the leader of the fine car field for the past quarter-century. In the smart, comfortable bodies of the Marquette you will recognize the fine hand of Fisher design. In its balance and poise you will see experienced engineering. And in performance—that final standard by which all cars are judged—you will find the Marquette leading its price class by an impressive margin. Be on hand when this eventful new car is shown Saturday. See what a remarkable new automobile Buick has produced at a price within the reach of millions.

SCHOOLS ADOPTING
PRESSURE COOKER

Proves Solution of Rural School Children's Warm Lunch Problem.

Getting a hot dish for the children's lunch in rural school, is a problem that has been worked on by parents, teachers and school boards alike, because they all realize how much good this can do the children, especially in severe weather.

Its simple solution is found when a pressure cooker is added to the school equipment, because in this way the food can be prepared quickly, inexpensively and without adding a lot of extra work and responsibility to the teacher.

Soup is one of the best hot dishes to serve because it takes the place of a beverage and at the same time affords a great deal of nourishment.

The bowl of soup should, of course, be supplemented by the child's own lunch box from home, with its sandwich, fruit and nuts. Bake beans are also good cooked this way.

Before the close of school the teacher will ask some three or four children to bring some one item each to contribute to the soup-pot—a soup bone, a vegetable chopped up, some beans soaked overnight, or whatever tomorrow's soup may call for.

The parents' co-operation must first be won before this program can be started, and then care must be taken to see that the children are called on for supplies in rotation. Staples such as salt and other seasoning can be kept on hand.

In the morning the ingredients are placed immediately in the cooker and thirty minutes before the soup is to be served the pressure cooker is put on the fire—over the stove if there is no other heat available. By using the pressure cooker soup which would otherwise require several hours simmering can be prepared in half an hour and all the mineral salts and vitamins will be preserved instead of boiled away.

The resourceful teacher will have no difficulty in getting the children interested in helping and will make this an opportunity to teach them lessons in co-operation and personal responsibility as well as the more concrete lessons of simple cooking, the elements of food chemistry and the necessity for right eating. The increased alertness and attentiveness of her well-nourished pupils will more than repay the costs and effort involved.

NO ODOR TO FISH
COOKED WITH A
PRESSURE COOKER

The sensible woman gives her family fish at least once a week, both in the interests of variety and because it is rich in mineral salts, phosphorus and calcium, which are builders of bone and teeth. From the housewife's point of view the chief objection to cooking fish is the odor which she is accustomed to associating with it.

These difficulties, according to the National School of Pressure Cooking, are overcome by cooking the fish in a pressure cooker. There will be no odor, either escaping into the room or affecting other food in the cooker at the same time. Furthermore, all the delicate flavor is retained as well as the life-giving mineral salts, and the flakes will be solid yet tender. Much of this is due to the brief space of time required for cooking under pressure, which also means a considerable fuel economy. Again, many of the tiny bones which are apt to make fish eating a wary occupation are so gelatinized by being cooked in this way that they can be safely eaten without noticing them.

Any fish which you could normally bake is better done in your pressure cooker. First see that it is thoroughly clean. Then season and wrap in a strip of clean cheesecloth and place in the inset dish of the cooker. Peeled potatoes may be put in the same dish. Fill the cooker with warm water up to the rack, put in the inset dishes and fasten the cover properly in position. For three pounds of fish cook 12 to 15 minutes at 15-lb. pressure, and your fish is perfectly done and ready to serve.

A complete and well-balanced meal of fish, potatoes, buttered beans and steamed apple pudding can be prepared in a pressure cooker at one time.

OWL-LAFFS

O. W. L.
(On With Laughter)

Here's a story they tell on a man at Florin. His wife went away and upon her return the son said: "Dad had a party while you were gone, mother."

She replied: "Who was here?" The boy replied: "I don't know but I heard Dad calling up for Johnny Walker."

Of course, we've had Prohibition so darn long that I believe the above joke will fall flat.

An autoist from town saw an old lady standing by the roadside. He stopped and she accepted an invitation to ride along. After he had gone three miles he said: "Just where shall I drop you off?" She replied: "Anywhere at all sir. I was going the other way but I didn't like to hurt your feelings."

A fellow had trouble with his tonsils so he went down and asked Doc Stoner what he could give him for them. Doc said: "I don't buy them, I remove them."

