Asks That Women Should Stop Losing Their Gloves

Your gloves, handbag, your umbrella-and other accessories like these are not the most important items of your wardrobe but they deserve extra care these days. Clothing specialists suggest that the habit of losing gloves and umbrella is a good one for American women to break. Buy a glove-holder to attach to your pecketbook if you are inclined to lose your gloves, or sew a name tape on the inside seam.

Take a tip from the sales person and put your gloves on just as she tries them on you: Ease fingers on first; them thumb and palm. Turn rings so the settings are toward palm of your hand. The best way to take most gloves off is to loosen each fingertip, turn the cuff back over the fingers and draw the gloves off. Suede gloves are an exception; try to work them off easily without turning back the cuff or pulling the fingertips.

After you take off a pair of gloves. into the fingers, and lay them in tissue paper in a flat box. Don't let your gloves get too dirty before you clean them. Watch for rips in your gloves and mend them promptly. Always use cotton thread in sewing leather. Silk thread will cut the leather and pull

India's Parsis Fear That Bombs Will Scare Vultures

Parsis of India fear bombs or Bombay, where most of the sec live, for one unusual reason-be cause they might frighten the big but timid vultures that play an important role in their custom of disposing of their dead.

In the roofless circular "Towers of Silence," which are surrounded by flower gardens, shrubs and stately cypresses, the Parsis deposit their dead. They believe that fire, earth or water should not be defiled so the dead are exposed to the vul-

The Parsis (Parsees) are a comparatively small but prosperous and progressive sect of India, says the Come and National Geographic society. There are less than 150,000 of them.

They are among the most enlight ened of the natives, active in the development of air service and water enterprises and most of the cotton mills in Bombay. They include some of the wealthiest men of India. Parsis have built bridges and reservoirs, founded and maintained spitals and other charitable institutions, dramatic organizations, col- Youth."

Use Plenty of Electricity Next to light, the household refrigerator uses the largest percentage of the electricity going into the American homes, it is pointed out by Miss Margaret Goodyear, home management authority, University of Illinois college of agriculture. The ill-managed or inefficient re frigerator not only may be consuming too much electrical energy, which is a strategic war material.

but the old model can not be turned in on a new one. "It isn't that each refrigerator uses so much power. In fact, for the work it does, it uses a comparatively small amount of electricity. But the estimation is that 18 million refrigerators in American nomes use about 6,300,000,000 kilowatt-hours of electricity a year," said Miss Goodyear. "This is about 20 per cent of the electrical power now being used by American fami-

Efficient use of the refrigerator will not only enable families to cut down the electrical intake of the machine but will still give them all the service they need. Checking on the location of the refrigerator may be the place to start, since the amount of energy the machine uses depends, to some extent, upon the air around the cabinet. The warmer the air is, the more energy the equipment uses. An electric refrigerator should have at least 21/2 inches leeway at the back and 6 to 12 inches at the top. A gas re-frigerator needs at least 10 inches of space at the top.

Texas in Forefront With Vast Egg-Drying Program

The practicability of dehydrating, or drying foods was demonstrated to county extension agents representing the agricultural educational leaders of the Texas A. and M. college extension service during their annual conference on the campus. About 500 agents from 250 counties attended. Speakers pointed out that dehydration of vegetables, milk, fruits and eggs contributes materially to the winning of the war. In that form these products take up about one-fourth the cargo space in lendlease shipments they otherwise would. Winifred Jones and Hazel Phipps, extension service food specialists, in showing the steps in drying corn for home use employed a memade electric drier which can be built for about $7.50, and which is not expensive to operate. Stove driers and homemade apparatus built with apple packing boxes also will do the job, but not so satisfactorily. Texas is in the forefront in egg drying, with 13 plants handling more than 5,000,000 eggs daily in 19 drying units. A manager of a dehy-

county, said that his plant, which has facilities for drying 50 tons of drying 200,000 pounds of onions for vegetables daily, soon will begin use by the army. Take Care of Paint Brushes Those used paint brushes in America's basements, stiff as boards with last spring's paint, and supposedly doomed to the trash can, will be going to the brush laundry

Hog bristles, like rubber and metals, have become vital materials. Early in 1942 the War Production board restricted the use of the dwindling stock of imported bristles. Recently, further restrictions were ordered. No more than 55 per cent of the bristles in new brushes for general use may be from the hog. The springy-stiff bristles that make the best brushes have long been imported from Asia. Although the finest in quality are credited to Russia, China has been in recent years the source of nearly nine-tenths of the supply. Even in 1940 and 1941, when most of China's seaports were in Japanese hands, 5,000,000 pounds of bristle were received each year from that source. Since then, the imports have virtually stopped.
