

OWL LAFFS

A WISE OWL

This being a new month I'll start my column with a bit of advice. Always remember that sunny smiles are often worn by shady people.

These being the days when horse racing is at its height in a nearby state, quite a number of local turf followers spend several days a week there. Some take over the bookies, while a choice few are just naturally taken over.

Monday nite the activities at Pimlico were being discussed. One particular patron of the bookies whose ponies always come home last, was summing up his losses of the last few weeks at Bowie. Havre-de-Grace and now Pimlico. A friend, hoping to cheer him up said: "You've one consolation. You know, in Heaven the last shall be first." A smile immediately lighted the losers face and he exclaimed: "Oh, boy! Will I clean up in Heaven!

One way of making a wife sit up and take notice is to talk in your sleep.

A newly married hubby came home from work at the Shoe Factory last night and upon entering the house he called: "Hello, wife dear, what are we having for supper?" She called: "There's two days 'till pay day and the money's all gone so we're having sponge cake. I sponged the eggs from Mrs. Way, the flour from Mrs. Hinkle and the milk from Mrs. Smith."...The first ten years are the toughest, you'll learn to manage.... I hope!

With all the fertile soil in the country it's strange that rural lassies go to the big city to sow their wild oats.

Saturday at Lancaster a Manheim business man went into a restaurant for dinner. After sitting at a table very patiently for an hour he shouted: "Waiter, I ordered a half trout an hour ago." The waiter sneered: "You must be mistaken. We can't catch half a trout."...Odd, isn't it?

Three on a match is bad, they say. We agree, especially if it's a matrimonial match.

After a year of wedded bliss (??) a sweet young thing from Salunga met up with an old school chum she hadn't seen for sometime. The chum asked: "And are you happily married?" And the bride of a year answered: "Yes, indeed! My husband is scared to death of me."

The difference between a wild horse and a tame horse: Only a little bit.

Dick B. was out on a new date Sunday night. Meaning to start the evening right he began with flattery, saying: "You look like a million dollars." And the femme haughtily exclaimed: "Yes, and I'm just as hard to make."...Is zat so?

Dumb Dora says: "The only type of man who'd marry a wooden woman is a blockhead."

A Florin lady went to the hospital Monday and before she "went under" ether she shakily whispered: "Doctor, I'm scared to death. This will be my first operation." The doctor patted her hand saying: "Sure, I know just how you feel. You're my first patient."...Nice cheerful thought. Sympathetic anyway.

As soon as a fellow uses a little horse sense, everybody rides him.

"What's the hardest substance in the world?" "A diamond." "Smarty, how do you know?" "I slipped and fell when I was playing basketball."

Well, Red, the shopping days are over... or are they? You sure did things up brown, what with all the sirens, bells and party. But you better come down to earth now and say, Red, don't unthinkingly walk out the door in the evening to spend the

Local Marble Tournament Is Progressing

FOUR SEEDED PLAYERS STILL BATTLING FOR HONORS—CONTESTS ARE NOW IN QUARTER FINALS

The Boys' Marble Tournament has reached the quarter finals with four seeded players surviving. These are Robert Germer, seeded No. 1 and last year's champion; Robert Zink, William Brown and Harold Fellenbaum. The four unseeded boys who will survive are Robert Reheard, Charles Hendrix, Robert Archer and Jack McClellan.

Of the seeded players who have defeated James Schatz, Park Niess and Louis Shenk have advanced far enough to enter the loser's tournament, so they still have a chance for the borough championship. It must be remembered that last year's champ came up from the loser's tournament.

The girls' tournament has also advanced to the quarter finals with Helen Young, last year's champion; Eva Reigle, Pauline Edwards, Verne Strickler, Madelyn Sumpman, May Zerphe, June Milligan, Joanne Brown and Nancy Ellis still surviving.

Fourth round results for the boys were: Robert Germer defeated Robert Newcomer, 7-1, 7-6; Robert Reheard defeated Robert Pennell, 7-3, 7-5; Robert Zink defeated Robert Nissley, 7-6, 7-0; Harold Fellenbaum defeated Marshall Gemberling, 7-0, 7-0; Charles Hendrix defeated James Schatz, 6-7, 7-0, 7-0; Robert Archer defeated Billy McLaughlin, 3-7, 7-5, 7-5; Jack McClellan defeated Robert Stoner, 6-7, 6-5, 7-3; William Brown defeated Galen Rohrer, 7-1, 7-6.

Fourth round results for the girls were: Helen Young defeated Rosine Kling, 7-1, 7-2; Eva Reigle defeated Betty Gutschall, default; Pauline Edwards defeated Evelyn Gerber, 7-2, 7-2; Verne Strickler defeated Jean Schneider, 7-3, 7-0; Madelyn Sumpman defeated Anna Rohrer, 7-2, 6-7, 7-2; Mary Zerphe defeated Frances Reed, default; June Milligan defeated Caroline Smith, default; Joanne Brown-Nancy Ellis (yet to be played).

Those that won prizes were: Mrs. William Hoffman, Mrs. Krall, Mrs. Spahr, Mrs. Newcomer and Mrs. Stehman.

JAPANESE CHERRY TREES IN FULL BLOOM HERE

The two Japanese Cherry trees in the park are in full bloom. The blossoms are a deep pink and are double, looking like little pink rambler roses scattered profusely all over the tree.

They're really beautiful, folks. You should make it a point to see them.
