Ezra E. Miller Crushed By Water Wheel

Ezra E. Miller, thirty-two, Elizabethtown R2, father of two children, was instantly killed at 9 a. m. Saturday when crushed by a water wheel while showing two visitors through the Aberdeen mill of which he was part-owner.

The mill is located one mile North of Elizabethtown, in Dauphin County.

Employees said that Henry Stauffer and Richard Stutzman stopped at the mill that morning while on furlough from a Conscientious Objector camp in Virginia. Stutzman, they said, had never seen a water wheel and Miller offered to show the visitors through the mill.

As he walked toward the pit in which the wheel was submerged below the axle he slipped on a thin coating of ice and fell, according to the witnesses. Workmen said he landed between the wall of the plant and the moving wheel where the clearance is not more than seven inches wide. Workmen shut off the flow of water but Miller was crushed to death before the wheel could be stopped.

He is a member of the Mennonite church. Since his youth he has been employed in the milling business.

Miller is survived by his wife; two sons, James and J. Melvin; and two daughters, Anna and Emma, all at home; also his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Levi Miller, Elizabethtown, R2; three brothers, Herbert, his partner in business; Mervin, Bainbridge, and Venin, at home, and one sister, Mrs. Henry Stauffer.

Plan to Fit the Size of Your Victory Garden

The Victory Garden meeting held in the local high school last Friday evening was well attended, most interesting and very instructive.

The affair was in charge of Mrs. John J. Herr. Mr. Maurice Bailey read a letter from the Pennsylvania Chamber of Commerce urging the local C. of C. to back these Victory Gardens.

Leaflets on growing vegetables were distributed to the audience.

Mrs. Herr announces that edible soy beans can be purchased at the time the Victory Gardens are assigned, for 5c a pack. This pack contains enough soy beans to plant a 50 ft. row.

Miss Forbes, Home Economist for the Extension Service of the Agricultural Association made a report. Mrs. Charles Bennett presented the suggestions that will help in point rationing.

To assist Pennsylvania's expected 1,400,000 Victory Gardeners, many of whom will have only small plots of ground available, the Advisory Victory Garden Committee of the State Council of Defense has prepared diagrams for two miniature-size city gardens (15x11 and 15x20) and one medium-size suburban or community-plot garden (35x35). The latter is the most likely in our community. The diagrams are drawn in exact scale, showing position of rows, number of inches between rows (noted in left margin), the recommended vegetables to plant, and planting dates for Pennsylvania.

The vegetables recommended were chosen on the basis of maximum nutritional values and the degree of prospective shortages this year. The nutrients provided by the various vegetables recommended in the diagram are: Protein: Beans (green), Beans (Lima), Beans (soy), Beet greens, Broccoli, Corn (yellow, sweet), Kale, Mustard greens, Peas, Turnip greens, Broccoli, Chard (Swiss).
