

OWL LAFFS

A WISE OWL

We've been saving this one for the last two weeks. It's our old friend Al "sharpshooter" Mamma back again.

If a Junior boy walks up to you and asks you the difference between a sewing machine and a kiss, don't bite cause they'll tell you this - - - "A sewing machine sews nice seams, and a kiss just seems nice."

While at Lancaster on Saturday, I saw two policeman standing in front of Hagers. They just stood there and watched and watched. Finally I asked an employee: "What are those cops watching?"

Clayton Newcomer left himself wide open again. This time he got an advertising circular to post at his place of business, so he got busy and put it on the window where all his customers could easily see it.

With elastic girdles and steel stays rapidly disappearing and with things going military in fashion, it may become stylish to have a submarine shape or a cruiser silhouette.

Say, folks, I have a solution to the heating problem. And it's a darn good one if I do say so myself. I suggest, that without tires and such a little gas, and with oil scarce and coal tough to get, why not put the family auto in the living room and turn on the heater?

Just oodles of girls are answering the call of the USO as dancing partners for service men. You wouldn't call this a war sacrifice would you?

A daily paper recently carried a classified advertisement for a man Neiss; Uncle Alec Twigg, in charge to retail imported canaries. A man of town applied for the job, but Charlie Hopps, Larry's ward, Mrs. upon being interviewed admitted Martha Detweiler; Mrs. Caroline he didn't know the first thing about Smythe Kersey, Vivian's mother; it but merely applied because he Mrs. Martha Eshleman; Mortimer was curious to know how the birds Jay Eicherley.

When one of our selectees, who was just a little reluctant to leave his girl, was asked by the army sergeant if he had any preferences, the selectee answered: "Yessir. And the Sarg inquired: "Just what would you like to be?" This was the reply: "An ex-service man with a pension."

Here's the "meowist" piece of cattyness I heard in a long while. Two downtown ladies were deep in conversation when one remarked: "Whenever I'm down in the dumps, I get myself a new hat." And the other exclaimed: "Oh, so that's where you get those atrocities!"

Don't forget to look for me at the Auxiliary play "Here Comes Charlie."

The Absent Minded Professor's Club just initiated a new member, Harvey Herchelroth walked home from work at the Shoe Factory the other night and when he got there, remembered he had left his car at the factory.....So he walked back and got it.

Walking home without it wasn't enough though. He had it parked so that the other fellows had to

REG'LAR FELLERS—The Double Cross

By GENE BYRNES

Steady, Boy!

Many a hunter these days is anxiously awaiting the opening of the Pennsylvania small game season October 31. Here is a picture familiar to every man who handles a shotgun.

Here Comes Charlie

(From Page 1) to St. Louis for Larry to take care of and keep, as his part of the bargain.

Larry's aunt, Mrs. Fanny Farnham who "took over" the Elliot household at the elder Elliot's death, is greatly annoyed and definitely against this intrusion by complete strangers. The establishment in the house of these two cause one argument after another.

One side-splitting incident takes place when Mrs. Farnham entertains at tea and makes Uncle Alec "bottle" for the affair. There's one laugh after another the whole way through.

After enduring his Aunt's dictatorship as long as possible, Larry finally turns the tables and takes charge of affairs. He sends Charlie off to school to become a lady and when she returns a year later, Mrs. Farnham is a changed woman. A party is given in Charlie's honor and at the final curtain Charlie and Larry become engaged.

The cast of characters in order of their appearance follow: Nora Malene, Irish Cook, Mildred Way; Tim McGill, Nora's Sweetheart, John Herr; Mrs. Farnham, Larry's Aunt; Mrs. Ethel Herr; Larry, young business man, Bruce Gingrich; Ted, Larry's college pal, Roy Sumpman; Vivian, Larry's fiancée, Marion classified advertisement for a man Neiss; Uncle Alec Twigg, in charge to retail imported canaries.

Special musical numbers will feature Madalyn Sumpman and Mildred Geibe as vocal soloists and Nancy Germer as tap soloist. That bevy of beauteous maidens who form the chorus are Nancy Germer, Charmaine Garber, Anna Cunningham, Josephine Shank, Zella Gehman, Doris Rice, Dorothy Shatz and Dorothy Rentzel.

Don't miss this show. It's just what you need, you'll laugh you're troubles away.

The Low Down From Hickory Grove

My "sad sights contest" is going along great shakes. If you have not already sent the editor your entry, you should do so pronto. The contest is gonna close some day. So that you will know how the contest is going, I will tell you who is leading, etc.

In the first place, with the most votes, as Sad Sights Number One, is "a nice young fellow, up-and-coming looking, but tagging along with a sweetie in purple seersuckers laced up the back—and leading the gal's dog." That is number one, so far. In second place, according to the vote, is "a buxom young woman letting some wrinkle-brow sell her on the idea that her head is a vacuum and she needs a shot of something to maintain her morale. Without the correct shade of purple for her toe-nails, she would fold up."

Send your "Sad Sight" entry right away—you may win something—maybe everlasting glory—maybe three cheers.
