Hymn—Strew Blossoms Bright

We gather round these graves today
With slow and solemn tread;
A grateful tribute we would pay
To our heroic dead.

Our life pursuits we put aside,
To cover o'er with flowers
The graves of those who nobly died,
To save this land of ours.

'Mid din and smoke of conflicts hot,
They battled side by side,
In freedom's name they nobly fought,
In freedom's cause they died.

Their lives they cheerfully resigned,
Their country's flag to save,
Left home and country dear, to find
And fill a soldier's grave.

Prayer—Rev. R. C. Bair

Music by band while graves are being decorated

Column will form in regular order and proceed to Union cemetery

Ceremonies at Union Cemetery

Hymn—Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean

Oh, Columbia, the gem of the ocean,
The home of the brave and the free,
The shrine of each patriot's devotion,
A world offers homage to thee.

When Liberty's form stands in view;
Thy banners make tyranny tremble,
When borne by the red, white and blue.

When borne by the red, white and blue,
When borne by the red, white and blue,
Thy banners make tyranny tremble,
When borne by the red, white and blue.

When war wing'd its wide desolation,
And threaten'd the land to deform,
The ark then of freedom's foundation,
Columbia, rode safe thro' the storm;

With the garlands of victory around her,
When so proudly she bore her brave crew,
With her flag proudly floating before her,

The boast of the red, white and blue,
With her flag proudly floating before her,
The boast of the red, white and blue.

Prayer—Rev. Luther Straley

Odd Divorce Customs Found Among Malays

There is a peculiar Malay tribe in Sumatra, numbering only a few hundred persons, who spend their entire lives on the water, a small boat being their lifelong home. The stern of the craft has the rudest kind of a shelter, while amidships there is an arrangement of stone on which a fire is built. Forward there are baskets and other means of carrying fish and other commodities which these persons gather and trade. They have no laws or organization, but they have rather definite ideas of marriage and divorce. The lover man, meeting the girl of his choice, asks her parents. If found to be agreeable the youth has to pay down 2 Dutch dollars (equal to 30 guilders); that is, if he is able to. But he also may purchase on the installment plan and make time payments. But in this case he cannot get a divorce unless the full amount is paid to the wife. The pair then go through a ceremony. If the husband wants a divorce, then he loses the 30 guilders paid, but if the wife wants to get divorced, then she must pay 120 guilders to the husband, which she will be able to do only in the rarest cases. If the man gets his divorce, then he may decide whether the children must go with him or whether they may remain with the mother; if the wife obtains a divorce and has paid the 120 guilders, then the children may choose for themselves.

Simple Way to Handle Child's Fear of Dark

If your child develops a fear of the dark, do you know how to handle it? It is possible to cure him in a very simple way. When you put him to bed tonight, leave the door partly open and a dim light burning in the hall. The child will go to sleep. Then, gradually, close the door a little and dim the light a little every night. If you work patiently, four or five nights will enable you to recondition the child so that the door can be closed and the light turned out. If you do not control the child in this patient way, you may, by shouting at him or spanking him, keep him from whimpering out loud when you put him to bed in the dark, but he will lie in bed trembling with fear. This is not your aim. Your real purpose should be to remove the fear, to recondition the child.—Children, the Magazine for Parents.

Good Qualities of Fruits

Nutrition and Diet says: "The apple leads among the orchard fruits. It carries small amounts of vitamins A, B, and C. It has definite laxative properties, probably owing to the large cellulose content. The young apple contains a large amount of starch, but as it ripens this is rapidly converted into sugar until when fully ripe it contains little or no starch. The acid content decreases as the sugar increases. In like manner its pectin, valuable in the formation of jelly, decreases with the ripening process. The citrus fruits are next in importance to the apple, and their culture is being enormously increased. Oranges come first. They offer an excellent source of readily assimilable glucose, and for this reason orange juice is used when there is necessity for quick-assimilable carbohydrate which will throw the least burden on the digestive organs. The orange contains both vitamins A and B."

Samplers in History

The earliest mention of a sampler so far found is in 1502, when Elizabeth of York paid 8 pence for an ell of linen cloth to make one. A sampler is referred to by John Shelton, the poet, about the same time. Originally samplers were intended for practical purposes. Needlework and embroidery were practically the only relaxation of women at that time and samplers were made for "handkerchiefs, tablecloths, sheets, towels, napkins and pillow bearers." The earliest American sampler was that of Loara Standish. The next reported was that of Mary Hollingsworth of Salem, which was probably made about 1695. Sarah Lord made one in 1698.

Trees Don't Freeze

Notwithstanding the popular belief that trees freeze in the winter, scientific investigation has proved, according to a Belle Isle forester, that they cannot freeze but remain dormant during the winter much like certain wild animals. "Every day or so some one asks about the trees freezing," he said, "and they seem to doubt my word. Sap circulation stops in the winter and the cells remain inactive. The sap congeals and prevents freezing else the tree would die. Sometimes frost will split a tree trunk open but this is due to contraction and expansion and not to freezing."—Detroit News.

