THE EDITOR'S VOICE

The Petroleum Administration for war has removed quota restrictions from all petroleum products for farm uses along the Atlantic Coast. That means that Mr. Farmer will receive an adequate supply of gasoline and other tractor and fuel oil needed for food production this year.

A proposed tax of 10 cents a pound on butter substitutes went into the legislative waste basket last week at direction of its sponsor who declared such a levy would be inflationary and grossly unfair to the poorer people.

That's as it should be. If taxes were imposed on many such substitutes we would be in the same predicament as the Russians. Many of them use lard instead of butter and like it.

It was a lot of consolation and satisfaction to learn that a very representative meeting of 50,000 farmers in New York State milk shed, voted thumbs down on John Lewis' effort to organize them into a union. There was every indication that his proposition was about as popular as would be an American flag spread on Hitler's breakfast table.

No, John, it is needless for you to try and assist the dairymen. Their products reach ceiling prices readily enough before they get to our tables without any assistance from you or your unions.

PAUL BUNYAN PLANNERS

In these days of super social planning, it is well to call attention to the fact that the same kind of steady progress which in the last century and a half brought the people of this country unparalleled comfort and security, is still continuing unhampered.

Medicine is a typical example. An editorial in Hygeia, the Health Magazine, states that: "The American medical profession and the people it serves have initiated many experiments in wider distribution of the services of the medical profession and the hospitals. In many areas where there is concentration of population due to war industries, the Federal Housing Administration has established great housing projects with which are associated prepayment plans for the distribution of medical service, dispensaries, and clinics in which individual physicians or groups provide medical care. Some of the state medical service plans, such as that of California, have contracted with Federal agencies to supply medical service to the workers who live in such projects. All this progress has been made without regimenting the people, the physicians, or the hospitals of the United States in a politically controlled bureaucracy."

Admittedly this is not a world-shaking development. But American progress is made up of a lot of short steps, always in the right direction. No single step has been startling. We have come a long way with those short steps. We have not come so far that a single long, though spectacular, stride—in the wrong direction—cannot take us back beyond the starting point. Some of the more drastic planners would have us do just that, take a Paul Bunyan step—backward—by making the medical profession an instrument of politics.

FIRE ON THE FARM

It is the patriotic duty of every rural community to promote organized fire prevention on the farm. Farm organizations, the clergy, rural educators, the press, women's clubs, and civic clubs should include fire prevention as a regular activity. A year-round fire prevention committee, representative of all groups, should be appointed. It should be the responsibility of this committee to organize, equip, train, and maintain a rural community fire department. It should arrange for a suitable fire alarm system to assure prompt fire department service. It should provide for the building of cisterns on farms, and near rural public buildings, which fire department pumps can use as sources of water supply. It should arrange to send one or two members of the department to an-

WE DON'T LIKE TO CROW, BUT...

Official government figures show that banks are the outstanding source of farm production credit.

The country's commercial banks lend almost $5 to every $1 loaned by Production Credit Associations.

We cite these figures not as a boast but simply to show that the country's farmers prefer to borrow from their local banks. Six million farmers can't be wrong!
