If cleanliness is next to godliness, the ordinary glass milk bottle deserves a halo of its own. It receives an average of three sterilizing baths a day during its life.

SEES INFLATION A SLOW PROCESS

A Real Danger for the Future, Col. Ayres Tells Banking Groups.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J.—Present prospects do not indicate that inflation severe enough to cause further dollar devaluation will come soon in this country, but as an ultimate development it seems to be a very real danger, Leonard P. Ayres, Vice President Cleveland Trust Company, said here tonight in an address before the Graduate School of Banking. He believed this statement to be true "unless the government enters frankly upon a policy of issuing fiat money with which to meet its expenses." At present that does not seem to be in sight, he said.

The Graduate School is operated jointly by the American Institute of Banking Section of the American Bankers Association and Rutgers University to offer advanced studies for bank officers.

"We have so enormously increased the capacity of our banking system for credit expansion that it is difficult to see how we could have a vigorous business revival without having it develop into a credit inflation," Colonel Ayres declared.

Inflation a Slow Process
If inflation does come it will be a slow process, he said, pointing out that in Germany, France, Belgium and Italy it took about five years to develop from the time when the governments entered upon policies of financing large peace-time deficits by bank credit up to the time when the public generally began to spend money rapidly because of fear that it would still further depreciate in purchasing power.

"If we are to go through such a period here it would seem likely that it might last rather longer than the corresponding periods did abroad," he said. "Its beginning would date from the spring of 1933 when we left the old gold basis for our money and entered upon the policy of financing large governmental deficits by the sale of Federal securities mainly to banks rather than to private investors."

"The method that we are following is the one that proved disastrous in Europe for in all those countries including Germany, the increasing issues of money that caused the inflation were not mere printing press issues of fiat currency, but were secured by government bonds and notes discounted at the banks. Nevertheless, the process is inherently a slow one."

Among the clearest lessons taught by the European experience, Colonel Ayres asserted, is that there are "no good hedges against inflation." He added:

Did Not Lighten Debt Burdens
"One of the strange facts about these inflation is that while they destroyed the values of most existing debts, they did not succeed in lightening the debt burdens of either the people as a whole, or of the corporations.

"Inflation destroys the value of bonds and mortgages and so confiscates the property of these holders of obligations and hands it over to the shareholders and the equity owners. However, it introduces so many new economic difficulties that these share and equity holders are at once forced to incur new indebtedness so that when stabilization comes the problems of debt are about as troublesome as they were before, or even more so."

The five requisites of inflation were listed by Colonel Ayres as first, a period of sustained active business; second, a rising stock market; third, real credit expansion; fourth, greater outflow of gold "than we can tolerate which would force us to cut our currency entirely free from gold"; and fifth, continued large budget deficits in government operation.

A PROPHECY

Significant economic developments to be expected in the next decade are listed by a prominent business writer as follows: (1) Higher standard of living. (2) Continued advances in technical processes of production. (3) Factory built houses, better and cheaper than hand made houses. (4) Somewhat cheaper money. (5) Faster travel. (6) News printed by radio. (7) Mechanical cotton pickers, revolutionizing the South. (8) Cheaper electric power. (9) Better distribution of goods; more chain stores. (10) Another depression five or six years hence, preceded by an inflationary boom.

TWO QUESTIONS ANSWERED

Why is it that one farmer raises 100 bushels of corn to the acre, and the other one, on the other side of the acre, raises 25 bushels to the acre? Why is it that one farmer produces 100 pounds of pork on five bushels of corn, and another uses 25 bushels? Not until power machinery, scientific principles of soil fertilization and restoration, rotation of crops, diversification of crops and economical feeding are applied to the farm, will the farmers' problem be solved, says a farm authority.

Snake Hunting Hobby of Two Oregon Men
Eugene, Ore.—When you tire of beagling, boon-doggling, bob-sledging, and stamp collecting, try rattlesnake hunting.
You don't have to worry about the game laws. There aren't any.
The technique, according to A. H. Crosby and Ernest Wallace, ardent snailists, is to put a hook on a rake handle, reach into the snake holes and drag the reptiles out. Then you stand about 2 feet away and let him have it with a .22 pistol. The nice part of it is that a rattlesnake will as likely as not aid your aim by twisting his head to peer down the barrel of the gun.
Crosby and Wallace spend their Sundays at the sport, bagging 30 or so in a day, the snakes measure up to 3 feet and with six to ten rattles.

TEETH and HEALTH

By Dr. J. M. WISAN
Chairman, Council on Mouth Hygiene
New Jersey State Dental Society

SAVING TEETH

DOWN in Corsicana, Texas, Dr. Trim Houston provides dental treatment for one thousand and eighty children being reared in an orphan asylum. I used the term "dental treatment" although it would be more appropriate to say "preventive treatment."
Dr. Houston is furnishing clear cut evidence that children's teeth can be saved, that the health of children's mouths can be maintained by adopting preventive measures.
What better proof could be cited than the following data: In the graduating class numbering twenty-nine boys and girls, investigation revealed that no permanent teeth had been extracted for these pupils since they had been in the institution; no "nerves" had been "killed" and forty-two "preventive" fillings had been inserted.
Isn't it comforting to know that parents can safeguard their children's teeth by taking advantage of scientific methods?
Next week's article will show how this institution by providing proper diet as well as regular preventive dental treatment, saved children's teeth.
What is the best diet for teeth? One that contains plenty of milk, vegetables, fruits, says Dr. Wisan. He will discuss diet in his next article.

Learn About Notables Through Their Writing

Harrogate, Tenn.—Undergraduates at Lincoln Memorial university study pictures and handwritings of notable figures in history rather than biographies.
Walls of several university rooms are lined with pictures of famous persons and framed specimens of their handwriting.
"It is a new and scientific method of character study," explained Dr. John Wesley Hill, chancellor. "We feel that we can get more by such a study than by reading a dusty biography. Famous persons could hide behind a printed page. Here we look right into their face and see their own handwriting. We make generals march and move and reappear."
Among notables represented in the school's gallery are Napoleon, Thackeray, Gladstone, Disraeli, Hugo, Lee, Jefferson Davis, Andrew Jackson, Theodore and Franklin Delano Roosevelt, Taft, Lincoln, Mark Twain, Carlyle, Hamilton, Clay and Kipling.

Plan to Restore Island Where Burr Conspired
Parkersburg, W. Va.—Blennerhassett island, scene of part of the Aaron Burr "conspiracy" activities, may be made into a public park if PWA funds are used by the state of West Virginia. Rekindling of interest in the spot has come with the granting of a ferry license to Peter Brookhart of Rockland, an Ohio river town opposite the historical tract. Should the plan be improved, it is expected that tourists from several adjacent states would wish to visit the place.

The island became known nationally through Burr's supposed plan to set up a new country in the Southwest.

Exploratory Seal Has Look at Liberty Statue

New York.—A harbor seal which recently decided to get a good look at the Statue of Liberty, was the first of its species to visit New York harbor in 30 years.

The seal was sighted near Bedloe island. It swam within a few hundred feet of the statue and was seen by a score of persons, as it cannot 'long survive in polluted waters, the seal faces inevitable death if it remains in the harbor.

$1,265 in Coins Almost Too Much for Bandits

Bartley, Neb.—Bandits who looted the State Bank of Bartley were so thorough that they almost were unable to escape with their loot. Included in the $1,265 total was $1,200 in silver coins and $65 in pennies. A ton piled such a load that the bandit who attempted to carry it as he fled had to be supported by a companion.
