HOUSE-CLEANING

With Groundhog Day just around the corner and folks wondering what kind of a spring we are going to have, the time has come to think of house-cleaning again.

Indeed, we ought to be giving the thought to the subject earlier this year than ever. If you have a room to be painted, plaster to be repaired, an odd job of painting to be done, pleted. masonry to be pointed, steps to be put in order, floors to be refinished, plumbing in need of attention, a leaky roof that should be mended you can get the work done more cheaply now than later and you will add to the opportunities for employ-

FREY FURNITURE STORE, AT MARIETTA IS OFFERING GREAT VALUES IN ORDER TO CLOSE OUT THE BUSINESS

On page 8 of last week's issue of the Bulletin appeared a full page advertisement of the Frey Furniture Store conducted by Samuel L. and Samuel P. Frey at 105 West Market Street, They announced their closing out furniture sale.

This is beyond a doubt one of the oldest and best established business firms in the state. It was originally started by Samuel F. Frey on Jan. 3, 1872. The earlier kin of the Freys were well known in Mount Joy. Rev. Abram Frey, father of Samu-el F. Frey, died when the latter was five years of age. The former Frey was a minister of the Evangelical

Association, and was buried in the graveyard adjoining the Evangelical church here, and after the family plot was purchased in the Mount Joy emetery, was removed there. His son, Samuel F. Frey, was born near Bloomfield, Perry Co. For some years he was a student in the public schools of Mount Joy boro and for one year was under the instruction of Christian Engle, a most capable instructor near town. He left school at the age of sixteen and faced the stern realities of life for himself. On Feb. 1st, 1868, he apprenticed himself to Henry S. Myers, in our boro, and undertaker, remaining employed here for three and one-half years. Our older citizens will remember that Henry S. Myers was father of the late Harry "Jig" Myers, on Mar-

Brr! Bring The Beans

D ID you ever toast your toes before a big story toes before a big stove in an old New England kitchen? If you haven't, you don't know half the joy of a morning of skating. It's the thawing-out that's half of the fun, and if we analyze the charm of that old New England kitchen, perhaps much of the joy of it came from the smell of good foods baking for dinner.

In Little Brown Pots

Beans, of course, were foremost among the foods which sent their saucy-seasoned smell out so that the world would know it was bean day. Today, unfortunately, there are not enough big home like kitchens to go around, and there's no room for them in modern homes and apartments any-way. But the gods have fortunately decreed that we are not to go without baked beans-even if we can't go to the cannery to smell them baking. We can buy them in cans, and if one happens to have some little brown bean pots, which cost almost nothing, one can pack in these oven-baked beans, put a thick slice of bacon on the top and set them in even the most modern oven, to sizzle and brown a bit more. There are other ways, too, worthy of these good beans. For example:

In Tomatoes-Under Ham

Baked Beans in Tomato Cases: Cut off slices from the tops of six large ripe tomatoes and scoop out the centers. Dust inside with salt, and brush with a tiny bit of pre-pared mustard. Fill with a 1pound 1-ounce can of baked beans and sprinkle the tops with a little grated cheese. Bake for twenty to twenty-five minutes in a 375 dorrow even degree oven. Serves six persons. Baked Beans with Frizzled Ham: Turn beans from a No. 2 can of baked beans (preferably without tomato sauce) into a baking dish, and pour over one-third cup of chili sauce. Heat in a hot oven. Meanwhile, frizzle six thin slices of cold boiled ham in a hot skillet, then lay on top of the beans and serve at once. This serves six persons.*

Italy's Kings

King Bomba died in the fall of 1859 and his son, Francis II, dubbed "Bombino" by the people, succeeded him. The Bombino, however, was not the match for the revolutionists that his hard-fisted old tyrant of a father had been, and consequently the landing of Garibaldi in Sicily in May, 1860, was the signal for a general uprising which in a few months had the Bourbon party in complete retreat. Garibaldi was hailed as the Liberator, and by popular vote made dictator. A junction with other Italian states under Victor Emmanuel followed.

PROVERB RULES

Each week for a period of eight weeks The Bulletin will print one of a series of cartoons representing some well known proverb or saying.

Contestants solve the picture puzzles by writing the proverb that the cartoon suggests or illustrates in the blanks below the pictures.

The prizes, totaling $10 in cash, will be awarded those sending in complete or near complete picture sets with the best and most appropriate answers to the pictures published, and either paying their own subscription for a period of six months or securing one new six months subscription to The Bulletin.

In case of ties neatness and originality will be considered.

Cartoons should not be sent to the paper until the series is complete.

Only one answer may be given to a picture.

Only one member of a family will be given a prize, the award going to the person in that family submitting the best set.

The answers may be written in pen, pencil, printed or typewritten.

MOMENTUM

As the pig iron furnaces and steel mills run so goes business generally according to an axiom. Right now these barometers of business foretell better business and less unemployment next spring.

Pig iron and steel are the raw materials for a vast number of major manufactured products, chief among which are automobiles, railway equip ment, bridges, buildings, hardware and household articles. The iron and steel being made this month will soon find their way to innumerable factories. Therefore any increase in the iron and steel production today is the forerunner of increased industrial there is such a thing as being too and structural activity generally.

Increasing production at the furnaces is exactly what has taken place this month. As for the steel mills, their output is the highest since last fall On the basis of these infallible o-

mens there is more than blind optim ism behind the prosperity predictions now being heard on all sides. That army of unemployed will be greatly decimated by the resumption of construction in the spring and by seasonal employment that will the be afforded by agriculture and allied enterprises.

WHY FARMERS DECREASE

Reports have been numerously published and they are true, that the farmers are decreasing yearly and

SAFEGUARDS

The average citizen is ignorant of the elaborate precautions taken by the public health service to protect him from communicable disease both at home and while traveling. It is mmonly known that quarantines are maintained and water sources treated, but beyond that the citizenry knows little of the work of local, state and federal health agencies.

Careful guard is kept to protect the health of travelers and to control the spread of disease from one nmunity to another and from one state to another, and this requires organization and care. Railroad and steamship companies would be unable to afford the health protection, which they desire that their patrons should enjoy, unless they received the cooperation and ex-so well known that railroad yards in which passenger coaches are cleaned and replenished are under strict sanitary supervision.

These facts help to explain why communicable disease is seldom carried from one community to another by the traveling public.

Address.

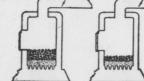

Advertising and not competition is now the life of trade, according to the advertising experts who met to attend the International Advertising Association convention. The delegates at this meeting heard a number of interesting things. Among these was the statement by Charles Stelzle, New York expert, to the effect that if churches do not advertise their "ware"___ spiritual upbuilding and moral betterment for both the individual and humanity-they cannot hope to arouse interest among the masses and fulfill the obligations placed upon them as parties to the general spiritual movement.

Another speaker declared that "advertising is greater than any single moral force we know of today. Advertising brings about changes for the betterment of life itself, changes which fuse into the social and political life of the naion."

It is now generally admitted by economic forces everywhere that advertising is the most important development of modern business. And it is also coming to be realized that newspaper advertising is the best kind of paid publicity. In the convention just mentioned the delegates who were advertising experts, agreed that newspaper advertising affords the best publicity medium for the churches and all church activities.
