

OWL LAFFS

BY A WISE OWL

Well, Red, you've got something there. But remember, there's just 21 more shopping days 'til Christmas.

One of our town blondes decided to go in for chicken raising. So she bought a hundred chicks from Shelly. After one week she called Shelly up and complained: "All my baby chicks are dying."

Dick Bates says, "That the straight and narrow road is no road to go to town on."

During the family "conflab" on Sunday, one of the relations asked: "Say, by the way, what became of that missionary who had the Ph. D., L.L.D. and B. A.?"

John Brubaker says: "The best way to make a long story short, is to walk out on a long-winded story teller."

Monday evening I went to visit an old married couple but when I stood at the door ready to knock I heard the following: "Woman, if you were any dumber, you'd be drawing down a fortune from a sideshow as the dumbest human in the world."

Every day is a new leaf in the life of a tree surgeon.

Up at the dance at E'town on Friday night, a femme, lovely to look at but awkward to dance with, remarked: "My, this dance floor is certainly slippery."

Cappy Mamma says: "You can have a barrel of fun with a pint." And Johnny Zeager agreed saying: "Yeh, most people don't care about a bird in the hand. What they want is a swallow."

Listening to the Army-Navy game on Saturday, one of the fire laddies, J. Roy Eshleman, said: "In the game it's gri." And Red Mateer exclaimed: "Yeh, but in spatech it's terrible."

A proud new Papa told a friend, that the only thing most baby doctors have in common with the storks, is the size of their bills.

A Barbara street girl was always crying the blues because everytime she saw her reflection it was full of freckles. Monday, a friend of hers rushed up to me and shouted: "Helen's finally found a lotion that took the freckles off her face."

Many a gal whose morals are oak is just waiting to be axed.

Dumb Doris's not so dumb anymore. She told her boy friend took her to a movie last night and they necked all through the picture. So I asked: "Are you going again soon?"

A piece of friendly advice. On getting rid of a husband, if at first you don't succeed, try, try a gun.

Money is filthy lucre and it talks, but any girl will listen to dirt.

Dealers Must Report Sales of Used Cars

Harrisburg, Pa.—Automobile dealers were warned today by Secretary of Revenue J. Griffith Boardman that in the future the Bureau of Motor Vehicles must be notified of every used car sold outside the State.

The warning came as a result of the mailing of applications for 1938 license plates to the owners of all vehicles registered in Pennsylvania.

Boardman stated that the department was immediately tightening up on the enforcement of this provision of the law and that steps would be taken to check up on dealers' used car stocks.

Where a used car is taken in trade and then resold outside the State without the dealer taking title in his own name, the department will in the future require the dealer to file the Dealer's Notification form T-29.

Heretofore, in the absence of such notification, the records of the bureau continued to show these vehicles as still being owned by the original owners because certificates of title cannot be cancelled by the department until definite information is received as to the disposition of the vehicles.

Sure is a raft of gassin' and talk goin' on, pro and con as you might say, about this here big business versus the little feller.

But the whole argument, it kinda looks off-center and squee-gee, and is maybe just bein' stirred up so as to let some duck get himself elected to something, during the confusion.

I always figured that business is just business—like if you have something like maybe a laundry and wash 100 shirts a day, it would be kind of a big job, and be bigger business than if you only washed 10 shirts.

And if you have a shirt and should send it to a little laundry and it comes home spick and span and everything O. K., you will stick by the feller who did the good job.

And maybe I do not savvy economics, like it is in some books or is preached around, but she seems to me as if big business is just an outfit that grew big, from a small start, because it did a good job—and didn't send your shirt back with maybe half the buttons off.

Yours, with the low down,

Calico, Silk, Cashmere Names From Other Lands

Many of our names for cloth come to us from the Orient, observes a writer in the Kansas City Star, Calico is from Calicut, India, the city from which it was first imported.

Damask is characterized by woven designs which represent flowers or conventional figures. It was originally made of silk, but the same name was later applied to the same weave in silk, cotton, rayon or wool used for hangings and upholstery, and to linen woven for table napery and towels.

The word silk we should expect to be associated with China, and it is but the name has come to us in a roundabout way. The Anglo-Saxon was serice, from the Latin sericum, from Greek serikon, literally Seric stuff, from Seres, the Greek name for the Chinese.

Linsey-woolsey is an old English name from linsel, linen, and woolsey, wool. Many woolen fabrics bear English names, such as melton, from a town of that name in Leicestershire, and worsted, from a town in Norfolk.

Broadcloth was so called because this fine fabric was woven wider than ordinary woollens. Flannel is a word of doubtful origin, but is found in similar form in French, Spanish and the Scandinavian tongues.

The Low Down From Hickory Grove

I was scribblin' not so long ago about how I married Mrs. Jo there in Topeka, and about where all I had traveled, and about my politics and such.

And this Texas feller he says he thinks I must be a Hoover democrat. And he also intimates that the sheriff may have had something to do with my kinda extensive travelin'.

So one of these days I am gonna fill up the old tank and amble down there and look this person up, and also another person, who is a V. P. of the U. S., and if I can locate him, maybe he can help me on my budget.

And I have trouble makin' ends meet, because stuff is high and most of it is high on account of taxes. And one tax that riles me up most, is the 4 or 5 or 6 cents on gasoline—and I will ask the V. P. about that.

ARE YOU ONLY A THREE-QUARTER WIFE? MEN, because they are men, can never understand a three-quarter wife—a wife who is all love and kindness three weeks in a month and a hell cat the rest of the time.

No matter how your back aches—no your nervous system—don't take it out on your husband. For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three or four years of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age."

Don't be a three-quarter wife, take LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND and Go "Smiling Through."

HOW OFTEN CAN YOU KISS AND MAKE UP? FEW husbands can understand why a wife should turn from a pleasant companion into a shrew for one whole week in every month.

You can say "I'm sorry" and kiss and make up easier before marriage than after. Bewise, if you want to hold your husband, you won't be a three-quarter wife.
