

FUTURE HUNTING AND FISHING HERE

started to prevent such a condition and today, in many states throughout these United States, the Nimrods of America have either leased or purchased thousands of acres to be set aside for the benefit of its worthy members.

An effort is now being made in this community to organize a Camp of Nimrods somewhere in this locality, the objective of which is to provide a place where its members may hunt and fish. State Organizer, Mr. Berry, is soliciting memberships here and is meeting with good success.

Already a number of local enthusiasts have signed on the dotted line. Only good, clean, honest sportsmen are being solicited and that manner the game hog," if there is such a thing, will be eliminated.

All sportsmen who are interested in the preservation of fish and game should encourage this movement by joining the Nimrods of America.

Mr. Berry will cheerfully call and explain the workings of such an organization.

WASTE POISONS THE CONOY CREEK

feared that it may be injurious to cattle watering there. Elizabethtown Borough council has at various times condemned the disposal of waste products in the creek, and prosecution has been threatened, though no attention has been paid to the orders.

Unless the above practice is discontinued, prosecution will likely be brought.

Situation Here
Some years ago Brown's Cotton Mill here dumped its dye water into the Little Chickies creek and the State Fish Commission made them stop it. Now this firm is again doing the same thing.

Last Summer the editor of the Bulletin put half a can of fish and a number of gold fish into a spring east of town into which Browns' are dumping their dye water and waste. Every fish died within a few days.

It would be well for Mr. Sanda of the State Fish Commission, to come here and look the situation over.

TWO LARGE BARN ARE DESTROYED

cluding the season's crops and the farming implements, a chicken house in which were about 25 chickens, a hog sty with four large hogs and several other small buildings. The loss is covered by insurance.

The blaze was discovered by John Gibble, son of the farmer, when he opened the barn door to take a horse and mule out to water them. As the door swung back the flames burst forth and the draft fanned the blaze so that in a short time the entire interior was ablaze. The animals were taken out safely.

Jacob Horst, who was working on an adjoining farm, also owned by J. E. Baker saw the fire and ran to Billmyer to call for help. Bainbridge fire company responded but could do little to check the flames.

It is rumored that a fifteen-year old youth and several companions were seen loitering about the place shortly before the fire was discovered and that they may have been playing with matches in the barn. No charges have been brought.

The Longenecker Fire
A blaze, which caused a loss of $25,000, was started by a boy near Milton Grove who applied a match to a pile of straw so he could "see a little bon fire" Thursday afternoon.

Five buildings were burned on the Milton Grove farm, owned by Ephraim Longenecker, of Elizabethtown, and tenanted by his son, Victor Longenecker, after an adopted son of the farmer had set fire to some loose straw while playing with matches.

The boy, Kenneth Brodecker, 14, who had been adopted recently, declared that before he realized the danger, large straw stack was ablaze. After he tried in vain to extinguish it with a bucket of water, he set up frantic cries for help, attracting the attention of another adopted son of the younger Longenecker, Charles S. Funnmiller, 15, who was helping to paint a room in the farm house.

The Funnmiller boy rushed to the barn which had been ignited by the blazing straw stack, and at the risk of his life saved ten steers, dashing into the burning building several times to bring the righted animals to safety.

Longenecker, who was working in a field, learned of the fire when he saw smoke issuing from the barn. With the aid of neighbors he saved most of the farm implements and an automobile, after summoning the Rheems, Elizabethtown and Mt. Joy fire companies.

House Saved
The firemen worked feverishly to save the farmhouse, which was afire when they arrived. The barn, tobacco shed, garage, chicken house and pig sty were razed.

The crops including 225 bushels of wheat, 30 tons of straw, the same amount of hay, some corn and several pieces of machinery were destroyed.

THE WOMEN ARE BETTER THAN MEN

operators to say frequently, "Aw, it's a woman driving!" but the statistics are all on the side of women drivers," said Eynon.

"The total number of operators and holders of learners' permits registered to July 1, 1929, approximated 1,900,000. Of this number 24.45 per cent. were women, or 464,500. During the first half of the year thirty-seven women drivers figured in fatal accidents, or one to each 12,550 women registered.