Aids to Cool Greeting

One of the prized curios found occasionally in England is the round pocket hand cooler. These implements were spheroids of clear glass and were used 150 years ago by society favorites who considered it necessary to have their hands cool when the gallant men bent low and kissed the fair one's hand in greeting. If the lady had one of the cool glass balls in her hand, which was extended to cover the hand, she was supposed to be meeting the highest demands of social correctness. Some of the balls were striped in colors to conform with the lady's costume.—Detroit News.

Father Abraham Wise in Departing From Ur

The diggers, comments the Montreal Star, have uncovered the city of Ur, the place Father Abraham left because he felt the need of expansion. Ur, it appears, had a luxurious civilization and the women wore hair nets. The hair nets may have had something to do with Abraham's moving on to wider fields. To a man with the pioneer spirit hair nets for women must have looked like the last word in superfluous expenditure, especially if, as was the custom among the patriarchs, he had a number of wives all of whom would want hair nets.

At all events Abraham decided to get out of the hair net district and so he embarked on the great adventure which persists to this day. It may be news to Abraham that ten of the tribes—that posterity numberless as the sands of the desert—were lost, even more completely lost than the city of Ur, which has just been unearthed after 6,000 years in the grave, but the other ten tribes found themselves on their feet wherever they fetched up and are now among the solidest citizenry of the world. Abraham will be glad to hear this. He made no mistake in leaving Ur, the hair net city. In vain was the hair net spread in the sight of the victim. Abraham was too wise to be taken in that snare. He took himself and his daughters and his wives and his maid-servants out of the reach of temptation. His sons, having families of their own, shared Abraham's dislike of hair nets and needed no arguments, to emigrate.

In the light of history, we repeat that Abraham made no mistake in leaving Ur. And even if he did, to Ur is human, to forgive divine.—Washington Post.

Roman Bridges Excite Wonder of Engineers

Among the notable bridge-building achievements of history are those constructed in the days of the Roman empire, says a writer in the Detroit News. Some of them still are in use, to the amazement of engineers, while others stand in broken majesty, the results of earthquakes or of purposed human destruction, for the delight and wonder of all beholders.

The two bridges, which lead from the Forum side of Rome to the Island in the Tiber and on to the Trastevere, or St. Peter's side, were built in the Second century, B. C. They have been used very much more than the Apian Way viaduct. They have stood there against frequent floods and constant usage these 2,000 years and they hold fast to keep on standing. The fine bridge across the Tiber, north of Rome, built to carry the Flaminian way northward, is another good example of a bridge more than 2,000 years old, which has seen steady and hard use and still appears as good as ever.

Diet for Sailors

The serving of proper food at sea has always presented great difficulty. People not familiar with naval service often wonder what the sailorman eats while away from port. In 1794 each man got one pound of bread, one pound of pork, one-half pint of beans or peas, four ounces of cheese and one-half pint of distilled spirits a day. As late as 1887 the diet was built around bread, salt, or pickled beef or pork, peas or beans, potatoes, cheese, sugar, coffee and tea. A typical breakfast of the up-to-date man-of-war consists of chilled grapefruit, french toast, soft-boiled eggs, bread, butter, coffee. Dinner brings vegetable soup, pea soup, gravies, creamed corn, combination salad, pie, bread, butter and coffee.

Telephone Efficiency

When is an inch equivalent to four miles? The answer is when you hold your mouth away from a telephone transmitter. When you place your lips at an angle to the mouth-piece or show your aloofness toward this mechanical ear in some other way, you thereby push your listener miles away from you.

W. A. Jackson, superintendent of telegraph of the Michigan Central railroad, figured out this loss of speaking efficiency and sent a memorandum about it to all his employees. He advised: "Talk directly into the telephone transmitter at a distance of not more than one-half inch, using a clear, moderate tone."

Uncertainty of Life

Ah, fool! why dost thou think to live long, when thou art not sure of one day? How many have been decapitated and have been unexpectedly snatched from the body? How often hast thou heard it related such an one was slain by the sword, another was drowned, another falling from on high broke his neck, this man grew stark in chewing his food, that other came to his end when he was at play? Some have perished by fire, some by steel, some by pestilence, and some by robbers. Thus death is the end of all; and man's life passes suddenly like a shadow. Who will remember thee after death, and who will pray for thee?—Kansas City Times.

Health Hint

Life insurance companies find it pays to spend millions in campaigns of health education. It pays also for the individual to educate himself in the rules and practices of personal hygiene.

John DeHoff Honored

Mr. John A. DeHoff, merchant at Maytown, was named to the Board of Education at a meeting of the East Pennsylvania Lutheran Evangelical Synod which met at Hummelstown Thursday.
