Mortuary Record In This Section

(From Page 1) Thanksgiving morning at 7:30. He was in his seventy-sixth year.

Some years ago when the farmers throughout this section organized the Farmers' Creamery Company here, erecting a building on the site of the Mt. Joy Ice Company, Mr. Musser was made secretary-manager, which office he held until the plant was purchased and discontinued by the Hershey Creamery Company. The building now used by Squire Hendrix, South Barbara street, was the Creamery's office building.

Mr. Musser was also secretary of the Brethren's Mutual Fire Aid until the company was discontinued a few years ago.

Deceased had been ill for the past three months and recently met with a slight accident when he fell down a short flight of steps.

He was born in East Donegal township, a son of the late Henry B. and Annie Oberholzer Musser. He was a member of the Cross Roads Brethren in Christ Church. Besides his wife, Anna Seachrist Musser, he is survived by a daughter, Frances, wife of Arthur Eshleman, Paradise; two sons, Martin and Henry, Mount Joy R 1; five grandchildren and four brothers, Christian, O. Abilene, Kan.; Amos O., Pasadena, Cal.; Henry O., Elizabethtown, and Levi O., Mount Joy.

Private funeral services were held from his late home last Sunday with further services in the Cross Roads Brethren in Christ church. Interment in the cemetery adjoining.

Infant Dies: The infant son of Phares and Grace M. Snyder Nissley, of Landisville, born Saturday evening in the Lancaster General Hospital, died at 9 a. m. Sunday.

Elmer E. Swords: Elmer E. Swords, seventy-five, York, formerly of this boro, died at 7:30 p. m. Sunday at his home. Mr. Swords moved from Mt. Joy to York in 1901, where he was employed as a night watchman at a York brewery. He was a member of the York City castle, No. 414, Knights of the Golden Eagle. Besides his widow he is survived by three sons, Harry H., Charles L., and Clarence W., all of York; ten grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

Mrs. John Mater: Mrs. Cathryn Mater, 27, wife of John Mater, 306 Mount Joy St., died at 3:25 p. m., Monday, in St. Joseph's Hospital of pneumonia. She was admitted to the hospital November 15. Besides her husband she is survived by an infant daughter, Janet Cathryn and three sisters, Mrs. Frank Burkholder, Mrs. Edgar Breneman and Mrs. Susan Peifer.

Mary Elizabeth "Betty" Swarr: Mary Elizabeth "Betty" Swarr 17, 7 W. Main St. Mt. Joy, died at 1:10 P. M. Sunday in St. Joseph Hospital. She was admitted to the hospital as a patient on Sept 13, Miss Swarr was a member of the Church of God, of Mt. Joy, and was an active member of the Sunday School, not having missed any Sunday attendance for a number of years, she also sang in the Church Choir. She was a student in the Mt. Joy High School, where she was an active member of the various organizations of the High School, she also was an active member of the High School orchestra, and was a talented soloist. Surviving are her parents Mr. and Mrs. Irving C. Swarr, an aunt Mrs. Elizabeth Stambaugh, of town, and two uncles J. L. Swarr, also of town, and E. H. Swarr of Millersville.

Funeral services will be held from her late home 7 W. Main Street, on Wednesday at 2 P. M., with interment in the Henry Eberle cemetery.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED: Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Ludwig Shippen St., Lancaster, announce the engagement of their daughter, Dorothy M. to John C. Heisey, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Heisey, of Mt. Joy R. D.

CARE ESSENTIAL IN FILLING SILO

Dry, Unpacked Materials Spoil Readily.

By PROF. R. C. MILLER (Agricultural Engineering Department, Ohio State University.)

Most effective results in avoiding spoiled silage are obtained by taking proper precautions in silo construction and by harvesting the silage crop at the right period.

In general, silage spoils because it comes in contact with air after it is placed in the silo. Defects in silo construction, use of material which is too dry to pack well in the silo, and too much speed in filling or too little tramping of the material are the chief agencies that permit air to ruin the silage.

Every type of silo whether it be a permanent upright type, a temporary fence structure, or a trench below ground surface can be built to preserve silage effectively if the material placed in the silo is moist enough to pack well or if water enough is added to permit thorough packing of dried material.

The rule of thumb method for determining the correct moisture content for plants going into a silo is that if it should be possible to press or wring water from the chopped material, if that cannot be done, water should be added. Plants with 60 to 75 per cent moisture are at the right stage for silage. Materials placed in the silo while too green may result in considerable losses of juice and produce silage which is unpalatable to livestock.

The spoilage of silage at the top of an above-ground silo or at the end of a trench silo cannot be avoided entirely without prohibitive cost. Repacking at intervals of a few days after the silo is filled or putting chopped, wet straw or other material on top of the silage will reduce the loss.

Considerable silage is lost while the silo is being emptied because too great an area of surface is exposed in feeding. This loss can be reduced by feeding from half the area of a surface silo at a time or by taking a slice only a few inches thick from the end of a trench silo.

Egg Production Reflects Kind, Quantity of Feed

Efficient egg production is influenced by the amount of feed it is possible to induce each laying hen to eat daily, according to George P. McCarthy, extension poultry husbandman at Texas A. & M. Normally one hen will eat about 80 pounds of feed a year, approximately half of which should be mash and one half grain for best results.

Egg mash, or laying mash, is the important portion of the feed for hens that are expected to lay. Laying mash is a combination of feeds which are high in protein and other ingredients essential for keeping the hens in good health, as well as for producing a maximum number of eggs.

Laying mash must constitute one-half, or 40 pounds, of the yearly ration. The usual mixtures for laying rations comprise 100 pounds protein supplement and 200 pounds of ground home-grown grains to make a suitable mash mixture. The grains may be corn, maize or hegarai in combination with oats.

One hundred laying hens will consume about 3 1/2 tons of home grown grains a year, McCarthy adds. If the net income from the flock is figured on the basis of increased return from home produced grain, the producer will find that he sold his grain at about double the market price. In some cases even greater return can be made.

Farm Notes

The 25 per cent of the people in the United States living on the land are furnishing 50 per cent of the increase in the country's population, according to the bureau of agricultural economics.

A dairy bull, after he is two years old, should be kept a little on the thin side rather than fat. He will be more fit for breeding, and this slight limitation of feed need not injure his growth.

The U. S. department of commerce has ceased publication of statistical information on exports of American farm produce and will keep such information secret because of the war.

An effective farm windbreak should have several kinds of trees, including evergreens.

Contrary to many beliefs, the tractor can work more efficiently on curves in farming on the contour than in working up and down the hill.

Good poultrymen will see that their birds are well fed on growing mash, whole corn, whole oats and green feed during the late summer and fall.
