

The Motorist is the Goat in the High Gas Tax Game

PENNSYLVANIA motorists seem to have reached the end of their patience about the continuing increases in gasoline taxes.

This tax started in 1921 at 1-cent per gallon. In 1923 it was raised to 2 cents; in 1927 to 3 cents; in 1929 to 4 cents; in 1930 it was put back to 3 cents, but the Federal tax of 1 cent promptly brought the total back to 4 cents; and now the state administration is demanding that the state tax be raised to 5 cents, making, with the Federal levy, a total of 6 cents.

Since this tax was imposed, Pennsylvania motorists have paid $275,804,847 under it; only California and

Ohio have paid as much in gasoline taxes; and if the 2-cent increase is imposed by the legislature, Pennsylvania will jump to the top of the list by a big majority.

Small wonder that public meetings of protest, petitions, letters, telegrams and personal appeals against the increase are fairly swamping members of the legislature. Old timers at Harrisburg say there never has been such a determined uprising against a taxation proposal. Democratic leaders declare in confidence that if this increase is imposed, it will blast all their hopes of retaining the gains they have recently made in the state.

OWL LAFFS

BY A WISE OWL

Mrs. George Mumper, at Florin, has a freak in what she calls a white flying squirrel. It was exhibited for the first time to some of the members of camp Ream last Thursday evening.

Was invited out to a St. Patrick's dinner on Sunday and among the guests was a small boy from Marietta street. His hostess asked: "Are you sure you can cut your own meat, young man? And the little fellow answered: "Oh, yes, thanks." I've often had it as tough as this at home!"

Lucky for him his mother wasn't at the table at the time. Or I'll wager he'd be eating off the mantel.

"Carrie" Parrell was having a great deal of trouble and finally in despair she asked "Pancake" Mateer: "How can I get a wart off my hands?" And "Pancake" very brilliantly suggested: "Why not shoot him?"

Spit is a horrid word—even in a cigar advertisement.

At a Saturday morning get-together "Jack" Fogie asked Moon Reigel: "Was it very crowded at the Florin Inn last night?" and Moon replied: "Not under my table."

"I guess this let's me out," said the gent as he pushed open the door marked EXIT.

"Bob" Lindemuth asked Ned Heilig the following: "After you learned to play the saxophone did you receive any offers?" And "Ned" bashfully admitted: "Yeah, several of our neighbors offered to shoot me."

As a way to relieve the business depression we advocate a National Make More-Money-Week... Of course that's just an idea.

"Spook" Schneider says he likes girls beautiful but dumb... beautiful enough to please him and dumb enough to like him.

Last Friday afternoon when spring was just sneaking around the corner "Herb" Mummaw sprawled across his desk and started to day dream. When the Prof. asked him what the trouble was Herb complained: "I've got a strange feeling in my head and in my stomach." And the Prof. asked: "I suppose it's that EMPTY feeling?"

A lot of w omen find that marriage is a delusion and a snore.

A very attractive young feminine went to a doctor (I'm not saying it was a local physician) and very sweetly said: "Oh, Doctor, I'm bothered with a terrible pain in the neck. What would you suggest?" And the medico answered: "Ditch him and I'll see you in half an hour."

At least, unemployed apples should have no worms working in them.

When Cappy Mummaw went to work Monday "Abe" Geltmacher said: "You must have been drinking hard cider again. Cappy replied: "Honest I wasn't And Abe disgustedly exclaimed: "Apple sauce!"

As far as crooners are concerned, how about a coast to coast hush-up?"

"Oh, John!" screamed the excited woman driver, "the car is running away!" "Can you stop it?" asked the worried husband. "No," screamed his wife. "Well, then, see if you can't hit something cheap."

And the next time I see you it will be spring! Beautiful spring. With it's gardens to be dug, the house to be painted, thunder storms on the days of good baseball games, mosquitoes, family picnics, etc., etc., too, beautiful Spring!

Ohio Indians' Superstitious Perhaps no people in the world were more greatly influenced by auguries and omens than the Ohio Indians. All their activities were directed by the gods of superstition. One strange custom, for example, led them to carry all food out of a house, whose occupants had just playfully scalped and which was to be set afire afterward. In the belief that destroying food unnecessarily would anger the Great Spirit who provided them with sustenance.

