we didn't all get by without some-one playing us for the "fool." Edgar Hagenberger received nice box of sprigs, wood, nails, etc. (all a trifle rusty) but nicely done up and sent by mail.

Raymond Cicero payed twenty cents for a large box sent collect by express and marked Philadelphia. Suprised, Raymond paid and excitedly opened the box. The contents was a pair of very much worn out shoes, slit and torn, in fact, completely wrecked, to be repaired. They had been sent by a business man, who lives just a few doors away from Raymond's shop. It was sent in return for an April Fool telegram the business man had received a short time before.

"What author is known for his vocabulary?" was the question asked by a teacher in our grade school. A very brilliant pupil answered: "Webster."

CANARIES THAT CAN SING JAZZ GAIN IN POPULARITY

Roller canaries, with classical musical educations, are giving way to the chopper, a songster with shorter, brisker notes more like those of the jazz melodies and other compositions popular today. According to a bird dealer, the chopper is a twelve-to-one favorite over the roller in the markets Owners have also noticed that frequently a jazz phonograph record will stimulate their canaries to sing when other means fail. Canaries are being imported into the United States at the rate of several thousand a week, many of the most valuable kinds coming from the Hartz mountains in Germany. Because of their tendency to fight, the males have to be shipped in individual cages, but 100 females can be placed in a single cage.

BANK CHARTERING POLICY REVIEWED

State Official Declares Sound Principles in Licensing Banks Are Essential

PHILADELPHIA-Sound public pelicy in chartering banks was discussed by Carl K. Withers, Commissioner of Banking and Insurance of the State of New Jersey, before the Eastern Conference on Banking Service, held here recently under the auspices of the American Bankers Association. He declared that "few questions bearing on the future stability and security of our banking systems loom as more important than that of a sound policy to be pursued in bank chartering. Alluding to competitive policies of both state and national banking authorities to charter the mos banks in the past, he said that "this country was over-banked, and that aside from any other consideration. economic or otherwise, this condition was brought about largely through an unwise, unsafe and unthinking charter policy, alternating between the state and national sys tems, which has marked and ham pered banking progress in this country since its very inception.'

Political Influence He decried political considerations in connection with the charter ing of banks saying: "Political influence has no more place in bank ing that it has in the deliberations of our highest tribunal-The Supreme Court of the United States. Until this is recognized and brought into being within both our state and national systems, we may never feel safe against the shifting sands of political expedience and favor." As to the "element of sometin ridiculous competition heretofore existing between the state and na tional systems," he said that much may be said in favor of the progres. made in recent years. In many states there exists a practical work ins agreement between local super vising authorities and the federa authorities, whereby all charter ap plications are mutually considered even consider a charter while pending with the other, Aside from the competitive and political aspects of our future charseveral others more individual and local which merit consideration. Among these he mentioned honesty of purpose, community need, the character of management and adequacy of capital.

Most state laws make reference to the "character, responsibility and fitness" of the incorporators of a new bank, he said, continuing:

"So important do I conceive this By transferring grains of pollen factor to be, that I place it first unless the motive is sound, honest

SKIN REGISTERS EMOTIONS

Recent experiments by David Wechsler, a New York psychologist have further shown that the skin an emotional barometer, so that the familiar description of "thick skinned" and "thin skinned" persons has some basis in fact. However, the difference in behavior depends not so much on the question of relative thickness as on the electric resistance of the skin. Of all tissues, the skin is one of the st insulators and, like other materials, it offers less resistance to electricity when moist. Under various emotional strains, perspiration is induced, and the consequent increase in moistness results in greater conductivity of current Practical use of this discovery has been suggested in the field of criminal investigations.

THE OLDEST LIVING THINGS

So far as is known, the oldes living thing in the world today is a tree. It may be one of the giant sequoias of the Pacific coast, an East African haobab or one of the cypresses of Mexico. A tree of this kind near Oaxaca, is said to have lived 6,000 years. It is forty-one feet through the trunk and, though its exact age cannot be determined without cutting the trunk and counting the rings, an approximate reckoning is made by comparing it with others of the same kind. By counting the rings, it has been found that some of the sequoias have lived a least 5,000 years. Among the animals, the longest-lived generally are supposed to be the big tortoises of the Galapagos islands, which are estimated to be 200 years old. Carp, kept in ponds have lived to be 150, and parrots have lived eighty years in captivity. The longest-lived insect is the locust, but it spends all but a month
