Well Folks, if you believe the Bible is a lie and that your grand-dad was an ape and all of the star-spangled hot-air that has been broadcasted—we warn you not to read this column to-day, because we are very apt to say something that might ruffle up your monkey fur a bit.

We sure had a funny one here Thursday evening. Hank Weaver, of Elizabethtown, and Young Fee-sey, of Lebanon, were out celebrating a little Thursday evening. They went to Joe Hershey's barber shop where each cut the other's hair. The hair cut was quite simple—one swath of the clippers over the back of the head and another up past each ear and the work was finished.

Immediately after the artistic work they went to a dance. There sure is a lot of satisfaction getting hit by a motorist on a one-way street. You can always tell which way you're gonna fly when you get socked.

They tell me that we have a member in our Friendship Fire Co. who always wants to let a fire burn up a bit so you can see what you're doing.

A chap here was struck by an automobile and he looked as though a cyclone struck him. He said he didn't mind a thing except that he had just had his suit pressed.

Here's one happened over at Lebanon recently. A fellow there stole a cow, tied her behind his Ford and then drove over to Elizabethtown on low gear and swapped Mrs. Cow on a gallon of moonshine.

Did you ever know that we have a deuce of a lot of second story men right here in Mt. Joy? The kind that tell their wives a story and if she believes it they tell their second story.

One of our local hunters claims that he always did like snipe hunting much better because you don't chase them on horses.

Shorty Engle says he wishes he knew how to get the old hens which he buys to reduce so they'd look like pullets.

Had some foolish questions popped at me again. One chap said that he bought Wildcat Oil at 26 and asked me what he should do. I told him: "Regret it."

Another bird asked me the best way to get a good pull anywhere. I told him to get a real strong rope.

A man told me yesterday that if times don't darn soon get better, most of the Christmas buying will be alibi-ing.

An inventor has perfected a machine which cleans, scrapes and cuts off the head, fins and tail of a ten-pound salmon in thirty seconds. Just wait 'til our laundry hears about it.

Fifty gallons of wine were recently stolen from an Ohio jail. Oh, well, no doubt the police know where they can get some more!

And in view of the increasing popularity of very small autos, one should look both ways and down before crossing the street.

Would You Believe It?
Four weeks after, "Bossy," a cow owned by Q. Q. Cuthbert of Bojack, Iowa, swallowed an Ingersoll watch her twin calves were born with wrist-watches strapped to their tails. Twenty years later when "Bossy" was butchered it was found that the watch she had swallowed had grown into a mahogany Grandfather's clock, and had gained twelve hours.

MOUNT JOY AND LEBANON GAME ENDS SCORELESS

The local gridirers, held the fast Hebron Green Jackets of Lebanon, to a scoreless tie Sunday afternoon on the Brown Athletic field at Mt. Joy, in one of the closest games of the season with both squads playing a good brand of ball.

The game remained nip and tuck for a good part of the time, aside from several spurts in which both aggregations featured on separate occasions.

The playing ability of both Mount Joy and Lebanon, was exerted to the limit at times, but neither squad was able to score a marker at any time, despite the fact that numerous opportunities presented themselves to both aggregations, nor was either team able to get nearer than their own 12 yard line at any time of the clash.

Through the fast end runs Amos Herr, flashy Mount Joy, right half back for 15 to 25 yards at a time, coupled with his long, hard, swift punts for 45 and 50 yards, Mount Joy was enabled to gain considerable territory during the first half, and managed to outplay the visitors from the Lebanon Bologna town, in practically every phase of the pig skin art.

During the greater part of the entire first half, the ball remained in the Mount Joy territory, as a stone wall defense on the part of the Mount Joy held the visitors to few if any gains in yardage.

One aerial attack after another enabled Coach Brown's eleven to gain consistently until they neared their own fifteen yard line, only to lose the ball on downs, as one forward pass after another was blocked, knocked down, fumbled or otherwise incompleated with victory only a few yards away.

The second half demonstrated a reverse in offensive playing, and found the Lebanon Jackets slightly outclassing the Mount Joy eleven, as Greenawalt, fast full back for the visitors, executed several long, sensational end runs for 20 to 30 yards at a time. A center trick play in the Lebanon 25 yard line, and short gains by Kiscaden, Shalk and Grace enabled the visitors to reach their 12 yard line, only to lose the ball on downs just a dozen paces away from victory. Similar forward passes and long hard punts brought Lebanon near their own goal line on several occasions but last minute tosses for a touchdown failed to reach their mark as Mount Joy frequently intercepted, blocked or knocked down, the ball to hold the score at a scoreless tie. The defense of the Mount Joy line, and hard plays by Halbleib, Schatz and Niese, also featured the game.

Matter of Orderliness

More Than Being "Tidy"
If you talk to some folk about their lack of orderliness, they tell you, more often than not, that they cannot be bothered. Somehow they seem to love their disarrays. It is always odd to see a man happily doing his work in the midst of a pile of disordered papers.

