OLD TOBACCO MARKET SHOWS SIGNS OF LIFE The market for old tobacco lying about the county in farmers' hands is showing signs of life again after being dormant for the last few years.

A grower reported at the tobacco office Tuesday that he recently sold his 1852 packing to a big manufacturing concern for fifteen cents. The best price he could get before he packed the crop was five cents a pound, he said.

Other buyers are inquiring for old tobacco. At one of the big packing warehouses in Lancaster, farmers delivering their 1934 crops to this concern are asked how much old tobacco they have on hand and of which years and a record of it is made in the office.

A Barber Shop Here Looted

ALL TOOLS STOLEN WERE LATER FOUND IN A LARD CAN IN CELLAR AT ACCUSED MAN'S HOME

Some time during Monday night the tonsorial parlor of Jesse Tobias, 59 East Main street, was entered thru a rear window and $65 worth of tools including scissors, clippers, etc. The thief gained an entrance by breaking a window in the rear of the building. The property is owned by Councilman O. M. Donovan.

Chief of Police Elmer Zerphey assisted by State Trooper Charles Harbold were assigned to the case and yesterday afternoon they arrested Clarence K. "Eush" Weaver, aged 39, of 67 West Main Street, charging him with felonious entry and larceny. He was immediately committed to the county jail for a hearing before Justice of the Peace Elwood Grimm, at Elizabethtown.

Trooper Harbold said the barber's tools which were stolen from Tobias' shop were found concealed in a lard can in the cellar of Weaver's house. He admitted that he stole the tools, which were valued at $65, according to police.

Weaver, the man held, is very well known resident of our boro. He has conducted a tonsorial parlor here for a number of years. He has a wife and four children.

"OLIVET TO CALVARY" TO BE SUNG AT LUTHERAN CHURCH

The choir of Trinity Lutheran Church will sing Maunder's beautiful cantata "Olivet to Calvary" on Palm Sunday evening, April 14 at 7 o'clock.

This is one of Maunder's most popular compositions, recalling some of incidents in the last days of the Saviour's life on Earth. The words are taken mostly from the Holy Scriptures and arranged for two solo voices (Tenor and Baritone) with lovely choruses. You can't afford to miss it.

Live Within Your Income

LINCOLN AND FRANKLIN PREACHED IT—SO DID OTHERS FOR AGES BEFORE THEIR TIME BECAUSE THEY KNEW

People like language they can understand. Live within your income. What a world of advice is embraced within the compass of these four words. They comprise a homely sort of a phrase, one that has been bandied about for time immemorial. It has been preached by the high and the low. Presidents have used it in talking to or sending communications to congress. Governors have impressed it upon members of their state legislatures. Fathers and mothers urged its virtues upon young married sons and daughters. Heads of municipalities repeat it to the members of their town and city councils.

Abraham Lincoln preached it. So did Benjamin Franklin. So did others for ages before their time. Men like Lincoln and Franklin knew, better than many others the value of the advice. Particularly so did Franklin who walked the streets of Philadelphia munching his loaf of bread.

Too often, however, the advice has fallen upon ears that did not hear. This (Turn to page two)
