

Bear! PRICES!

Catch— Them Before They Climb...

PRICES today are below "sea-level", if we may be permitted to use the phrase as a simile for par.

They're actually "sub" prices in the sense that many commodities, and principally the necessities of life, are being sold below cost of production, or at least below the cost at which merchants, manufacturers and wage-earners can continue to produce them and maintain normal standards of living.

What, then, is the inevitable result? Prices must come "up for air" ... national and individual prosperity demands it and the upturn is immediately in the offing.

Today's prices are depression prices. They can only be compared with prices during other periods of depression of past years... they cannot remain in this country any more than depression can continue in a country so basically prosperous in resources, in enterprise, in wealth, in commercial and industrial leadership.

These are conditions which will, and are already, adjusted themselves... by inevitable laws of economics.

We've reached the low... and at the low is the time to buy. With Food, Clothing, Furniture and almost everything else at the lowest prices in 15 years; with the purchasing power of your dollar greater today by 40% to 100% than at any time since the war surely it's time to stock up... even to buy beyond your immediate needs because unless you buy now, or very soon, you're surely going to pay more... when prices come "up for air."

OH, NAG! Oh, horse you are a wonderful thing. No horns to honk, no bells to ring. No license buying every year. With plates to stick in front and rear. No sparks to miss. No gears to grip. No clutch to slip! You start yourself. No clutch to slip! No gas bills mounting every day. To steal the joys of life away! Your inner tubes are all O. K. And thank the Lork they stay that way. Your spark plugs never miss or fuss. Your motor never makes us cuss. Your frame is good for many a mile. Your body never changes style. Your wants are few and easy met— You have some things on the auto, yet!

SLOW A railroad out west was so slow that the terms of prisoners sent to jail on that road often ran out before they reached the penitentiary.

ANOTHER "IF" (No Apologies to Kipling nor Nobody) If you can rise at four o'clock each morning And milk a bunch of restless, bawling cows; If you can run a balky separator, And pour out slop to pigs, sheats and sows; If you can stay your hunger with a breakfast Of pork and eggs and biscuits hard as rocks; If you can smack your lips and swallow coffee. That tastes like soapsuds used for washing socks; If you can grab a mattock and a shovel And blithely set to cleaning out a ditch, And never stop, although your palms are blistered. Sweet blinds your eyes and both your shoulders itch; If you can dig and not be tired by dig-

TURN RIGHT!

Nan Johnson sat facing her mother. Not yielding to the curves of the comfortable arm chair, her poise was rigid and straight. She looked weary. Dark circles were beginning to appear under the tired eyes. The corners of her delicately formed mouth drooped. She looked at her mother who seemed enrapt in her knitting. The words in her throat seemed to choke her. A slight tremor ran through her body. Her lips parted, then in short vibrant gasps a jumble of words reached the ears of the older woman.

"I'm not going back!" then a pause, "Mother, do you hear, I'm not going back!" With this utterance she sighed, her shoulders sagged, heavily she sank back, relaxing.

The woman opposite remained calm, contently engaged with her yarn and needles.

"So you've made your decision, Nan," her mellow tones caused the young woman to start, "you're not going back."

"Don't you understand, I can't I can't go back," rapidly she was gaining courage. "It's Donny I'm thinking of, not myself. He can't be reared in a place like that!" Her voice gathered strength. "What chance will my son have in this modern world, deprived of the advantages of our cities! How will he be able to face life, reared in a small country town, the son of a country doctor?"

"Have you told Tim you aren't going back?" her mother questioned.

A shadow passed over her face. "No," she hesitated, then added, "I'll write tonight."

Her eyes grew misty, her voice faltered but still she continued.

"I love Tim, I'll love him always, but he can't ruin Donny's life by his selfishness. If he would not have been offered positions in hospitals and sanatoriums, perhaps I would not feel like I do. But he refuses them all and continues to stick to his small country practice, saying the people need him. He—" "Listen," her mother interrupted, "you say you love Tim, then work with him. He is right, those people need him, they depend on him. How proud Donny can be of his father!"

"Things don't always run smoothly, Nan. Side by side your father and I worked. Together we tried to teach our children courage, to give them strength, and to show them God. Nan, don't let me think that we've failed to give you these characteristics. What does it matter where you live—in a metropolis or a village. Whether your son will succeed in life will depend on the place you call home. Together you and Tim can build his character through the influence of your home. Home environment lingers long in one's memory."

A footstep was heard in the hall. Donny rushed in, a large bag of marbles in his hand.

"Say, mother, I know a better road to drive home than the way we came. The kids told me. Just turn right down here and follow the road." He looked at his grandmother, then timidly added, "Let's go now, mother, I want to show dad the marbles I won."

His mother nodded—she would turn right and follow the road.

PROBLEMS IN HOMES would melt like sugar if the spirit of the home is right. Slovenliness, squabbles, bickerings, jealousies, separations, divorces! Bring Jesus into your heart and home and your problems will soon be conquered.

THE BETTER WAY

People do not have to murder roving dogs and cats in order to protect their little evergreens, nor is it necessary to erect wire fences six weeks with expensive nicotine solution and the sniffers will pass on and leave you undisturbed. This method is absolutely harmless both to animals and shrubs.

Grow Emergency Hays

Where hay prospects are poor, emergency crops may be substituted. Among the crops used are wheat, rye, oats, Canada field peas, vetch, soybeans, sudan grass and millet.

ging, By plowing, hoeing weeds or pitching hay; If it's your absolute, profound conviction That eighteen hours is just a loafer's day; If you can load the back end of a flivver With eggs and chickens, fruit and garden sss, And drive to town and sell them to your grocer For half enough to pay for oil and gas; If you can spend the whole night righting And start out in the morning fresh and bright; If you can smile when cotton bolls are shedding And when your melon vines curl up with blight; And when you dig up money on the mortgage, And taxes for the county and the state; If you can keep your head and not go rapid While listening to some oily candidate; If you can work and work and go on working Until your weary race of life is run, I don't know just what other folks would call you. But I'd call you an average farmer's son. —Ernest Douglas, editor Arizona Producer. (Note: Reprinted for our rural friends)

Realizing that prices are as low right now as they probably ever will be, and pretty well fed up with having an old-fashioned house, we decided to have some repairs made immediately.

Our first move, and to me the most important, was to call our Electrical Contractor and have most of the rooms in the house equipped with additional convenience and lighting outlets.

Then, we had several of the rooms repapered, the woodwork repainted, had the Carpenter and Plumber do several other little renovizing jobs.

When everything was finished, we were conscious of a wonderful difference in our home... of a new sense of ease, comfort and convenience... of a decided improvement in the physical appearance of the whole house. How pleased we were with it all... It almost seemed like a new house.

Now's the time to renovize and modernize. Call your Electrical Contractor and other workmen today and see for yourself how easily, quickly and inexpensively you can bring your home up to date.
