

OWL LAFFS

BY A WISE OWL

Yes sir there ought to be a law against it. We parents had to answer a flock of questions on Saturday. We take our kids to Lancaster and they see a Santa Claus in every store and a half a dozen on the streets, we come home and shop in our local stores and there's a couple more Santa Clauses. No two look alike or talk the same. All of them shake hands with the kids and ask them what they want.

The kids didn't mind telling Santa Claus the first two or three times but when they got to the ninth and tenth they start to ask: "Gee whiz, pop, can't Santa Claus remember at all? How's he gonna remember till Christmas if he forgets in fifteen minutes? If he's so forgetful why don't he get the presents mixed up? ... And that goes on for hours. So I still say, there ought to be a law against it.

A small boy went into Joe the tailor's shop yesterday and asked for samples of cloth. Joe asked: "When your father sent you for samples of cloth didn't he say what color and material he wanted?" The smaller boy answered: "I don't think it matters, sir. He wants to use them for pen-wipers." ... Noive I call it.

A man wrapped up in himself makes a very small package.

"My wife has been nursing a grouch all week," complained a Florin hubby to a local man "Saturday night. The latter asked: "Been laid up, what ailed you?"

A highway cop blew his whistle shrilly, jumped on his cycle and chased a speeding car. He finally forced it to the curb. A good looking blonde sat at the wheel. The cop, not the least bit affected by her smile, bellowed: "Hey! Pull over to the curb, lady. Do you know you were doing seventy-five?" And the cute she cooed: "Isn't it marvelous! —And I just learned to drive yesterday."

A Salunga lady was at Lancaster shopping and, walking past a man holding a tin cup, she dropped a coin in it and said: "And here's a penny, my poor man. Tell me how you became so destitute." The beggar looked at the lady, rather disgustedly, glanced at the penny and remarked: "I used to be like you, mum. .... always giving away vast sums to the poor and needy."

Cappy Mumma, one of our outstanding, enthusiastic nimrods now wonders if he can't get some government department to pay him for not shootin any pheasants.

Which reminds me, we note in an exchange an item to the effect that the members of a Marietta hunting club partook of a fine stake supper the occasion being the big feed following the rabbit hunt.

I was watching the dangerous antics of a very active mule and the negro boy who was his keeper. After half an hour I asked: "Doesn't that mule ever kick you?" The darky answered: "No, sah, he ain't yet, but he frequently kicks de place where Ah recently was."

The real optimist, says Red Metzler is the fellow who tried to pick my pocket.

A very beautiful blonde passed the Cut Rate store when several local lads were parked outside. She completely ignored them. A few minutes later, while guzzling cokes with lemon, one of the fellows announced: "That blonde was a telephone operator." A friend inquired: "How do you know she was an operator?" "And the first speaker explained: "I said 'hello' and she didn't answer." ..... It's a habit.

LANDISVILLE

The Junior Christian Endeavor Society of the Landisville Church of God held their annual Christmas party in the social room of the church Wednesday afternoon.

About 24 members attended the party. Games were played and gifts exchanged by the various members.

Refreshments were served by the teachers, Mrs. Harry Miller and Miss Martha Jane Reist, who have charge of the society.

The Women's Bible class of the Church of God Sunday school held the annual Christmas party Tuesday, at the home of the teacher.
