The subscription lists of three other newspapers, the Mount Joy Star and News, the Landisville Vigil and the Florin News were merged with the Bulletin, which makes this paper's circulation practically double that of the average weekly.

EDITORIAL

Some time ago we mentioned that a walk for pedestrians will be laid between here and Florin. At the time we stated work would start within a month. That was several months ago but to date nothing has been done and many are of the impression it was just a story. By reference to an article elsewhere in the Bulletin it may be seen that they expect to start June 1st, unforeseen obstacles having delayed the project.

This will be good news to all who have occasion to travel, many daily, between here and Florin.

LITTLE HE KNEW

We take pleasure in making reference to an editorial written by Austin McCullough, Democratic editor of the News-Journal, which appeared March 18, just two months preceding the primary. It follows:

"The spokesman for the local Republican 'machine' announces its support of ex-Governor Pinchot. That is good politics because the ex-Governor seems so far out in front that no one is likely to catch him for the Republican nomination for Governor."

Much you know—Mr. Editor. James not only caught him but passed Pinchot at the polls like one of the Pennsylvanian's new electric trains would pass a hand car.

And here's hoping he passes Jones just as easily at the battle of ballots at the coming general election.

HOW WOMEN KEEP YOUNG

Almost as important as the advance in science in the last two decades has been the advance in the art of keeping women looking young and attractive. So well has the art been mastered by many women that they retain what it takes to interest a man through their fifties and even sixties.

More important than beauty shops in this great achievement has been the development of household labor-saving devices. It is probably no exaggeration to say that a woman can keep house with a third of the time and effort that was required at the beginning of the century. Canned goods, prepared foods, electric appliances, and the automobile have been the important labor-savers. Thus freed from drudgery, women have had time to give attention to their hair, face, feet, hands, and to worry about their weight. They have also time to cultivate intellectual interests, and to perfect their skill in such games as tennis and golf.

Women of leisure, of course, have always enjoyed these advantages, but the interesting fact today is that the circle is widening so rapidly.

THE WISE BUSINESS MAN

The wise advertiser knows that it is useless to convey his advertising message to people who, because of an existing economic depression, have practically no purchasing power. He also knows that the paper in which his advertising appears must have adequate circulation and reader interest. That The Bulletin has the former, a casual glance at our subscription list will readily show. That it enjoys the latter, the scores of testimonials on our desk will abundantly testify. That wise advertisers are conscious of these facts, the pages of this and previous issues verify.

Another characteristic of The Bulletin as an effective advertising medium is the fact that it reaches hundreds of prosperous rural families not directly affected by business recessions; and what is equally important, families not reached by city dailies, a fact plainly revealed by a little observation at our country or small-town post offices and by information gleaned from incidental remarks dropped by rural postal employees, saying nothing of the knowledge obtained by interrogating our subscribers.

In addition to the above, The Bulletin has a stable, constantly growing list of paid-up, enthusiastic subscribers, a list that has increased during the depression, and above all, a list that has suffered no depletion because of an unsatisfactory subscription price. These facts are matters of vast importance to the advertiser who aims to reach potential buyers, as well as present customers.

MORE KINDNESS AND LESS CASTOR OIL

The owner and operator of the principal drug store in a small town in Montana, writes: "Every third man that goes out of the store has a government check for some reason or other—WPA allotment, conservation, rehabilitation, etc. It is getting to be a joke even to those who receive the checks. . . . What will be the end of it all?" The same question is looming ever larger in the minds of millions. The lengthening shadow of a rising public debt presages a ruinous answer.

According to Senator Byrd of Virginia, Federal expenditures (after deduction of the soldiers' bonus) for the fiscal year ending July 1, 1938, will be $600,000,000 greater than the previous fiscal year. Moreover, annual Federal expenditures have doubled and nearly tripled in the last decade. They are currently in the neighborhood of $8,000,000,000—far in excess of revenues even in boom times.

Memorial Day Birthplace?

The little town of Boalsburg, Centre County, claims the honor of originating the Memorial Day custom of decorating soldiers' graves. Here in 1864, Emma Hunter laid a wreath on the grave of her father, Dr. Reuben Hunter, Union Army surgeon. Her grand-daughter Emma Eliza Stuart still carries on the family tradition.

There is just one way to stop this reckless plunge toward bankruptcy and that is to make it possible for private enterprise to operate once again on profitable basis, thus allowing government to curtail "emergency" spending. Profit destroying taxes must be removed.

There are nearly ten million free enterprises in this country. Instead of trying to "make democracy work" under insurmountable handicaps, it should be given a chance to work by giving these ten million private enterprises, financed with private capital, an opportunity to function, thereby encouraging investment of capital and employment of labor.
