Two Women Sue Partner

MRS. H. ROY NISSLY, OF FLORIN, BRINGS SUIT AGAINST HER SISTER-IN-LAW AND NEXT DOOR NEIGHBOR, MRS. E. J. NISSLY

A former partnership is suing one of the partners for monies alleged to be owing, in a case placed on trial last Wednesday morning before Judge Schaeffer in Common Pleas Court.

The plaintiff partnership is Mrs. Muriel S. Nissly and Mrs. Martha B. Nissly, trading as the Nissly Tobacco Company of Florin. The defendant in the action is Mrs. Martha B. Nissly, now trading as the Lancaster Tobacco Manufacturing Co.

The suit was brought to recover $549.74 which is claimed to be the balance due to the former partnership for shredding and grinding tobacco and supplying tobacco products to the defendant company over a period of years.

Mrs. Muriel Nissly is the wife of H. Roy Nissly, of Florin, while Mrs. Martha Nissly is the wife of E. Jay Nissly, a brother of the other man.

Mrs. Muriel Nissly was the first witness and said she brought the suit at the suggestion of her husband, who with his brother, were co-partners of the two former partners.

H. Roy Nissly testified the partnership was formed in August 31, 1926, but prior to that time Mrs. Martha Nissly traded as the Nissly Tobacco Company.

First Bridge Bonds Are Paid By The County

The first group of bonds issued by Lancaster county to build the inter-county bridge between Columbia and Wrightsville were paid Friday it was announced.

Twenty-six bonds amounting to $26,000 were paid by County Treasurer Smith when presented by a local banking institution. The bonds maturing Friday total $50,000 and all interest stopped, but the rest have not yet been presented.

Lancaster county issued $1,400,000 in bonds of $1,000 each. Each year until February 1, 1942, a portion of the bridge bonds will mature. At that time, the county has the privilege of calling the remaining $550,000 for payment. If not called the last bonds will be paid February 1, 1960.

Given $400 Damages For Death of Son

THAT'S THE AMOUNT A JURY GAVE BAINBRIDGE MAN IN HIS SUIT AGAINST PENNA. RAILROAD COMPANY

Damages for the death of his son who was killed while coasting over a year ago, were asked by Harry F. Bachman, of Bainbridge, in a case placed on trial before Judge Schaeffer in the Common Pleas Court last week.

The defendant in the case was the Pennsylvania Railroad. William Bachman, sixteen, a son of the plaintiff was killed when struck by a locomotive of the defendant company.

The youth, with several companions was sledding on Race street, Bainbridge, on December 27, 1933, and ran into a locomotive and tender traveling on the railroad at that point.

The majority of the witnesses were his sledding companions, who all testified they shouted a warning at young Bachman, when they heard the whistle of the locomotive. None of the boys saw the accident, but found the victim's body lying beside the tracks after the engine went past. The locomotive never stopped, it was also testified.

B. J. Myers, counsel for the railroad, asked the court to direct a non suit in the case on the grounds that there had been no negligence proved by the plaintiff's witnesses. This action was opposed by Charles W. Ealy, chief counsel for Bachman.

Thoroughly Fumigated

A KNIGHT OF THE ROAD HAD A VERY UNPLEASANT EXPERIENCE IN OUR BORO LOCKUP ONE NIGHT LAST WEEK

If all the hobos who spend a night at Hotel Delocup here get as thorough a fumigation as did one recently, we know they won't carry many germs from this burg.

Supervisor Henry Smeltzer has instructions to thoroughly fumigate the lockup "every once in so often." One evening last week he investigated, found no one in the basement, procured a large portion of sulphur, placed it in a container, put it in the basement of the Council Chamber and applied a match.

About an hour later he investigated, found the basement "blue with smoke" and at the same time noticed what he thought was a man sitting on the lower step. His guess was right. With assistance they carried the hobo upstairs, and after a short time in the fresh air he revived. The chap was in the lockup, and wasn't noticed by Mr. Smeltzer. He told "Jim" that when it got too strong he crawled over to the steps on his hands and knees. In a few hours he was okay having been thoroughly fumigated.

Thermometer 'Walked Out'

RESIDENT HERE CLAIMS IT WAS MUCH COLDER IN WINTER OF 1911 THAN LAST WEEK AT 20 BELOW

Our worthy townsman Milton C. Bowman, on East Main Street, who has an exceptionally good memory for a man of his years, related the following incident to the writer.

Our item of the extreme cold weather in last week's Bulletin has prompted Mr. Bowman to relate this story.

In the winter of 1911 he was sick and was attended by the late Dr. John J. Newpher. One morning when the doctor called the thermometer on his back porch on East Main Street registered 22 degrees below zero.

Both Mr. Bowman and Dr. Newpher, knowing that Horst's Mill, now Risher's Mill, was one of the coldest points around here, the latter called and inquired as to how cold it was out there that night.

Mrs. Horst answered the phone and said in Pennsylvania Dutch that she didn't really know how cold it was. In her own words she remarked: "Unser thermometer is ous galoffa."

1300 MONUMENTS AT GETTYSBURG; NONE OF LINCOLN

A fitting memorial to Abraham Lincoln is proposed by Representative Haines (D-Pa.) for the Gettysburg battlefield which has 1300 monuments, statues and tablets but none in honor of the great emancipator.

"There is only one small marker, of which we should be ashamed, mentioning the immortal Lincoln," Haines said yesterday in announcing he would ask Congress for $25,000 for a monument to the martyred President.

Haines proposes the monument be erected on the spot where Lincoln delivered his Gettysburg address.

A memorial boulevard linking the Lincoln memorial in Washington and the Gettysburg battlefield is proposed in a resolution introduced in the House by Haines. He says the highway, estimated to cost between five and six million dollars would be an excellent work-relief project.

Council Heard Appeals From Water Consumers

Last night was appeal night for the water renters of our boro. A number appeared before the committee in the Council Chamber, had their bills explained and were satisfied.

Six objected to their increased bills, although they are only charged with the conveniences as found on their premises.

The subject of water meters was discussed but no action was taken.