It is all very well to enjoy such untidiness; but it does not seem economical; in fact, it is surely a waste of two things: time and measure. Time is, of course, very important in these days of speed, and to the majority of us the probability is that pleasure of orderliness is of second importance. I am not so sure that it is not almost as important as the saving of time. We must not rule out of our consideration psychological values, and that is what pleasure in work is—not only for ourselves, but for others.

Disorderliness in a home, on the bench or desk or table, is not pleasant to look upon. Besides, if we are orderly in our work, we shall be orderly in our mind; that means more effectiveness, and therefore greater success. We have no right to do anything, or have any method or lack of method, that retards progress.—"G. H. G." in London Tit-Bits.

Ancient Cannon Linked With Japanese History

An old Dutch gun was recently located in the Kanazaki shrine, Saga, by Prof. Chozo Muto of the Higher Commercial college of Nagasaki, who is an authority on the history of the early Christian civilization. It has for a long time remained unknown to the public, but when Professor Muto visited the shrine and saw the gun, the marks it bears were declared by him to be those of the United East India company. The gun has also a letter H on it, and Professor Muto believes this to stand for Hoorn, a city in the Netherlands, where there was a branch office of the trading company.

History records that on the outbreak of the riots in Shimabara and Amakusa by the Christians in 1637 against the Tokugawa government rule, the government ordered the governor to mobilize 100,000 troops to bring to an end the civil disturbance. The governor succeeded in defeating the rebels the following year with the assistance of Dutch men-of-war, which were then anchored off Nagasaki. Professor Muto connects this historical fact with the gun that has stood unobserved in the grounds of the Kanazaki shrine.—Osaka Mainichi, Japan.

Cinema Traced to Idea of Photographic "Gun"

Although it is not possible to say that any one person definitely invented the cinematograph, writes the Paris correspondent of the London Daily Telegraph, a large share of credit for the development of this machine is undoubtedly due to the great French scientist, Etienne Marey.

One of his pupils, Prof. Charles Richet, in recalling his outstanding achievements, described him as "the immortal creator of the cinematograph."

M. Marey made important contributions to physiology, as a student of the circulation of the blood, to medicine, to flying and to the cinema. Possibly it was his interest in the movements of animals, and particularly the flight of birds, which led him to concentrate his attention on the making of "moving" pictures. In 1822 he made a photographic "gun" with which he was able to take sixty pictures a second of birds in flight. By 1833 he had produced serviceable cameras and projecting instruments, and it is claimed that these were the first true cinematograph recording and projecting machines.

Growth of Brain

According to various authorities quoted in Hall's "Adolescence," the size of the brain increases but little after eight years. It reaches its maximum size at about 12 to 14, though there may be a very slight growth between 20 and 30. In old age it gradually loses weight and size. "In the boy of 15, the volume of cell bodies is already on the average 124 times their size at birth and by 30 will have increased to 150-fold. Cells constitute but a very small part of the total brain, so that they can increase many fold and not greatly affect its total size or weight."

Organized Beggary

While begging in Japan is not the fine art and honorable calling that it is in some parts of China, nevertheless in Tokyo and other large cities there are hundreds who make their living by soliciting alms in public. Competition incident to a highly commercialized age has made it necessary for these mendicants to organize, and a beggars' guild now enacts and enforces beggars' law. The operations of these persons are limited to three hours each day and they have a Communistic way of sharing their pickings.

Ebb

The San Diego divorce court suddenly came to life. It was the wife who was suing, and for a moment they thought she was a poet. "My husband," she declared, "reminds me of the way the ocean is at times."
"You mean he's so grand," encouraged the court without cracking a smile.
"No," snapped the woman, "I'm referring to ebb tide—when it's all going out and nothing coming in."—Los Angeles Times.

Too Fluent

A war-weary Tommy, elated by prospects of going on leave, was approaching the docks at Boulogne. He had just asked the French porter some question. A torrent of explanatory French followed. The soldier, weighed down by haversacks and equipment, stood stolidly listening and gazing intently at the porter. Finally the verbal torrent ceased. Then Tommy spoke again. "And 'ow does the chorus go, matey?" he asked.—Bairnsfather's Book, "From Mud to Muffl."

Genesis of Train Whistles

Among recent centenarians is that of the first sensational railway accident. It happened at the opening of the Manchester and Liverpool railway, and the victim was a cabinet minister. People had been killed before, but it was felt that, if the high and mighty were in peril, something must be done. So the railway engine whistle was invented to give warning of danger, and Rev. Sydney Smith said it sounded like the despairing squeal of a lawyer when carried off by his master the devil!

New Bait for Trout

"There is no better bait for the brown trout than mice," says Fred Bailey of Harrison, Mich., who had landed a seven pound brown from the headwaters of the Tobacco River while using a small field mouse as a lure.

If you can get amusement out of your own follies you should be able to work up a smile almost any time.

Relief From Curse of Constipation

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause." But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c to-day at the nearest Rexall Drug Store.
