

OWL LAFFS

BY A WISE OWL

There's going to be some awfully happy robins around these parts when Cappy Mumma goes to the army. He's been leading them a hectic life lately and it's all because he likes to fish but hates to hunt bait, so-o-o he waits 'til a robin digs a worm out of the ground, then chases the poor bird and takes the worm.—Ain't he cruel?

Can you imagine life looking darker than Harlem in a blackout?

Here's a little air raid instruction that was missed, but it's awfully important—"If a bomb makes a direct hit on you, don't go to pieces."

Saw a friend of mine who was just recently married and after one look at his new wife I came to the conclusion that he must have been picked her during an air raid.—She certainly looks a wreck.

A lot of fellows ideas of being a skilled laborer is the fellow who looked for a job for the last two years and didn't get one yet.

A Florin lady went to a psychiatrist and complained: "Doctor, I'm so worried, I hear voices all the time but I can't tell who is speaking." Amazed, the doctor inquired: "That's serious. When does it happen?" And she explained: "Whenever I answer the telephone."—A couple patients like that and the psychiatrist will need a psychiatrist.

'Ever hear a fellow imitate a cat n' a dog n' a wolf, No? Well he does it like this—"Meow, meow—how wow wow—hiya, babe!"—didn't think it was funny either.

There's an insurance company has its offices on the tenth floor of the Empire State building and they are so prompt in paying that the other day when a client jumped out of the twentieth story they handed him his check as he passed.

"Business is lousy" complained the exterminator. "Mine too, in fact it stinks, snapped the glue manufacturer. "Mine looks pretty black, growled the coal dealer. "Come with me," said the elevator operator, "I'll give you a lift."

A couple fellows from town went out ground hog hunting when the one called "Hey, Joe, can a ground hog swear?" "Of course not," replied his friend. "Then that wasn't one I just shot," came the answer.

At long last I found out why umpires wear masks. At a ball game at Philly recently I was sitting on the grandstand when the young lady next to me asked her escort: "Why does the man in the black coat wear that wire mask? Is he dangerous?" And her escort replied: "Yeah, they're afraid he'll bite the players."

Have you heard the modern version of Mary Had a Little Lamb? Here 'tis— "Mary had a little lamb, Given her to keep. It followed her around until It died from lack of sleep."

A colored soldier from near here had been peeling potatoes until his hands ached. Turning to a fellow K P he said: "What dat sergeant mean when he calls us K P?" "Ah dunno," replied his co-worker, "but from de look on his face Ah think he means 'Keep Peelin'."—I think he's right.

Have you ever noticed that the most successful men are bald? It's only natural though, they come out on top.

With all kind of skilled labor being called to the army and the men around the house always "too busy," two ladies on Chocolate

A report from Washington says the scrap rubber drive resulted in the collection of 454,155 tons. A man near Lancaster, was taken to the hospital for the removal of Japanese beetle from his ear.

Russell L. Hein, merchant, was elected a director of the Elizabethtown Trust Co. He succeeds the late Harry J. Gish.

Struck by a piece of fallen timber, Jerome Karis, 18, Silver Spring, was sent to the hospital. He works at the RCA plant at Lancaster.

Two persons were hurt and two others injured when an auto ran off the Lincoln Highway and into a creek at Leaman Place.

Avenue solved their construction problem by arming the tools and going to work themselves. It seems they wanted a trellis built for morning glories and they waited and they waited and waited and waited but the men just couldn't get around to it, so they built it and it's really a masterpiece (that is, it was), but I'm afraid to look for it now, after that wind on Monday, cause it was a trifle "fragile."—Anyhow, they tried, even though they're being kidded about it, an awful lot.

68,416 Less Deer Killed In Pa. In 1941

In the "poorest season since 1936," Pennsylvania hunters killed 18,159 deer last year, a decrease of 68,416 from the 1940 season, the game commission reported today.

Only antlered deer were fair game during the 1941 season, while in 1940 both bucks and does were legal. In 1936 only 18,048 antlered deer were slain.

All told, the Commission said, reports from 85 percent of the hunters showed 5,142,289 animals and birds were bagged last year.

Rabbits led the list of game with 3,229,024 in 1941, compared with 3,061,127 the previous season.

Other reports: squirrels, 855,480 in 1941 and 991,353 in 1940; woodchucks, 181,778 in 1941 and 183,484 in 1940; raccoons, 40,622 in 1941 and 39,321 in 1940; wild turkeys, 3,484 in 1941, and 4,910 in 1940; ruffed grouse, 169,329 in 1941, and 209,379 in 1940; ringneck pheasants, 477,914 in 1941, and 422,975 in 1940; bobwhite quail, 63,200 in 1941, and 69,199 in 1940; woodcock, 26,187 in 1941, and 27,151 in 1940; shorebirds, 3,220 in 1941, and 4,702 in 1940; wild geese, 1769 in 1941, and 1967 in 1940; wild ducks, 48,935 in 1941 and 47,178 in 1940, and grackles, 41,347 in 1941, and 39,700 in 1940.

The Low Down From Hickory Grove

Maybe now and then it makes a person feel better to lash out at the British, calling 'em slow-pokes and bunglers. I am not trying to say we should say okay to everything they do. They have been in plenty of messes. It sometimes seems like they wait until the other guy gets them down on their back just so they can show him they are the best man, and can get up.

For one thing, England should have known what was going to happen in France, living just across the Channel and seeing them go Socialist there, day by day—sit-downs and all. Socialism made France duck-soup for Germany—and allowed Germany a toe-hold on England's doorstep.

Alright, says Henry, how can you blame the British for not seeing across the Channel when right here at home we don't even see across the street. We are only a hop step and jump ahead of Socialism. If what happened in France is anything to go by we better wipe off our specs before we cross the ocean and start onto the British for bungling. Henry is no greenhorn—or greenpa. He looks—and sees. He don't just look.

THE 34TH ANNIVERSARY THURSDAY, AUGUST 6

The Good Shepherd Home, for crippled children and old people, in Allentown, Pa., will celebrate its 34th Anniversary on Thursday, August 6th, 1942.

The principal speaker will be The Rev. Russell D. Syder, D. D., Professor at the Lutheran Theological Seminary at Mt. Airy, Philadelphia, Pa. A Pageant will be presented by the crippled children entitled, "David and Jonathan."

Due to the travelling conditions the Good Shepherd Home is emphasizing its written appeal and hope that if you are unable to come you will not forget the crippled, the blind and the aged, and will send in your contribution.

SOUNDS SENSIBLE

Limited use of the automobile for a vacation trip is neither unpatriotic nor inconsistent with the Government's conservation program, according to a statement received by the Lancaster Automobile Club from A.A.A. national headquarters in Washington, D. C.

The statement, which has the okay of the Office of Defense Transportation, points out that vacations are recognized by Government officials as important to the health, welfare and efficiency of the American public during the time of all-out war effort.

STORE SURPLUS SEED

Gardeners who are planning to hold over surplus vegetable seed or to save seed produced this year should be careful about where they store the seed if it is to grow next year. Vegetable specialists of the Pennsylvania State College say that a cool, even temperature with 50 per cent humidity is best.
