EDITORIAL

Several Philadelphia banking institutions claim that wage earners received 90 percent more pay to date this year than in 1933. We hope that is true and that they soon start spending some of it.

We've often heard say that crooks make good cops and we are forced to believe it. At least that man Dillinger is showing the smartest cops in the United States a thing or two. To date he has them looking like a lot of cheap pickers.

WHAT BACK YARDS SHOW People's back yards show what they really are. They may clean up their front lawns and keep them looking fairly presentable, but it is behind their houses that their real nature expresses itself. If they are disorderly and careless in their ways of doing work and business, that neglect shows itself in a backyard decorated with litter.

People somehow imagine that their backyards are invisible. But, unless protected by high fences, the neighbors see them, and usually they can be seen from the street. An ugly back yard stamps a family as lacking in taste and cultivation. If it wants to stand well with its neighbors, it will exercise the rake and the dump cart.

MOTHER'S DAY

Mother! What word could mean more to the man or woman who has been reared right? Mother! The last word from the dying lips of many a brave man on the battlefield. It was the Mother of Jesus who wept at the foot of the cross as he hung there, and, in contrast to this scene, many a good mother has followed her wayward son to the gallows that he may not be alone when paying the supreme penalty. Many a poor mother has proudly watched her "little boy" elevated to a position high amongst the nation's best, due to the watchful care she had over him in childhood, yet taking no credit for his success to herself.

May 13th is Mother's Day. . . don't forget her. Show your appreciation of a good mother by doing her honor.

BLOCKING FUTURE DEPRESSION

The American people, consciously or not, are busy erecting a mighty economic barrier against the possibility of future depressions. They are doing that by buying life insurance—and more life insurance. The trend of sales has been steadily upward for a number of months. Men are finding jobs. Many families are enjoying regular and definite incomes for the first time in years. And life insurance, through one or another of the many policies it writes, is able to guard against almost any human exigency. It protects one's family's and dependents—and it likewise protects oneself against one of the greatest of all human tragedies, a poverty-stricken old age. It rebuilds depleted estates—or creates new ones. It assures an education for one's children—and it covers the loss in the case of business reverses.

Life insurance is the friend of the good times. It is the unrelenting enemy of depression. During the five trying years that have passed it has carried thousands of the families showing greater realization of its possibilities, it will do a still finer work in the future to assure financial independence.

TIME TO RENOVIZE AGAIN

Last spring a good many American communities inaugurated renovation campaigns, during which local citizens were urged to have their property inspected, and make necessary and valuable additions, alterations and repairs. The campaign provided thousands of jobs. It sent money through a hundred major industries. Essential improvements were obtained at a fraction of what they would have cost a few years earlier.

This spring and summer should see additional campaigns of the same order. The need for employment is almost as great as it was a year ago. The construction industry is still lagging behind business in general. That peeling paint—that leaky roof—that ancient wiring which presents a constant fire hazard—that outmoded heating plant—that old plumbing—that rickety garage—those cracked steps—now is the time to fix and change them. It doesn't matter whether you have ten dollars to spend or ten thousand—in either case you are doing your bit to spur recovery, and you are getting bargain values.

SUNDAY DINNER SUGGESTIONS

By ANN PAGE

IT SEEMS probable that heavy rains in the South will curtail the shipments of strawberries, tomatoes, green beans and potatoes. The supply of other fruits and green vegetables should not be seriously affected. Navel oranges are attractively priced as are also large juice oranges. Spring is gradually spreading over the country bringing rhubarb as the first native product of the gardens. It is almost as desirable to have a cabbage in the house as to have onions, carrots and parsley. It is such a good vegetable, lends itself to variety in cooking and in salads and it keeps very well. Asparagus and even peas and beans come and go but cabbage goes round the calendar with us. The Quaker Maid suggests the following menus.

- Low Cost Dinner Pot Roast of Beef (Potatoes, Carrots, Onions) Bread and Butter Banana Shortcake Tea or Coffee Milk
Medium Cost Dinner Chicken Pot Pie Parsley Potatoes Green Peas Bread and Butter Jelly Roll Milk
Very Special Dinner Tomato Juice Cocktail Crackers Roast Veal Potatoes in Cream Buttered Asparagus Spring Salad French Dressing Rolls and Butter Fruit Cup Coconut Cake Coffee Milk

Better Breakfasts

THE sun is back on its gold standard. The robin's cheery voice chimes in with the alarm clock. And even in city apartments, breakfast celebrates every day is growing warmer and greener. Put a gay cloth on the breakfast table—and how about this for tomorrow's menu?

Raspberry and Apple Compote Cereal with Cream Fritters with Maple Syrup Sausages Coffee
Raspberry and Apple Compote: Put a third of a cup of sugar, two tablespoons of lemon juice and the syrup from one 8-ounce can of red raspberries into a sauce pan and bring to boiling. Core, pare, and cut two medium apples into thick rings. Cook these slices gently in the syrup until tender but not broken. Remove the slices into six serving dishes, put a spoonful of the raspberries in the center of each slice and pour the syrup over. Let cool. Set in the refrigerator over night. This serves six.

Be Sure to Have Good Coffee

You cannot eat your cake and have it, too. Neither can you smell your coffee and have all its flavor. That's why the best breakfast coffee comes vacuum packed. It does not waste its sweetness on the air or the grocery store. All its aroma is sealed in the hour it is roasted and kept in until it arrives in your kitchen. Coffee should not be boiled. Neither should it be made with a scant tablespoon for each person. Use plenty of vacuum packed coffee, and you will get plenty of compliments on your coffee making.
