

GAVE A CONCERT

Maytown—A concert will be given by the direction of E. W. Gerth, in Maytown Center Square Sunday evening, at 8:30 o'clock.

The poets used to write beautiful verses about the raindrops. It seems to take drops of gasoline poured into the automobile tank to enthuse the present.

The Motor Vehicle Strength

The "motor vehicle strength" of the warring nations of Europe is shown in a statistical study made public by the Keystone Automobile Club.

A comparison of motor vehicle registrations in warring countries with those of New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, New Jersey and Maryland discloses that these five States have 1,300,760 more vehicles—cars and trucks—than France, Germany, Poland, England, Northern Ireland, Scotland and Wales.

Pennsylvania has 160,266 more motor vehicles than Germany, while the combined total of New York, Ohio and Maryland exceeds by 184,110 the registrations of both the British Isles and France. New Jersey's total is more than 20 times the number of vehicles in Poland. On the sidelines, Russia has the amazingly small number of 85,418 automobiles and 587,534 trucks for the accommodation of a population in excess of 170,000,000.

Following is the Club's tabulation, based on U. S. Department of Commerce statistics. "Total registration" includes passenger vehicles, buses, trucks and Diesel units:

Country	Regist'n Popu'n	Vehicle
Germany	1,816,200	77,928,433
France	2,251,300	41,905,168
England	2,076,869	38,173,950
N. Ireland	51,516	1,279,753
Scotland	186,237	4,916,000
Wales	99,687	2,176,050
Poland	44,300	34,769,450

Registrations in the five States which far surpass those of the warring nations are: Pennsylvania, 1,976,466; New Jersey, 1,000,684; Maryland, 995,347; New York, 2,584,123; Ohio, 1,870,249.

The population per vehicle in these States ranges from 4 in Ohio to 5.9 in Pennsylvania.

P. U. C. POINTS OUT TRUCK ACT CHANGE

Persons who knowingly use uncertified trucks are guilty of a misdemeanor and are subject to a fine, the Public Utility Commission warned today. This has been the law since September 1, 1939, effective date of an amendment made to the Public Utility Law at the Legislative session of 1939. The amendment provides that shippers who knowingly and willfully, or otherwise fraudulently seek to evade or defeat truck regulation, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction subject to a fine of $50 for the first offense; and not more than $100 for any subsequent offense. The amendment in question is pointed out by the commission to shippers throughout the Commonwealth in order that they may not subject themselves to penalties for violation of the public utility law by employing truckers without certified rights.

Industrial Booklet On Penna. Ready

Harrisburg—The State Department of Commerce began distribution of a booklet graphically portraying Pennsylvania's varied industrial advantages in specific terms.

Within the next month approximately 50,000 copies will have been placed upon desks of businessmen throughout the country, Secretary of Commerce Richard P. Brown announced. The booklet is being sent direct to key executives of thousands of industries in this and other states, citing advantages for the location here of a new business or a new plant, and the rich eastern market of which Pennsylvania is the center.

The first copies are being sent to 556 newspapers. Other copies will go to more than 1100 banks, 1500 businessmen's associations, 325 Chambers of Commerce in Pennsylvania, public utility companies, railway industrial agents, trade journals, librarians, colleges, Pennsylvania members of Congress, members of the Legislature, and other persons in key places in industrial, financial, commercial and public life.

Thirty-nine manufacturing industries in which Pennsylvania holds first rank in the nation, are listed.

THEY MADE US LIE

In last week's issue we copied an article headed "Concerning Fictitious Expenses" from a Lancaster paper, taking it for granted, that it was correct.

It stated Solon V. Barr, of this town, former senior interviewer of the office, etc." Mr. Barr informed us that the word "former" was superfluous. We are pleased to say he capably fills the position at present.

Many accidents take place in the homes, though the people aren't in them enough to constitute a very serious risk.
