STRONGER FIGHT URGED

Directors of the Pennsylvania Tuberculosis Society urge a united and of the Mount Joy and Elizabethgreater effort to combat tuberculosis in these wartimes in a state ment as follows:

In this time of destructive worldwide conflict it is of first importance that as an aid to victory of the United Nations everything possible be done to assure vigorous health for all of the people in every community of Pennsylvania so that they can give their full measure of needed

In all past wars there has bee an increase in the prevalence of this disease and in the toll of lives taken by it. It is imperative to remember that in our State more than 4,000 deaths were caused by tuberculosis last year and that probably 40,000 people are afflicted with the disease. And it is significant that thousands of Pennsylvania young men examined for military service have been rejected on account of tuberculosis. Tuberculosis must not be per mitted to secure a new foothold in the midst of the vast struggle in progress. All of the proven knowledge that we have for effectively fighting this enemy must be em-

Margaret turned off the humming vacuum cleaner, and straightened the slincovers of the armchair, and the daybed that she had pushed up to go over the rug. Then she stood quite still in the doorway and looked at the small bedroom with its southern exposure. It was as neat and impersonure. It was as neat and imperson-al as a pin. It might never have been lived in. The door stood open on the clean, bare closet. There was not a pennant, not a team picture, not even so mucl as an old Arith

matter what lodgers with their own trinkets and pictures might occupy it, she would always see it the old way. It was the old way that she saw it now. A pair of hard-worn gray pants lay on the floor where they had been dropped. Three baseball bats were stacked with a fishing rod in the corner. A battered ing rod in the corner. A battered red cap with a letter on it lay on the bed. And through the bed, as though it were transparent, Margaret saw another bed, smaller, and with high slatted sides.

She put the vacuum cleaner away and went down to her desk in the sitting-room. She took the fifteen dollars rent that the new lodger had paid that morning in advance for the room, and added to it, from her purse, three dollars and seventy-five cents more. Then she drew out a sheet of paper and began to write on it, slowly, gravely.
