P. P. & L. CO. BUILDING PROGRAM PROVIDES EMPLOYMENT FOR MANY

Construction work, principally centering in the building of electric distribution lines extending service in rural areas, in the territory served by the Pennsylvania Power & Light Company, has stepped up the number of men engaged in outdoor construction and maintenance work from 250 employed in June 1935 to upwards of 1600 men at the present time, according to a statement by Mr. Norman G. Reinicker, Vice President and General Manager of the Company.

This total approaches the peak of 1925 during the building of the high Wallenpaupack dam as part of the hydroelectric development of the Company at which time between 1700 and 1800 men were employed there and in other construction work at other points. In 1931 when the fourteen inch gas main was laid down from the Tioga gas fields a distance of 56 miles to Williamsport, between 1400 and 1500 men were engaged in outdoor construction work.

At the present time the rural line construction work in the P. P. & L. territory is progressing at the rate of approximately 100 miles per month. This construction work, Mr. Reinicker points out, is in accord with plans adopted by the officials of the Co. several years ago to continue the extension of service into rural areas, thereby providing employment, notwithstanding the discouraging outlook of the depression period.

More than 350 miles of rural lines were constructed by the Co. during the six months period ending June 30 bringing the total to upwards of 4,800 miles, serving more than 57,000 rural customers. The building program for the balance of the year contemplates the construction of approximately 800 additional miles of line.

COAL REGION BUSINESS MEN TO BOOST ANTHRACITE

A plan is on foot, sponsored by representative business men of the anthracite coal region to arrange a meeting in Convention Hall in Philadelphia, September 23rd, in the interest of increased consumption of hard coal. Philadelphia manufacturers, jobbers, hotel men and representatives of all classes of industry are to be invited to attend the session.

In preparation for the event a delegation of forty-five merchants and business men of the anthracite region met with Mayor S. Davis Wilson, of Philadelphia, recently. Mayor Davis, according to reports, manifested great interest in the plan. "I am selfish about this movement," he told the delegation. "I realize that if we help you sell your coal we're going to sell you more of our manufactured goods. From a cold-blooded business standpoint it is the only thing to do."

The mayor also announced his willingness to campaign throughout the state to stimulate the use of anthracite coal.

"We want to impress upon you in Philadelphia," said Robert W. Bersch, of Hazleton, chairman of the delegation, "that we are a one crop section and we are not in competition with Philadelphia industries. Our welfare depends upon the sale of coal. Our potential buying power is to your benefit for it is your potential market."

Included in the delegation were: Mayor Lord, of Pottsville; Mayor R. Alvan Beisel, of Hazleton; Peter Borton, Burgess of Tamaqua, former mayor Eugene Gillespie, of Pittston; Howard Strong, secretary of the Wilkes-Barre Chamber of Commerce and Russell Bevins of the Pottsville Chamber of Commerce.

POTATO CONSUMPTION HIGH

If every man, woman and child in the United States ate an equal amount of potatoes each would consume 11 pounds annually, according to records of the Agricultural Department kept over a number of years. Peak consumption was reached in 1922 with 170 pounds per capita; the lowest point was in 1930 and 1932, each with but 118 pounds.
