The World's At Your Door

IMMORTALIZED in story and song, the old "corner store" has passed—along with the free potato on the kerosene can, and the customers' access to the crack-box. It was picturesque, but you never quite knew what you would find there. Half the time it was full of people who didn't know what they wanted. The other half, it was empty. It was more of a club than a store.

Today, when you enter your grocery store—or any store—you know what you want, how much you want of it, and the price you are going to pay. Advertising has rendered you this service. It brings you weekly through the columns of The Bulletin, the merchandising opportunities of this community. In the quiet of your own home, you are enabled to select everything you want to buy!

The modern way to be certain of quality and value is to read the advertisements. Representing almost every field of opportunity, the advertising columns of The Bulletin bring you the fascinating story of the whole world's market-place!

Read the advertisements! They are weekly messages of opportunity for you.

Farm Agent, explained that the show is being held for the purpose of choosing exhibits of merit for the state show.

In the tobacco show the various classes will be as follows:
Class I. Stogie wrappers or binders. Exhibits should consist of very fine texture or thin leaf, large clean, uniform in color and with plenty of life.

Class II. Wrapper B's or binders: Good uniform Lancaster county binder type. Is slightly heavier in texture than Class I but should have a free burn and be equally clean and uniform.

Class III. Penna. B's: Will be recognized as good, clean, strong Lancaster county leaf. It is heavier in body than Classes I and II and carries more gum. Color should be uniform.

Class IV. Farm Fillers: Should be clean and sound. Heavy or medium in body, low in oil. Not scrap or dirt. Exhibits in all classes will consist of 15 leaves with a good leaf as a tier.

Three general and two special classes will comprise the corn display. The general classes will be a single ear, ten ear, and thirty ear exhibit of the following varieties: Lancaster Sure Crop, Yellow Dent, White Cap Yellow Dent, White Dent and Miscellaneous. A variety class will consist of a ten ear sample of Sure Crop, Golden Queen, Longs Yellow Dent, Rieds Yellow Dent and Clouds Yellow Dent. Only growers who won a premium at the 1930 or 1931 State Show will be eligible to show in the Honorary class.

Linger at Stage Doors for "Closeup" of Stars

Familiar among Broadway's night sights are the small crowds who gather near stage doors after the show is over. Usually between the hours of eleven and twelve they are to be found waiting for their favorite star to emerge. They stand with a rather quiet expectancy. Every time the stage door opens they push forward eagerly, often to be disappointed when an overall stage hand makes his exit lugging a trunk or piece of scenery. When the long-awaited star does come out they crowd about, asking questions, bestowing adoration and pushing forward to obtain a better view. Some fans come with photographs to be signed. Others seek a star's autograph on a program, while still others want to see what their favorite performer looks like away from the footlights.

Some nights an actor or actress is in a hurry and, desiring to avoid the crowd, leaves by a different exit. The stars use various ruses to get away in a hurry, sometimes telling the doorman to notify the crowd that so-and-so will not leave the theater for a few hours.

Publicity's Value Well Known to the Ancients

More than 2,000 years ago, according to the London Morning Post, the Egyptians devised innumerable methods of bringing their names before the public; and by inscriptions, by historic monuments, and by the literature of the period, they left to posterity the records of a complete and systematic scheme of advertising.

In certain respects they made even more extensive use of publicity than does the present age. In the reign of Tutankhamen, doctors, unlike the modern practitioners, were allowed to advertise their remedies; and one of the more subtle methods used to attain this end was to compel patients on swallowing specific medicines to cry out, "A really excellent remedy proved a million times!" The art of repetition was thoroughly understood by Egyptian publicists; and it was customary to stamp wine jars with the word "Good" thrice repeated. Similarly they were well aware of the value of disguised advertisements; and experts now declare that the temples of ancient Egypt were in nearly every case built to advertise the power of Egypt's rulers. They were covered with accounts of victories achieved, and records of cities conquered.

Books for the Blind

Through American Red Cross Chapters, 3,827 volumes of novels, class books and others, transcribed into Braille for blind readers, have been added to libraries. In the past year, these books are to be obtained through the Library of Congress and city libraries. This activity, carried on by a great number of devoted women volunteers in Red Cross Chapters, had its inception in preparing books for war-blinded.
