

Ice Mine Tour...

PENNA. DEPT. OF HIGHWAYS

Travelers who journey into north-central Pennsylvania via Williamsport and Lock Haven enroute to inspect the Coudersport Ice Mine, will be rewarded with a view of this delightful spot in Pine Creek Valley on Route 220, near Jersey Shore.

This is the twenty-second of a series of articles prepared under the direction of Warren Van Dyke, Secretary of Highways, to stimulate interest in the recreational and educational advantages of motor tours within the State. Today's story has to do with the north-central counties, including the city of Williamsport, and explains the geological phenomena known as ice mines, best observed near Coudersport.

Torrid summer days are necessary for fullest enjoyment of one of the least known and most unusual of Pennsylvania's myriad natural wonders—mounting mercury only adding to the delights of the visit. Warren Van Dyke, Secretary of Highways, gives this hot-weather tip in calling the attention of motorists to the Ice Mine just east of Coudersport on Route 6 in Potter County.

Although geologists describe the phenomena as "neither mysterious nor artificial," visitors will find a definite fascination in contemplating this 40-foot pit, floored with solid ice and festooned with icicles even on the hottest day. This sight alone is well worth the drive, but it is not the only attraction to lure tourists into north-central counties.

The Ole Bull State Forest Monument, treated previously in this series, is nearby and travelers who journey from Williamsport over Route 680 may inspect the many attractions of the Leonard Harrison State Forest Park, covering more than 120 acres in one of the most densely wooded areas within the borders of the State.

A pleasant pause in the trip may be made at Williamsport, county seat of Lycoming County and largest city in the section, or travelers may journey via Route 120 from Lock Haven through Renovo to Emporium, crossing the famous Allegheny Plateau region driving most of the way through State forest land.

Scientists have a ready explanation for the ways of Nature which confound the layman as he considers the Ice Mine. They explain that technically it is neither mine or cave, but a vertical shaft about eight feet wide, ten feet long and forty feet deep sunk many years ago in a vain search for metals.

Failing to strike the hoped-for bonanza, operators abandoned the diggings and shortly thereafter ice appeared, to the great delight of the then current owner, who according to tales of the neighborhood, had more use for a natural refrigerator than a useless pit.

The prosaic technical explanation is that the geological structure of the hillside near which the pit is located, is responsible for the entire phenomena. This hillside is a mass of loose slabs and blocks of rock broken by forest action from ledges higher in the mountain. Air pockets abound in the crevices and the action of air from the outside in these pockets causes the unusual happenings.

During winter months air from the outside filters into these crevices chilling the rock in passing to a point far below freezing. This action continues until spring when the circulation is reversed and air coming out from the pockets passes again over these rocks, chilled by this time to an abnormally low temperature, and emerges principally through the mouth of the shaft. Meanwhile, surface water and melting snow entering the top of the shaft freezes either in icicles or in a solid mass on the bottom of the pit. The cold air preserves this ice usually until late September when the circulation slackens and melting begins. However, winters of extraordinary severity sometimes cause a condition which preserves the ice as late as the following November.

Although the Coudersport "mine" is perhaps the most extensive of these displays, others are to be found in the State. About two miles from the mouth of the Great Trough Creek in Huntingdon County, there is a small cavity marked with a sign near a picnic ground on State forest land where ice forms and sometimes remains all summer. Near Troutville, in Clearfield County, ice is reported to form in an abandoned coal mine; and in several other locations, ice, chargeable to similar conditions, is found just under the surface of the ground. These discoveries are reported in the vicinities of Farrisville and McElhattan, Clinton County, and Abbott, in Potter County.

The Leonard Harrison State Forest Park lies a short distance east of the old Black Forest, one of the wildest and grandest sylvan settings in the State. The tract, famed for its great stands of original white pine and hemlock, was given to the State for recreational purposes by Leonard Harrison of Wellsboro. Former Governor William A. Stone, one of the early and ardent advocates of forest conservation, occupied a beautiful bungalow beside picturesque Pine Creek near this site for many years.

Williamsport, the Lycoming County metropolis, dates from pre-Revolutionary Days, settlers having been there many years before a new county was carved from this territory in 1795. The settlement had the normal small-town growth until 1840 when lumbering attracted the attention of business leaders. The next twenty years saw it grow into the greatest lumber city in the Union, and records show that about 1880 as many as 300,000,000 feet of lumber went through the boom in a single year.

However, success did not turn the heads of these sound-thinking business men and seeing the troubles ahead for any city which concentrated its endeavor in only one industry, expansion was undertaken. Within a few years new enterprises appeared and today Williamsport is one of the leading industrial cities in the State. Midway between the anthracite and bituminous coal fields and served by three great railroads, the city's 46,000 should enjoy enviable security of employment.

