Fertilizing Soybeans In Rotation Studied

When, How Is Question Before Agronomists

How and when to fertilize soybeans in the rotation is a question that faces hundreds of thousands of American farmers, since the war's demands have so greatly increased the production of this crop.

Agronomists at the Purdue university agricultural experiment station are seeking the answer to this question in a series of experiments that are expected to produce some interesting results.

One of these tests, conducted by R. R. Mulvey, designed to reveal the best place in the rotation to supply supplemental fertilizer to meet requirements for higher crop production, is being conducted on three blocks of land comprising 10 plots each on the university's soils and crops farm.

The present rotation is corn, soybeans and wheat, with sweet clover seeded in the wheat as an intercrop. Before the present experiment was laid out, the land had been in a rotation of corn, wheat and clover for 25 years.

In the current tests, corn on all plots received 100 pounds per acre of 0-12-12 fertilizer near the hill at planting time. Wheat is fertilized with 300 pounds of 3-12-12 at seeding time and is top-dressed with 20 pounds of nitrogen the latter part of March.

In addition to the foregoing basic tests, variations of treatment are being tried on particular plots. For instance, 400 pounds of 0-10-20 is applied via the plow sole for corn, on two plots where the soil is of a medium productivity level.

When harvests are completed yearly on the various plots and yield results under the different fertilizer treatments are compared, it is expected that some interesting information will be forthcoming on the most effective means of applying supplemental fertilizer in the rotation.

Hormone Sprays Help Apples Mature on Tree Not only do hormone sprays cause apples to remain on the tree until they mature to a higher color and greater size, but they also cut labor needs because the picking period can be extended and fewer helpers will be required.

V. W. Kelley, extension horticulturist, University of Illinois college of agriculture, states that recent tests with harvest or hormone sprays have proved effective on Delicious, Golden Delicious, Jonathan, Stayman, Winesap and Duchess apples.

Rural Briefs Save and store every ounce of feed possible this year in the form of hay, silage, root crops, grain, and meals, suggest livestock specialists.

For safe storing of a large part of the foods dehydrated commercially or in the home, the container must resist passage of moisture vapor. Moisture-proof cellophane is excellent.

The Affairs At Florin For Past Week

Zulick prosecuted Kenneth B. Holsinger, Lancaster Route 1, before Justice of the Peace H. B. Wittle, on a charge of displaying a red light on the front of his auto, which is a violation of the motor vehicle code.

Mr. Howard Musselman Jr., returned home on Friday from the Hawaiian Islands. Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Schlegelmilch entertained these guests on Sunday: Mr. Frank Schlegelmilch of Elizabethtown and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wickheiser, of Harrisburg.

Covered Dish Social The Shining Stars Sunday School Class of the United Brethren Church held a covered dish social at the home of Mrs. Ralph Mumper on Monday evening with forty-six persons attending.

Along with the regular monthly business the girls revealed their Big Sisters for the past year and then received a new name for the next year.

FEED HENS ENOUGH Hens must eat enough feed if they are to remain healthy and lay well. Poultry specialists of the Pennsylvania State College say that moist mash and pellets are commonly used as supplementary feeds when consumption of the regular ration falters.

ONIONS TO GROW It is expected that home gardeners will not have much choice in selection of onion varieties this year, according to extension vegetable specialists of the Pennsylvania State College, but Ebenezer sets or Bottle variety sets are good, while plants of Utah Valencia either purchased or grown indoors at home give satisfaction.

PRUNE GRAPE VINES Most growers of Concord, Niagara, Warden, and other eastern varieties of grapes prefer the "cane" method of pruning over the "spur" system, report fruit specialists of the Pennsylvania State College. A few of the best canes are saved and the ends removed.

ADJUST PLOW PROPERLY Since plowing requires considerable time and power, it is desirable that the plow be adjusted to do the best possible job under existing conditions, remind Penn State agricultural engineers.

KEEP PIGS WARM A properly adjusted pig brooder will keep the new-born pigs from getting chilled, say Penn State swine specialists.

NATIONAL PRESS BUILDING WASHINGTON, D. C.

By Anne Goode

Ladies, take care of your cottons! Washington hears there's a shortage. Hardest hit are bed linens, yard goods and print goods.

Your husband's new razor may feature a plastic handle, zinc head and plated-steel guard. They're first to be made since early 1942.

A tightening of shoe rationing is almost a sure thing—maybe to a pair a year. Pigskin shoes are a possible outlet to relieve shortage. It's not too late to give the oil of shynola to the ones you have to protect and polish the leather.

It's again rumored since nylon has eased up a bit that some may be released for hosiery.

You'll soon be getting pre-cooked welsh rabbit, chop suey, clam chowder and French fried potatoes in the frozen food line.

A friend of mine is using real mayonnaise to season most of her vegetables these days. Its rich, smooth flavor gives such a delightful taste and, of course, she saves ration points too.

Here's a time saver for us, gals! Don't bother to iron Turkish towels. Shake and fluff them when damp; smooth and fold when dry. Easy, isn't it?

Milking machines saved 210 million man hours of labor to the dairy industry last year.

FEED SILAGE TO EWES Good, clean corn silage fed at the rate of a bushel crate or about 25 pounds a day to 10 ewes is suggested by livestock extension specialists of the Pennsylvania State College. If the silage is fed with a good legume hay, the bred ewes should maintain thrifty condition without grain until about 3 or 4 weeks before lambing time.

PREVENT TREE DAMAGE Large, high-quality trees of some species, such as oak and ash, are difficult to fell without splitting, remind foresters of the Pennsylvania State College. To prevent splitting of the butts of trees in felling requires good judgment and careful cutting.

WHEAT FOR LAYERS Hens will lay well if wheat is used as the only grain in the scratch feed, say poultry specialists of the Pennsylvania State College. If enough vitamin A is supplied in other feeds, ground wheat can replace the scarce corn in the mash.

What is RESIN BONDED PLYWOOD? THE NEW WOOD ALLOY, USED AS AVAILABLE, IN PREMIER PREFABRICATED BROODER HOUSES Premier Phenol Resin Bonded Plywood is a number of layers of wood, on which the grains run at right angles to those layers above and below. These layers are bonded together with the plastic, Phenol Resin, which makes the "glue line" the strongest point. It's the new wood alloy used in Mosquito Bombers and Assault Boats. This will not warp, shrink or swell. It is unaffected by water, mud, ordinary hammer blows and is bacteria and vermin proof. It cannot be delaminated! Phenol Resin Bonded Plywood (by laboratory tests) is light but 14 times more rigid and 8 times stronger when glued and nailed to rafters and studding (as our factory does it) than ordinary nailed sheathing. This construction... with Premier glued laminated rafters and studding... gives you the strongest, most rigid, storm proof and tightest building in large factory-made units that are light enough for boys and girls to handle at time and place of uncrating and erecting. Don't judge by weight; study the construction. See the Premier Streamlined Brooder Houses at our store now. JOHN E. MELHORN Phone G3-M MOUNT JOY, PA. Copyright, 1944, National Ideal, Toledo, Ohio.
