

Sixteeners Association Held 49th

After the completion of the business session, memorial services were held for those Sixteeners who died during the past year. These services were conducted by Mrs. Lizzie Baum and were unusual, beautiful and impressive.

These two veterans, now past four score and ten, thrilled their hearers by citing incidents of the great war and in addition made a big hit playing old time pieces on their old fiddles.

The boys and girls all wish them continued good health, with a view of again having them as guests on the 50th anniversary of the association a year hence.

An Episode of the Civil War

Charles Gearhart, 3rd Division, 9th Corporation then delivered the following: "I desire to make known some ancient history about an event we as orphans do not know generally. It is of the final battle of the Civil War, the battle of Fort Steadman, October 25, 1865.

General Lee was finally convinced that he could not hold his own much longer. His last hope was in the success of this assault and he was able to join General Johnson in North Carolina. One incident before the assault I wish to give you.

The pickets of both sides after months of duty became friendly. They knew each other and at 4 a. m. in the morning when the assault was to be made the signal to start was to be a signal shot. But just before this time the Union picket heard some noise and called out, "What are you doing over there, Johnny? What is the noise? Answer quick or I'll shoot." The Johnny said he was getting rations from the cornfield. He stood by the side of General J. B. Gordon and with rifle pointed upward hesitated. His conscience seemed to get hold of him, he was going in to eternity and did not feel disposed to go with a lie on his lips by which he had thrown the Union picket off his guard. His hesitation surprised General Gordon, who ordered, "Fire your gun sir." He at once called to his kind-hearted foe and said, "Hello, Yank, wake up; we are going to shell the woods, look out we are coming." And with this effort to satisfy his conscience with the Yankee picket, he fired the shot and rushed forward in the darkness.

They captured Fort Steadman but before the day was over our own General Hartranft with 6 regiments of Pennsylvania troops, No. 200, 205, 207, 208, 209 and 211 Infantry, recaptured the fort. Our mutual friend and Cassville 16er Seward Jones of Boston lost his good father in the capture of the Fort. He was Lieutenant of the 209th Regiment. The Pennsylvania Regiments formed the 3rd Division, 9th Corps, Army of the Potomac.

Park." It has the remains and markers of 42 forts. The siege lasted nearly 10 months.

KILL WEEDS IN GARDEN

Weeds draw heavily on the water and food supply in the garden soil. Timely shallow cultivation destroys small weed seedlings before they get started. Also, less moisture is lost because the deeper moist soil is not exposed to drying winds.

Motorists Should Be Safe, Courteous

Simple rules of safety and courtesy which any motorist should be willing to follow as a part of his responsibility to save human lives from destruction on American highways form the basis of the Silvertown Safety League sponsored by The B. F. Goodrich Company.

These rules are no more than any humanitarian driver would expect to follow in protection of his own life, let alone helping to protect the lives of millions of other motorists and pedestrians who come in contact with the ever-flowing lanes of motor traffic, says Mr. H. E. Garber, Goodrich tire dealer located at Mt. Joy and Elizabethtown two of the thousands of dealer headquarters in the United States for the Silvertown Safety League.

The Silvertown Safety League was organized by the Goodrich Company to promote a militant movement among American motorists to reduce the increasing number of fatalities attributed to automobile operation.

Nearly two million motorists responded to this plan and enrolled in the ranks to combat this devastating force which annually causes the death of more men, women and children than the combined fatalities of the World War.

"The Silvertown Safety League is designed to form public opinion along one line," Mr. Garber says. The causes of accidents are known, the cures are definitely outlined, and there is a challenge to American motorists to halt the onslaught of the careless driver.

He must be made, either by law or reason, to meet the requirements of safe driving. Education is effective in accomplishing this the fire hall, Thursday evening with about seventy-five persons present.

The program included two skits, "School Days" was given by Ruth Baker and Nancy Greiner, and "Evening Paper," by Edith Heiserman and Mrs. Jesse Horst; vocal trio, Miss Evelyn Heiserman, Mrs. Esther Messer and Mrs. Bertha Miller; recitations, John Henry Herr, Miss Ruth Hoffman was the accompanist. end. The Silvertown Safety League is based on the following general points:

- 1—Recognition of the dangers;
- 2—Careful and courteous driving;
- and 3—Proper automobile maintenance.

Motorists who join the League are under no obligation. They sign a pledge of safe driving and receive a Silvertown Safety League emblem for their automobile.
