

VERY GOOD SIGN OF AN EARLY WINTER

The southward flight of blackbirds, grackles and migrating hawks was viewed Sunday as an omen of an early winter.

Director William H. Carr, of the Trailside Museum, reported observers had spotted thousands of the birds migrating. The birds usually depart about Oct. 1.

The Hungarian radio Sunday night said the first snow fell Sunday in the eastern Carpathian mountains and at other points of Transylvania.

THEY HAVE THEIR CAKE AND EAT IT

In the case of some profitable farm practices it is actually possible to reverse the old adage and make it read "You can have your cake and eat it, too." This is particularly true in the case of farmers who are following recommendations of their county agents and applying fertilizer to their fall wheat crop. By doing so they not only will get increased yields of wheat but also added fertility for the following year's hay crop.

It is not infrequent for the increased yield of clover and other hay crops which follow fertilized wheat to be sufficient to pay for the whole fertilizing operation," according to H. R. Snalley, Director of Soil Improvement Work, The National Fertilizer Association.

On a demonstration farm in Michigan, the increased yield of alfalfa hay during a two-year period following wheat which was fertilized with complete fertilizer, amounted to 3,771 pounds of hay. At the average price of alfalfa hay, the increase is worth $19.00 an acre for the two years.

One of the best ways to start a high-producing pasture is to fertilize the wheat crop heavily this fall and seed the pasture next spring. In an experiment at Wooster, Ohio, an application of 450 pounds of fertilizer gave an increase of 18 bushels of wheat and more than doubled the pasture yield for several years following.
