HEALTH TALK

WRITTEN BY DR. THEODORE B. APPEL, SECRETARY OF HEALTH

"Not so many weeks ago an apparently healthy woman in her early thirties was having dinner at a resort hotel. The man opposite her whom she knew to be a physician, generously sprinkled salt on his meat and vegetables. Whereupon, with that superiority given to those who are temporarily in the ecstatic throes of a diet fad, she heartily denounced the practice and immediately set forth upon a diatribe upon this most useful dietary element.

A little knowledge geared to over-enthusiasm had apparently thrown her completely out of balance so far as salt was concerned," states Doctor Theodore B. Appel, Secretary of Health. "The difficulty with the lady's attitude lay in her inability to distinguish between the value of excluding free salt from the diet in the presence of certain diseases as in some forms of kidney affections, and the value of salt to the normal healthy individual. Moreover, it is entirely possible that some of her acquaintances, both men and women, may have materially aided her in developing such an attitude by proclaiming with professional emphasis that table salt could be blamed for high blood pressure, arterial hardening and Bright's disease.

"Nor is this intended to be any special criticism of her well meaning advisors. Certain medical investigators some years ago put forth the theory that salt did offend in these particulars. Nevertheless the fact remains that the normal healthy individual's requirements include salt. The daily amount required approximates one-fifth the total body content of salt, or a teaspoon full.

"This, of course, does not mean that one must daily sprinkle twenty grams of salt upon his food. Such a proposition entirely ignores the fact that all foods contain salt, both meat and vegetables. The only point to be stressed is that there appears to be a lack of any reliable scientific facts to justify the average person in becoming unduly repressive regarding the moderate use of salt."

WAGES DECLINE FASTER THAN FOOD

Food prices are under those of 1929, but they have not hit the toboggan so hard as the earnings of manufacturing workers, Governor said today. In Scranton, he said the average earnings of manufacturing workers were 41.8 per cent, lower in April than they were in April of 1929. But food prices were only 30.6 per cent. lower. In other words, said the Governor, wages in Scranton are down eleven cents on the dollar more than food prices.

Governor Pinchot has received a report from the Department of Labor and Industry which recently completed a survey of the entire State. "The report shows the average weekly earnings of manufacturing workers, in March of this year, were 1931, 41.1 per cent lower than in 1929 and 41.8 per cent lower than in 1929. But the retail prices of food do not show a corresponding decline. In Philadelphia in March food prices were 16.5 per cent. lower than in the same month in 1931, 28.3 per cent. lower than in 1930 and 30.6 per cent. lower than in 1929.

In Scranton retail prices were 15.6 per cent. lower last March than March a year ago, 29.5 per cent. lower than in 1930 and 30.6 per cent. lower than in 1929. "It is the common belief," said the Governor, "that food prices are reasonably low, but these figures indicated that the cost of food does not keep step with reduction in wages."