Improved highways have meant much to Williamsport because of its location midway between the Nation's Capitol in Washington and Niagara Falls, one of the wonders of the world. These chief points of interest in the United States are linked by Route 111 which passes thru Williamsport and many travelers break the journey with a stop there. Recreational and scenic possibilities of the community are almost unlimited and visitors have carried tales of its delights home to every corner of the Nation.

Detailed information regarding tours to this or other sections of the State may be had without charge by addressing the Bureau of Publicity and Information, Room 312, Department of Highways, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

P. P. & L. CO. ANNOUNCES ANOTHER REDUCTION IN ELECTRIC SERVICE

The Pennsylvania Power & Light Company has just announced another reduction in rates, effective with the bills rendered after October 1st, totalling $1,500,000 annually. While this announcement comes as good news to the many thousand users of electricity, considerable interest will also be attached to the fact that the new rate schedule which eliminates the former room charge, is greatly simplified in form and easier understood. The new rate also reduces the charge in the first block one cent per kilowatt-hour and also makes it very easy to visualize the lower cost which follows increased consumption.

This is the third rate reduction benefiting the customers which the Company has made during the "depression." A rate reduction, with a saving to the customers in excess of $1,500,000 was made, effective January 1st, 1931. This was followed by another reduction with a saving to the customers in excess of $700,000, effective April 20, 1933. The third reduction, just announced, effective as of October 1st, 1935, makes a total annual saving to the electric consumers, since January 1st, 1931, in excess of $4,000,000 per year.

The new rate schedule provides for a minimum charge of $1.00 per month which will also include 11 kilowatt-hours of electric service. For the next block of 46 kilowatt-hours, the charge is 6 1/2 cents per kilowatt-hour; for the next block of 70 kilowatt-hours the rate is 3 cents per kilowatt-hour; for the next block of 130 kilowatt-hours, 2 cents per kilowatt-hour and a charge of 1 1/2 cents per kilowatt-hour for all in excess of 257 kilowatt-hours.

The new commercial rate reduces the charge from 7 1/2 cents per kilowatt-hour to 7 cents and with a new optional "demand meter" rate for commercial customers who have loads in excess of 5 kilowatts of demand.

The new rate schedule is the result of intensive research extending over a considerable period, and conferences with the Public Service Commission of Pennsylvania. Customers of the Company will find that the cost of operating electric lights or any of the electrically-operated household devices will be lower than ever before, according to the announcement of the Company, while the ease with which customers can now visualize lower rates that increased use of electricity brings will doubtless permit a greater use of the appliances.

IRONVILLE

Miss Miriam Heagy entered Juniata College at Huntingdon, Penna., where she will take a two year course.

Miss Ruth W. Kauffman attended a week end camp at Kepler's Lodge, Penna., conducted by the Lancaster county Sunday School Association. Mr. and Mrs. Milton Boyer of Philadelphia, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Cleon D. Staley.

Messrs. Benj. Weaver, Daniel McCune, Ephraim Fornoff, John Fox & John Fox, Jr. motored to Philadelphia to see the Detroit and Athletics play a double-header. The Ironville U. B. C. HENRY S. SHIRK IS REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE FOR CO. TREASURER

Blue Ball Banker Heeds Party's Call To Duty To Run For Nomination

Sought by his party to be the regular Republican candidate for the nomination of County Treasurer, Henry S. Shirk, Banker of Blue Ball, has heeded the call of his party to duty. Without pretense he is straightforward in his dealings and of irrefragable character. He taught school for twenty years before he began his banking career at the Blue Ball National Bank on November 5, 1906, and he is one in whom the citizens of the whole county can place their confidence.

In the September Primary election you will vote for candidates for many political offices. One of the most important of these is that of Sheriff. It is your privilege and civic duty to study the candidates, weigh their qualifications, and from this analysis to judge their abilities for rendering honest, public service. I present myself as a candidate for the office of Sheriff for Lancaster County, on the Republican ticket. This office, above all others, requires a man whose interests are in the office itself and in the discharge of its duties rather than in its political ramifications. Upon the proper discharge of the duties of this office the peace and happiness of the county depends. The apprehension of criminals, the protection of life and property—these duties are not to be entrusted to one uninterested or untrained.

The office of Sheriff is not an armed chair job. It is a position which requires a man of sound judgment, able and willing to meet the exigencies of the office. My interest in the office of Sheriff is sincere; my only desire is to serve the citizens of Lancaster County. During my six years' service as Deputy the work of the Sheriff's office has been my only interest in my job is to you. I have learned its many duties and have become thoroughly familiar with its routine. I am a Republican, not by profession, but faith—a firm adherent to the principles of the Republican Party.

