PRODUCE & LIVE STOCK MARKET

CORRECT INFORMATION FURNISHED WEEKLY BY THE PENNA. BUREAU OF MARKETS FOR THE BULLETIN

Receipts of asparagus were rather light but much of the stock showed more white than usual and the market was generally weaker except on fancy green stock. Very large sold at 3.00 to 4.00 per dozen bunches, large 2.00 to 3.00, medium 1.75 to 2.25 and small 1.00 to 1.50 with the greenest stock selling at the top prices of each grade according to the Pennsylvania and Federal Market News Service.

Strawberries met a good demand and the market was firm. New Jersey stock sold at 4.00 to 6.00 fancy large 6.50 to 7.50 and poorer 3.50 per 32 qt. crate while Md. and Dela. stock brought 3.50 to 5.50, fancy large 5.50 to 6.00 with some poor stock as low as 2.50.

Spinach was in slow demand and sold at 15c to 30c per bushel with some fancy bringing 40c, while kale brought 10c to 30c, mustard greens 15c to 30c and turnip greens 15c to 25c. Rhubarb was about steady and brought 1 1/2c to 2 1/2c per bunch while spring onions sold at 1.00 to 1.25 per 100 bunches.

Beets were in heavier supply and New Jersey stock brought 2c to 5c per bunch with most stock selling at 3c to 4c per bunch. Some fancy stock in crates sold at higher prices. Escarole sold slowly at 25c to 30c per bushel while collards brought 10c to 30c.

Letuces continued to meet a slow demand and New Jersey crates Big Boston sold at 35c to 1.00 according to quality while Romaine brought 50 to 75c per crate. Radishes were in lighter supply and New Jersey % baskets red brought 65c to 85c. New Jersey peas sold at 1.00 to 1.50 per % basket while bushels brought $1.50 to 2.00.

Beef steers and yearlings closing steady with early weeks decline, some firmness shown on better grades, top $12.00, average wt. 1300 pounds, bulk of sales $10.00—10.75. Bulls, she stock and cutters practically unchanged, bulk beef bulls $8.50—9.25, fat heifers $9.25—10.00, butcher cows $7.50—8.25, cutters $4.00—5.00. Stockers and feeders slow, about steady, most sales $8.50—10.00. Calves fully steady, top vealers $13.00.

HOGS: Steady to strong, top 160—230 lb. weights $11.75, bulk local feds $10.75—11.00.

Grow Raspberries

Numerous markets in the state make small fruit production a profitable venture. Cumberland and Plum Farmer are recommended black raspberries, Lathan, Cuthbert, Ontario, and Viking are the best red raspberry varieties, and Columbia is the leading purple raspberry.

Confine Growing Poultry

Turkeys can be brooded successfully on platforms and the method is advocated where no range free from contamination is available.

The Last Hope for Helen

By JANE OSBORN

"ISN'T there some one else you can think of—a sort of last hope?" Daisy McNair suggested.

"I've asked every man I know," Helen Proctor said ruefully. She paused a minute and then ventured: "But maybe you could ask a last hope for me."

The much-heralded Junior prom at Tilden college for women was just a week off. But Helen wished that Junior proms had never been invented. Young and rather shy, she had not liked the idea of asking an escort, but had finally invited Harold Granger, a childhood friend. She had promptly received word from Harold that as he had already accepted an invitation from another girl in another college for a dance on the same night, he could not accept. Then she had written to Walter Drew, who adored Helen's sister, and little Helen, not being at all interested in little Helen, had fabricated an excuse. Then she asked Ned Stevens whom she had met the summer before and a letter had soon followed from Ned's mother saying that as Ned had the measles he would not be able to come. There were no more men in Helen's list of acquaintances—not even a last hope.

Daisy thought a minute or two as they continued their way down one of the campus walks. "There's Bob King—Tom's buddy—I could ask him for you—he'd come, but dear me, he's impossible. The best hope just about describes him—perfectly enormous and doesn't give a snap for girls and dances like a walrus. He'd come because Tom would make him."

