

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

"Bring 'Em Back Alive"

Hunting with the camera offers many a thrill. This trophy was "shot" against the light of a clouded sun on supersensitive film.

MANY experienced sportsmen who can't be accused of being "softies" have been giving attention of late to hunting and fishing photography. They are trying to get on film, for permanent record and lasting enjoyment, flashes of outdoor drama that stamp themselves on their memories but which never can be adequately pictured in words.

These sportsmen realize that, unless one is a dramatic story teller, recounting how the buck deer leaped the windfall or how the big trout jumped and took the lure that got caught in the alder, does not always "get over"; but, to be able to show one's friends an actual picture of such a happening, ah! that is not only convincing but a much greater satisfaction. Moreover, camera using sportsmen are taking as much pride in their picture trophies as in having actually shot the game or caught the fish, and rightly so, after discovering that to capture wild life with a camera requires as much skill, alertness, and quick thinking as with rod or gun.

The advent of the vest pocket and miniature-type cameras, together with modern fast film, is principally responsible for adding this new zest to the sport of hunting and fishing; indeed, for actually creating a new outdoor sport, because many now hunt equipped with a camera only. In the first place, these cameras are light, small and convenient to carry, some of them weighing scarcely more than a couple of loaded shotgun shells. Secondly, the miniature type is available with ultra fast lenses and shutter speeds, so that the jumping fish or the running animal may be "stopped" on the film without much chance of showing blur. And it is especially these ac-

What'll We Do? --- Let's Play A Game

CLOTHESPIN—Looks easy, but try it. The game of "Clothespins" is one which both young and old will enjoy. The object of the game is to see how many clothespins you can drop into the milk bottle while kneeling on a chair. Coins, beans or matches may also be used in case you can't find any clothespins.

Birds Having Long Eggs Cycles Lay Small Eggs

An egg cycle is the number of days a hen lays without a pause. If a hen lays 23 days before she pauses to rest she is said to have a long egg cycle, notes a writer in the Missouri Farmer. If she lays only two or three days in succession and pauses she is said to have a short egg cycle. There are hens that have laid every day for more than a month without stopping, and that is the kind that rise to the 300-egg class; for a hen that lays 300 eggs per year has little time for vacations. Usually hens with long egg cycles lay small eggs and when this is the case her desired prolificacy is offset by the bad point of weight. It is a rare and valuable combination when the long egg-cycle brings eggs of good size with it, provided the hen has the stamina to live for a second year and can pass her good qualities on to her offspring.

Most poultrymen are content with a moderate-laying hen—a hen with a medium-sized egg cycle, that lays a good size egg and has the ability to live long. Again, this is the "happy medium."
