

PERMANENT Beauty of the FORD

THERE are definite reasons why time and weather are kind to the Ford. First is the body finish, with its primer coat, two surface coats, two double coats of pyroxylin lacquer, finish coat.

Another important factor is the use of Rustless Steel for the radiator shell, head lamps, hub caps, coil finish strip, and other exterior parts of bright metal.

This remarkable metal will not rust, corrode or tarnish under the severest weather conditions. It never needs polishing. All it requires is wiping with a damp cloth as you wipe the windshield. Its gleaming luster is never lost. There is nothing to scale or chip off because it is the same bright metal all the way through.

The enduring beauty of the Ford increases your pride of ownership, and is a factor in maintaining resale value. Come in, let us demonstrate these features, and explain to you how the cost of the Ford can remain so low in spite of the extra value.

UNCLE SAM BUYS FIFTEEN HUNDRED FORDS

On June 27, 1931, the United States Post Office Department placed an order with the Washington Branch of the Ford Motor Company for 1,500 motor truck chassis, of which 500 will be 3/4 ton carrying capacity, and 1,000 of 1 1/2 tons carrying capacity. The purchase of the motor equipment was the largest made by a Government Department since the War. With this order Ford sales to the Post Office Department during recent years reached a total of 2,900 units.

The purchase marked another step in the Department's program of building up its fleet of several thousand trucks and also to replace some of the surplus trucks turned over to the Post Office Department by the Army at the close of the war.

Deliveries are to start immediately and continue as rapidly as the bodies contracted for are ready for installation. The completed trucks will then be distributed to some 60 cities throughout the United States.

The order was placed with the Ford Company after an EXHAUSTIVE TEST conducted by the Department with the cooperation of the Bureau of Standards. The tests were under the supervision of W. A. Jacobs, automotive engineer of the Bureau of Standards, and William Wolma, of Chicago and Morris Carrier of Brooklyn, motor vehicle engineers of the Post Office Department.

Health Is Wealth When John D. Rockefeller, one of the richest men in the world, celebrating his ninety-second birthday announces with pride that his "health is good," we know he counts this as one of the chief assets of his great wealth.

Beyond the interest of wealth, in the twilight of life, a rich man is concerned chiefly with health and expresses his hope that everyone shall enjoy real happiness which is based upon good health and contentment.

While most of us probably shall never know great wealth, counted in gold, fortunately nearly every one of us may achieve and enjoy abundant health.

Science has discovered for us the basic principals of good health which are chiefly dietary. Simple foods, well balanced meals, built around a quart of pure fresh milk a day for each and every one of us, together with whole grain cereals, fresh fruits and vegetables, is the rule. Comfortable sort of feeling isn't it to realize that our future health and happiness is no farther away than the kitchens of our own homes?

The New York Times says: "Before wealth meant riches it meant a state of well-being in which health was an essential part. That one of the richest men of all time should be giving good health the first place suggests that the old definition of wealth is after all the best."