If you believe in my principles and appreciate my work during the past six years as deputy, I will be pleased to have your support at the coming primary election Tuesday, September 17, 1935. sep.11-t BENJAMIN H. STAHL

DON'T put the waffle iron high on a cupboard shelf during the summer months, for there are now summer waffles as well as winter waffles. Some day, when you have the makings of a green vegetable salad in the refrigerator, make up your mind to have a waffle dessert. Serve the vegetable salad with bran muffins as a first course. Then wind up the meal triumphantly with summer dessert waffles, topped with ice cream and a fruit sauce—raspberries or any other fruit in season.

Summer Dessert Waffles 2 1/2 cups sifted cake flour; 2 1/2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder; 2 teaspoons sugar; 2 egg yolks, well beaten; 1 1/4 cups milk; 2/3 cup melted butter; 2 egg whites, stiffly beaten. Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and sugar, and sift again. Combine egg yolks, milk, and butter; add to flour mixture, beating until smooth. Fold in egg whites. Bake in hot waffle iron. Cool waffles. Serve a mound of vanilla ice cream on each section of waffle and cover with crushed, sweetened fruit or sauce. Makes five or six 4-section waffles. Remaining waffles may be served cold with any fruit sauce poured over them.

Milton M. Leib

A constant reader and possessor of an unusually retentive memory, he was widely informed on many subjects.

Readers of this paper will recall articles written by him and appearing in these columns in which he gave an interesting account of what he remembered of the connection of this town with the Civil War. Although a young child at the time he retained a vivid recollection of what occurred here in the 60's.

Mr. Leib retired three years ago from the advertising publicity business with which he was connected for many years, because of ill health and has been semi-invalid since that time.

Throughout his life he was interested in everything pertaining to the civic life of his native town and as various fraternal and social organizations came into being, allied himself with many of them and continued his connection with them until his death.

Mr. Leib was a member of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, the Knights of the Golden Eagle and the Sr. O. N. A. M., of Mount Joy. He was secretary of the Mount Joy Board of Health for nineteen years, and was a former registrar of the Bureau of Vital Statistics, State Department of Health, for the Mount Joy district. He also was secretary and manager of the Mount Joy Hall Association, was a charter member of the Richland club, vice president of the Henry Eberle Cemetery association, and one of the oldest members of the Friendship Fire company No. 1.

Surviving him are his wife, Ida Aller Leib, a son, J. Harold Leib, Company. Subsequently he was employed by the Union National Mt. Joy Bank, Mount Joy. In January 1895 he engaged in the hardware business and developed one of the largest and most progressive hardware businesses in Lancaster County. This business was incorporated in 1934 and Mr. Newcomer became its president in which capacity he served until his death. He was also the president of the Union National Mount Joy Bank, the president of the Mount Joy Farmers' Dairy Company since its organization several years ago and president of the Henry Eberle Cemetery Association. He was past-president of the Eastern Implement Dealers' Association, and also past-president of the Pennsylvania and Atlantic Seaboard Hardware Association.

Mr. Newcomer was an active elder in the First Presbyterian Church of Mount Joy of which he had been a member for over thirty-five years. He served as superintendent of the Sunday School for over thirty years. He was a charter member of the Mount Joy Rotary Club and served as one of its presidents. He was born in Rapho township, a son of Mrs. Anna Snyder Newcomer and the late Christian Newcomer. He is survived by his widow Ella Viola (Lola) Strickler Newcomer, by his mother, Mrs. Anna Snyder Newcomer; three children: Clarence of Mount Joy; Emily, the wife of Henry R. Eby, of Pittsburgh; and Anna Virginia, the wife of Edward R. Lane, of Flushing, Long Island, N. Y.; and four grand children. He is also survived by the following brothers and sisters: Norman S. D.; Elizabeth the wife of Henry Miller, Elizabethtown, R. D.; Samuel S., of Kane; and Phares S. of Lititz.

Private funeral services were held at his late home on Monday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock, followed by public services in The First Presbyterian Church at 2:30 o'clock. The Rev. C. B. Segelken, D. D., pastor of the local Presbyterian Church was the officiating clergyman assisted by Bishop Henry Lutz of the Mennonite Church. The interment was made in the Henry Eberle cemetery.

The following persons representing the different organizations with which Mr. Newcomer had been affiliated, acted as honorary pallbearers: Messrs. Clarence Schock, Frank B. Walter, William Coventry, John B. Nissley, E. S. Gerberich, Henry S. Eby, John Roland and the Rev. George A. Kercher. The active pallbearers were: Messrs. Isaiah Sumpman, Andrew Felker, Christ Weidman, Eli Ament, Albert L. Myers, and Roy Zink employees of the H. S. Newcomer & Son Inc. The employees of the H. S. Newcomer & Son Inc., attended the service in a body, as did also the officers and the employees of the Union National Mount Joy Bank, The First National Bank and Trust Company and the Mount Joy Farmers' Dairy Company.

Relatives and friends gathered from far and near to pay their last respects to this relative, neighbor and friend, who had been so active and whose presence and counsel had meant so much to the business, the civic and the religious life of the community for so many years.
