LOTS ARE DRAWN TO NAME BISHOP

MR. HENRY LUTZ WEST OF TOWN NAMED MENNONITE OFFICIAL IN LANDISVILLE AREA

Holding to the traditions of their faith, members of the Mennonite church, of near town, named Henry Lutz, as a bishop, by drawing lots at a meeting held in the Landisville Mennonite church. There were five candidates for the position. The new bishop was immediately ordained and will serve as assistant to Bishop Isaac Brubaker who has charge of the Landisville district.

After devotional services the picturesque ceremony of choosing a bishop was held. The candidates for the high office of the church left the church auditorium and five books were placed upon a table before the pulpit. In one book the presiding officer inserted a slip of paper. Rates of the church say that the candidate choosing the book that contains the slip of paper becomes the congregation's choice for the office.

After the paper had been inserted the candidates were recalled to positions before the pulpit and one by one each chose a book. The books were opened and revealed that Mr. Lutz was the successful candidate.

Just where and when the practice of selecting Bishops by lot started is problematical. Members of the Mennonite faith believe that each of the candidates in such a service possesses equal qualifications for the task. By inserting the slip of paper in the Bible they hope to have Divine guidance in selecting the man who plays a big part in the life of the denomination.
