

The battlefield of national defense and security is in the factory—and here the soldiers are America's workers, men and women who are always ready to respond to the patriotic call to action. America, today, as seldom in its history, looks to labor to supply the needs that critical times demand. American workers have never failed to deliver when these needs were present—and their record is praiseworthy today. In the forefront of American consciousness today, on Labor Day, American labor has the respect and confidence of the whole nation.

Silk Shortage, Eh? Remember Barber - Pole?

The way some of the women folk are fussing about the idea of a shortage of silk stockings would make one believe that no other kind of stockings had ever been worn!

Any one who has kept up the daily album will be able to trace the evolution of stocking styles about much trouble, and old ways and those not so old will re- with clarity the barber pole polka-dot cotton stockings worn the belles of other days.

Years ago, say about forty-five or there were hardly more than or four pairs of silk stock- in Mt. Joy, and those were by the local belles who got anything "first", long before it came a common fad. "Round at the time Columbia was seer- her home-talent show, "Pro-essor Napoleon", few of the girls in the east wore anything but cotton stockings, and they danced as lightly and nimbly across the stage of the Columbia Opera House as they have any time since.

Besides being much more practical and durable than the perishable silk stockings, they certainly were warmer in cold weather (hot too) . . . and how many remember the good old fleece-lined stockings with white feet. This was too, before the advent of the universal practice of wearing low shoes. These "fleece-liners" bulged huskily over the tops of tightly laced high top shoes.

When we go back to lisle stockings, whether from choice or necessity, let us do it with the realization that at least we're right in the 1941 mode . . .

Norway is reported to be feeding woodpulp to cattle for fodder with herring and fish meal added to give the essentials of albumen, vitamins, and minerals.

When a cow or a calf lies down stubbornly and will not lead, try holding its nostrils tightly. This usually will bring the animal to its feet in short order.