Met a fellow Saturday night. He was stewed to the gills so I asked his wife what was wrong. She said some one sent him a half pint of liquor as a joke. I replied: "I see he can take a joke all right."

A young lady on Mount Joy St. thinks her beau doesn't like her any more because he has been leaving of late before his intended father-in-law kicked him out.

A conversation between two Mannheim street gentlemen of color. One said: "What am de most dispopular letter in de alphabet?" The other replied: "X am."

A fellow from town who is attending college was home recently. His mother said to him: "What's your roommate like?" He said: "Darn near everything I've got."

Roy Sheetz says that taking a wife to Paris is about as bad as bringing a bottle of beer to a brewery.

Charlie Roth said he attended a dance recently and the floor was so crowded that he blew his handkerchief on somebody else's nose.

A little fellow on North Market street ran into the house the other day and asked his father where ink comes from. The man replied: "From incubators. Now run on out with the boys."

Charlie Bennett thinks that in vaudeville shows, much depends on the girl's clothes. Well, if that's the case they have mighty little to depend upon.

Lester Roberts told me that once upon a time a lady said to him: "Tis better to have loved a short guy and lost than never to have loved a tall."

Of course, that was many years ago. A young fellow in town was asked to join a lodge. He said he would provide the following was the creed: Enter in and be at ease! Do just anything you please! Rob the attic, rob the cellars, We're not proud— We're all good fellows.

"That's a new one on me," said the monkey as he scratched his back.

I think it would be a mighty good idea if people who lived in glass houses had neighbors with glass eyes.

Here's a conversation I overheard up at the postoffice the other night: "Was I stewed last night?" "Was you?—say, when I saw you last night, you had just dropped a penny in a mail box outside the Woolworth Building and was looking to see how much you weighed."

But really I don't think that a bird in the hand is worth as much as two swallows in the bush.

One of our young sheiks told his Columbia girl he wished he had money enough to get married. She said blushing: "What would you do?" He replied: "I would spend it traveling."

And the next night that very same fellow was hunting a new girl at Manheim.

A young lady here is learning to drive a car. She told me she had taken ten lessons already and can't

HELD A BANQUET

Heisey, accompanied by Miss Violet Gerber; reading, Martha Engle; vocal solo, Fern Burrell, accompanied by Mrs. Arthur Burrell; Four short talks were then given, the theme being, "Essentials of Building a Home," and were ably discussed as follows: "Beauty of the Home is Order," Miss Eunice Herr; "Blessing of the Home is Contentment," Mrs. Clinton Eby, Jr.; "Glory of the Home is Hospitality," Miss Ruth Derr; "Crown of Home is Godliness," Mrs. H. S. Kiefer; prayer, Miss Edna Pennell; offering; hymn, 188; benediction. The business session of the Women's Missionary Society convened for a short session.

Following the adjournment of the meeting the officers of the Otterbein Guild and Women's Missionary Society and the members and guests of these societies journeyed to the banquet hall of the church, which was beautifully decorated in purple and white crepe paper. The tables were beautified with baskets of flowers. During the banquet, "Fellowship" was furthered by song. Song sheets were distributed among the guests. A quotation from James Whitcomb Riley, "It's the songs ye sing 'an' the smiles ye wear, that's makin' the sunshine everywhere," was at the top of each sheet.

Miss Ruth Brubaker acted as hostess to the occasion while Miss Martha Engle lived up the folks with her enthusiastic cheer leading. Toasts were given to several guests and after songs and cheers, the guests departed to their respective homes, with the thought "to appreciate our mothers more."

Immediately after the banquet, little Miss Vivian Kline, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Kline, sang a pleasing solo.

About 75 guests were present, and all reported a fine, get-together meeting.

Seek Better Pastures

Pasture improvement is an important question with many Pennsylvania dairymen. Fifty-one Wyoming Co. farmers attended a recent meeting for the discussion of this important subject. These men prefer to have blue grass instead of weeds in their pastures.

even start the car. I said: "Your chauffeur must be very stupid." She replied: "No-o, very handsome."

"Fadder, you told me you would give me a dollar every time I got an A in collich. Fadder, I made two last week.

"Well, here's two dollar. Now quit studying so much. It's bad for you."

We've got a business man here in town who is quite a vegetarian. He says: "Work is my meat."
