There's a circus playing in New York now and in it there's a midget. And everyone felt sorry for the midget because he was so short, that when he felt ill he didn't know whether he had a headache or corns.

Points of Interest throughout Pennsylvania

BETHLEHEM PIKE

Do you know that what is commonly known as the Bethlehem Pike has been in use for approximately two centuries?

This highway is now designated as Route 309. Out of Philadelphia is Montgomery Square which was the first post office in Montgomery Township, which, when settled in 1714, had an area of 7,170 acres. In 1734 there were only 28 landholders and tenants in the district. In the early history of this region the United States mail was carried on foot from Colmar to Montgomery Square, a distance of a little more than two miles.

Montgomery Square is the birthplace of Winfield Scott Hancock, who was born February 14, 1824, in what is now known as the Blue Jay Tavern.

At Montgomeryville is located a Baptist Church which is more than 100 years old. The original edifice was erected in 1719.

NEW LITERATURE

Do you know that Pennsylvania is winning a deserved reputation of being the most scenic State in the country?

Since the Pennsylvania Scenic and Historic Commission began its work of publicity one year ago, the Keystone State's scenic and historic attractions have been brought to the attention of the public in each of the 48 states, as well as in countries beyond our national boundary lines. With Secretary of Highways, Warren Van Dyke, as the directing head of the Commission, the second issue of 100,000 scenic and historic map folders will be ready soon for free distribution; and by April 1, it is expected that 25,000 copies of the revised booklet, "Pennsylvania has Everything," will be off the press. Practically this entire quantity has already been reserved to fill requests from newspapers and individuals within and outside the State.

MILL RIFT POST OFFICE

Do you know that some post offices in Pennsylvania were named in a most peculiar manner?

For example, let us consider Mill Rift, in Pike County, at the end of Route 963, which connects it with the Roosevelt Highway (Route 6) at the Matamoras-Port Jervis Bridge. It was in 1818 that James Sawyer moved his family from Orange County, N. Y., to the point where the Bushkill Creek empties into the Delaware River. He built a home and a saw-mill. He was the first settler. In this region the Delaware races over its rocky bottom. These rapids soon became known as Saw-Mill Rift, and this was the first name given to the little settlement. In 1848 the Erie Railroad "came to town" as a single-track operation and here was the passing point for trains; hence, the railroad men called it Turnout. The little village that had sprung up was Turnout to some and Saw-Mill Rift to others. In 1884 a post office was established under the name of Mill Rift.

This little town is now a summer resort, depicting some of the finest mountain scenery of the Delaware Valley. The "Elephant's Feet," a grotesque rock formation, guards the Delaware River at this place. Hawk's Nest Mountain Drive is held out to tourists as a scenic road. Bluestone of a superior color and quality is found in this region.

Local inhabitants like to point out to tourists the rock shelters known as Tom Quick's Cabin. Tom is said to have killed 99 Indians in revenge for the slaying of his father.

MIFFLINVILLE

Do you know that Mifflinville, in Columbia County, was laid out with the exception that it would become the capital of Pennsylvania?

Mifflinville is located along the Susquehanna River off Route 11. It was laid out in 1794 by John Kunchel and William Rittenhouse. It was named for Governor Thomas Mifflin. The founders had high hope of making it the capital of the Keystone State. An effort was made at one time to establish the county seat in this town.

Ten lots were set aside for religious and educational purposes. Today three churches and a town hall occupy four of these lots, while the remainder of the land remains as unused public ground. The town is noted for its wide streets, the main street being 132 feet wide, and all other streets being 66 feet in width. The population is about 700.

TOWN OF MANOR

Do you know that a grist mill was the first and only building in the town of Manor, in Westmoreland County, for a number of years?

This section of land was first known as Denmark-Manor and was one of the four estates procured from the heirs of William Penn.

In 1783 Stoefel Walthour, a farmer, built a grist mill on Brush Creek at the western end of the town. Nothing but the foundation of this historic landmark may be seen today. Even as late as 1869 there were only twelve houses in the town.

MAYTOWN YOUTH NAMED TO PRINCETON SOCIETY

Jacob R. Risser, Maytown, has been promoted to full membership in Princeton University's Sigma Xi chapter, National Honorary Scientific Society, it was announced Monday.

A graduate student of the Physics Department, Risser was one of fifteen to be named. He is a graduate of Franklin and Marshall College.

Scientific research since 1880 has rescued by half the cost of fertilizer measured in terms of plant-food units.

Our Card Basket For Past Week

Discounts At Hotels, Cheap Travel, Wholesale Price On Cook Book Is Privilege Of Congressmen

Washington, April 15—In the Spring a young man's fancy—particularly if he's a member of the Congress—turns, not to love as the poet says, but rather to the many and unusual privileges which accrue to his legislative state.

"Rookie" members of the new Congress are finding this a very fascinating past-time which reveals a host of attractions, to wit: ocean travel at $1.25 a day; discounts at hotels; and a free funeral.

In addition, when he quits for the Summer recess he can ship personal belongings home in government boxes at no cost. He is allowed 20 cents a mile traveling expense between his home and Washington and he can cut down on tips and file mitigation and save a large amount. If he has not already figured it out, he soon will realize his stay in the capital also entitles him to free medical attention, free workouts in the gymnasium, free office space, free parking for his automobile and, as a gesture to the little woman, wholesale prices on visiting cards and the Congressional Cook Book at cost.