The First Telescope In 1590 the children of a Dutch spectacle-maker named Jansen were playing in the workshop. One little chap picked up a couple of lenses and held them together. A moment later he cried out that the church spire had come nearer to him! Father Jansen had a look, and then fastened the lenses in that position to a board. So was the first telescope made.—Pearson's Weekly.

The Aurora Borealis The frequency of the Northern lights varies with the latitude of the place. The aurora is comparatively rare within 45 degrees of the equator, but more frequent toward the north, up to the latitude of about 60 degrees, where it sometimes becomes almost a nightly occurrence. The aurora is less frequent near the poles.

The Carnegie Institution The Carnegie Institution is a foundation with an endowment of some $25,000,000, most of which was the gift of Carnegie, himself. Its purpose is to increase human knowledge and thereby increase human happiness. It has run far ahead of the dreams of Andrew Carnegie and of the trustees who helped him launch it.

Meaning of 'Sine Die' "Sine die" (pronounced "sigh-nee-dy-ee"), when literally translated means without day. It is used in the legal sense and in adjourning congress to mean "without a day appointed on which to meet again" or without a set date for the next meeting.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Alabaster Alabaster is a variety of gypsum or sulfate, resembling marble in appearance, but softer. "Oriental alabaster" is a mineral substance which is harder than ordinary alabaster. It is found in Egypt, where in ancient times it was worked into jars, urns and the like.

Oriel Window's Origin The architectural predecessor of the oriel window is the turret, used as a defense in the medieval home. The outside stairway and roofs built at different levels are descended from the old French farmhouse.

Spared Artist's Hand A Spanish painter of the Sixteenth century, suspected of the murder of his wife, was tortured to extract a confession, but his right hand was spared that he might continue to produce his masterpieces.

Name "Alcazar" The name "alcazar" is applied to various Moorish palaces in Spain, which were originally constructed as forts. They are chiefly noted for their decorative work and arched courts.

HEALTH TALK

WRITTEN BY DR. THEODORE B APPEL, SECRETARY OF HEALTH

PREVENTING DIPHTHERIA Few conquests of science have been so spectacular and complete as the route of diphtheria. And this victory has most firmly established the value of serum treatment both in its preventive and curative phases. However, toxin-antitoxin or its successor, toxoid for immunization, and antitoxin for timely cure, are brilliant achievements of which the general public even yet are not fully aware, states Dr. Edith MacBride Dexter, Secretary of Health.

Before the discovery of the diphtheria germ by Klebs and Pfeiffer in 1883-4, forty out of every one hundred victims succumbed. Today, including that small minority unjustifiably opposed to serum therapy, the rate is but 5 per cent.

In Pennsylvania in 1906 the diphtheria deaths aggregated 2438. In 1934 there were less than 200 fatalities. This amazing mortality drop can be credited first, to the discovery of the diphtheria's cause; and second, to the great serum weapons invented to combat it.

As indicated, toxoid is the immunizing or preventive agent now usually employed. Only one injection of this serum is necessary. However, for the body to develop immunity three to four months are required. At that time the Schick test is applied to determine the result of this preventive treatment. This harmless and painless procedure is performed by injecting into the upper layers of the skin a minute drop of the diphtheria toxin. If within forty-eight to seventy-two hours there is no redness at the place where the toxin was injected, or perhaps a small blister and some hardness of the skin, immunity has been definitely established.

However, when a case of diphtheria exists anti-toxin is the only treatment that will save life. Also, to be effective, it must be given early and in large doses. Delay is usually caused by parents failing to realize that any sore throat may actually be diphtheria.

Certain misconceptions regarding antitoxin should be removed. For instance, antitoxin never produces paralysis or bad hearts. These conditions are a direct result of diphtheria poison. They signify that the antitoxin was given too late or in insufficient doses. Thus, while antitoxin can counteract poison it cannot restore vital tissue that toxins have already destroyed.

It follows that preventive medicine in the form of toxoid and curative medicine as represented by antitoxin perform magnificently if given their proper chances to do so. There is every reason in the world to employ these agents, and no logical reason against them.