"The total number of men registered to July 1 was 1,435,450. The number of male drivers in fatal accidents was 949, or one man in each 1513 registered.

"Eight times as many men figured in fatal accidents as women. "In non-fatal accidents 27,528 men and 1535 women were concerned.

Again the men get the worst of it. Of one in each fifty-two registered is involved, but only one woman in each 299 registered. Nearly six men for each woman.

"Inasmuch as nearly all collisions are caused by mental lapses it may follow that women are cerebrally better equipped to operate motor cars, but I am not going into that proposition. Mental lapses include not only sins of commission, but of omission—and one of the most vital sins of omission is failure to keep equipment in good mechanical order. Hence the necessity for the period of compulsory inspection of equipment recently ordered by Governor Fisher. The man who knows his brakes are faulty is more to blame for an accident than the man whose brakes fail him."

ELIZABETHTOWN

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver A. Kepler and Mr. Benjamin B. Gebhart, of Renova, motored here over the week end to visit Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Snavely. Miss Anna Gebhart accompanied them home, to visit several weeks among relatives and friends.

MORE ABOUT OUR PUBLIC LIBRARY

our history to find other men, who were self taught men. The way isn't always open for the boy or girl, who desires an education to acquire books, but does not have the money to buy books, nor any place to borrow them. Andrew Carnegie was one of the fortunate.

The public library is a friend in need. The books in a public library under a trained librarian are carefully selected to meet the needs of the community. Under the librarian's guidance a course in reading or study may be planned that will help in acquiring either a general or a technical education.

When thinking of a public library the general thought is too often that the library is for recreation only. The other side of the library is forgotten.

Mt. Joy does need a recreation center, of some kind, that young and old could feel free to go to and spend what otherwise might be an empty evening. It needs a library, that can supply recreational reading, pure enjoyment, humorous books, adventure stories, detective stories, and what not. It needs, also, a library that can answer questions, find facts and statistics, and supply general information.

Mr. Reist has made a generous offer to the community. He had the welfare of his home town in mind, when he offered $50,000 to the town. The only restrictions placed upon it are that a library building be erected, and that the income from the portion put aside for endowment be used to purchase and care for books. The opportunity is Mt. Joy's. An opportunity that may never come again. The first that has ever come in its history.

Mt. Joy has the chance to be a leader in a movement in a county which is especially backward in library work. We do not know of a taxed supported library in our county, but many of the other counties in this state, have them. Outside of this state, taxation is the usual way of supporting public libraries. The Middle West and the New England states are dotted with town libraries. Many of the towns are smaller than Mt. Joy. If they did not mean something essential to the life of their communities, would they maintain them year after year? Would the large cities, build not only magnificent main buildings, but branch buildings in many sections of the city, if they were not necessities? Look where you will, you will find that wherever a library has been established and well maintained, it has become an integral part of a community.

FIXES THE TIME TO INSPECT MOTORS

fact. Announcement of them will be made as soon as possible by Benjamin G. Eynon, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles.

The motor vehicle code for 1929 makes submission of cars by every owner compulsory. Thirty days are granted delinquents after the final date. If they have not then complied they will be subject to arrest.

The inspections will be the second made in Pennsylvania, although mandatory for the first time. No penalties were inflicted for failure to have cars looked last year. More than 1,500,000 motorcar owners in the State are affected by Wednesday's proclamation.

After a car has been inspected, a sticker will be issued which is to be attached to the windshield, provided the machine is in condition. If not, the sticker is withheld until repairs are made. Any person driving without the sticker after the period of grace has expired will be halted and made to comply with the regulation.

Enforcement of the inspection campaign will be in the hands of the Department of Revenue, which has taken over the Bureau of Motor Vehicles and the Motor Patrol.

The new code also legalizes placing of inspection notices on the highways. In issuing his proclamation, Governor Fisher said: "I earnestly call upon all owners and operators of motor vehicles to have their motor vehicles inspected during the period as required by Act of Assembly, approved May 1, 1929, and upon learning of any defects in mechanism or equipment or the improper adjustment thereof, to have such defects eliminated and such adjustments corrected immediately."
