THE DOCTOR'S ORDERS

From the advice of physicians as recorded in our news columns, it appears that keeping cool in the hot weather is a matter of diet, clothing, common sense and soap and water. Avoid heavy meals, steer a wide course away from too much meat. Wear light clothing and as little of it as possible. Stay out of the midday sun, eschew the active life when the mercury's in the nineties. Finally, use as much soap and water externally as the law allows.

In order to gain the proper widths, South Market street, from a point south of Maytown avenue must be widened to 46 feet between curbs instead of the present 40 feet. This width will gradually be increased, until it reaches the point where the four-lane highway starts, where a 56foot width between curbs will be established.

In order to gain this necessary width, it will be necessary to take several feet of ground from Mt. Tunnel cemetery, as well as an equal amount from the properties on the opposite side of the street.

TELLS HOW BANKS AIDED PROGRESS

Economist Describes the Ways Banking Institutions Have Contributed to Development of United States

OMAHA. Nebr.-Privately owned banking, despite its faults, has served America well, William A. Irwin, Professor of Economics. Washburn College, Topeka, Kansas, declared in a recent address here on "Banking in a Changing World."

"Under the leadership of individuals banking has helped to bring this country to a foremost place in economic development among the nations of the world," he said. "The small community has been developed by the individual bank. The frontiers of America have been pushed forward by the help and counsel of the individual banker. The shocks of wars and depressions in a century and a half have been withstood with the assistance of the individual

Change May Be Necessary

"It may be that we have reached a tide in the affairs of America when new methods are needed. It may be that we have come to a point where the individual should be submerged for 'the greatest good of the greatest number.'

"It may even be that complete centralization of the banking system has ecome an economic necessity in our complicated social life. But the banker ought to be satisfied that these things are so before he should give up his fight for the system we have known. We came to greatness under that kind of banking; we should not give it up without unmistakable proof of the absolute necessity of such a change."

The American Pattern

Professor Irwin said that the proosal which has been advanced for coordinating banking operations in the national interest under "a 'Supreme Court' for banking is typically American and ought to have the most serious consideration of those elements which are clamoring for political control, which is typically un-American." It is not wise, he said, to oppose changes as such, but that bankers should "see to it that change, if and when it does come, shall preserve all that is good in the past and stick as closely as possible to the American pattern of things.'

Banking is properly a conservative profession, he pointed out, and should eling to practices and principles of banking that are, and always have been fundamentally sound.

"It is to its credit that so large a group of its members never faltered. even in boom times, in their allegiance to those sound principles," he declared. "We probably owe our salvation from
