Plan Will Speed Tests of Water

STATE DEPARTMENT WILL APPRECIATE IMMEDIATE REPORTS OF KILLING FISH IN STATE STREAMS

The Sanitary Water Board has completed a co-operative arrangement with O. M. Deiber, Commissioner of Fisheries, under which all regular field officers of the Board of Fish Commissioners, will report immediately the killing of fish in any stream in the State, directly to the field engineers of the bureau of engineering of the State Department of Health, it was announced today by C. L. Siebert, the Board's executive engineer.

Instantly upon the receipt of such information by the field engineers of the Health Department, they will proceed with an investigation to determine the sources of the harmful waste discharges, before the evidence is lost. This arrangement will overcome one of the difficulties in the past, caused by delays when reports from sportsmen and field officers of the Fish Commission were sent to Harrisburg, and from that point relayed back to district engineers, and field employees of the Sanitary Water Board.

In many instances, by the time that investigations as to the condition of the water could be started, the pollution that had caused the death of a great many fish, had moved out of the reach of the investigators. The arrangement now in operation will result in the minimum loss of time between the discovery of dead fish and the investigation of the engineers of the board.

To expedite this arrangement and make it most effective, field officers of the Board of Fish Commissioners have been furnished with a list, giving names and addresses of the field engineers of the bureau, and, in turn, the field engineers are under binding instructions to make immediate investigation of any condition reported to them by the employees of the Fish Commission.

Not only will samples of the suspected poisonous waters be examined at once in the chemical laboratories of the bureau, but when deemed advisable, large portions of the water will be taken to a State fish hatchery, for observation, by placing living fish in it, and noting the results in various dilutions. It proves most effective in determining is believed this new method will be the cause of fish killing in Pennsylvania's streams.

CAUTION IN BURNING BRUSH CAUSES MAJORITY OF FOREST FIRES

Carelessness in burning brush causes ten per cent. of all the forest fires in the State, according to the records of the Department of Forests and Waters.

Spring is the time of the year when the trees and shrubbery are pruned, gardens cleaned preparatory to planting, and house and yard cleaning are in order. It so happens that at the very time this human desire for the disposal of rubbish is most acute, conditions in the forest are most favorable for the start and spread of fire.

No one can tell a moment in advance what the wind will do, or from what direction it will blow. People are cautioned to beware of a quiet day in spring when they desire to burn anything in the open. The starting of even a small fire creates a current of heat and air, sparks carry great distances, and a fire may be beyond control almost instantly. The recommended manner is to burn brush in small piles, and the only safe time for spring brush burning is on wet days or at night. Always burn down hill and against the wind.

and dented by these materials flying from the road. Secretary Lewis stated that he intends to erect barricades at the beginning of operations and warn motorists that they must slow down while traveling those sections of the road which have been oiled. If the Highway Department is unsuccessful in eliminating this loss and motorists continue to disregard these instructions it may be necessary to block off the road entirely, causing lengthy detours in many instances. "I believe that a large percentage of the motorists will be pleased to accede to our requests that they slow down while passing over the sections which have been immediately oiled," Lewis said.