The prom was booked for Friday night. Wednesday afternoon Helen received a special delivery letter from her first hope, Harold Granger. "Harold is coming after all," she cried in joy to Daisy. "The other girl and he had a scrap—so you can just let that Bob person know we won't need him after all."

Then on the morning mall, next day, came a letter from Walter Drew. He had decided to come, he said, and was now on his way—he as much as said that Helen's sister had insisted on this piece of self-denial on his part. "He's on his way," thought Helen, "so there's nothing to do about it. Well, he can just come and find out that he isn't needed. Serves him right."

Friday afternoon Helen went to the railroad station to meet Harold Granger on the train she had told him to take—and as she stood there looking searchingly down the platform, up came the youthful Ned Stevens. "Well, I come anyway," he said. "I see you got mother's telegram—and were expecting me—I was afraid you mightn't get it in time. You see it wasn't measles after all—just a cold—and I'm all right now and mother said that I'd better come, as she was afraid you'd be so disappointed and would miss all the fun without a man."

But the artless Ned got no further for just at this juncture up stepped Harold Granger with breezy non-chalance.

Helen showed the boys about the campus, and they went at four o'clock for tea at the Blue Heron, and Helen thrilled at the thought that she was sitting there with two escorts. It did give one an air of great popularity. And just as she was enjoying this situation so rare for her, there appeared a slender, dignified, young man in the doorway of the little tea room. He looked around and then came toward her. It was Walter Drew. He had arrived by motor, looked for her everywhere, and had finally been told that she might be at the Blue Heron. Helen was standing almost hidden by her bodyguard of three black-clad men when Daisy McNair with Tom and the Last Hope appeared. They caught a glimpse of Helen and came sailing over to her. Daisy explained to Helen in an aside that the message had never reached Tom and so he had brought Bob as he had promised.

Daisy shook hands with this fourth and tallest of her escorts and wondered how anyone could ever have thought him ungainly or dubbed him a last hope.

By all means Helen was the belle of the ball that night—if there are such things at modern college dances. The story of her enormous popularity spread until everyone was talking about this wonderful girl who had four escorts. They didn't know that Harold had come merely because he had had a quarrel with the girl he loved and wanted to make her jealous, that Walter had come because Helen's sister had promised to marry him if he did, that Ned had come because his mother wanted him to, and had promised him a new car if he would, and that Bob had come because of his devotion for his buddy, Tom.

But Bob forgot his motive in coming before he had finished the first dance with Helen. Before the evening was over he was in love with her and madly jealous of the other three men who claimed a share of her charming company—of every man, in fact, whose arms encircled her when she danced.

When Tom and Bob motored back to the city late the next afternoon Bob had received a timid, faltering acceptance to his nasty proposal.

Canada Finds Gold in Fish

Fish caught off the coasts of Canada in the Atlantic and Pacific oceans in 1929 totaled 1,024,221,000 pounds, valued at $26,170,250.

Produce Large Litters

Ten litters in Pennsylvania have averaged 10 pigs each. The smallest number was seven and the largest 18. As the cost per pig at weaning time varies largely on the number of pigs raised per sow, it is very important to use ton litter methods, save a large number of pigs, and have them as big and thrifty as possible at weaning time.

Relief From Curse of Constipation

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause." But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c to-day at the nearest Rexall Drug Store.

THE COUNTRY NEWSPAPER OF GREAT VALUE

ACCORDING TO STATEMENT OF NOTED EDITORIAL WRITER—PROVEN BY FACTS

Arthur Brisbane, one of the best minds of the time, says:

"H. Z. Mitchell's 'Sentinel,' published at Bermidji, Minn., wins the prize as best weekly in the National Editorial Contest. This is a good time to remind the public in general, and national advertisers in particular, that country weekly newspapers are the most important organs of public opinion and protectors of public welfare.

"And, their advertising per mill line, is not excelled by any publication, of any kind.

"The reader of a country weekly buys everything from shingles on the roof to cement in the cellar floor, and every advertiser has in him a possible customer."
