OWL LAFFS

A WISE OWL

Were you in that shopping jam at Lancaster on Saturday? I wasn't there but I heard about it.

One lady went into a store and said: "I want to see something cheap in a straw hat."

At another counter a man demanded: "I want three pairs of stockings." The clerk eyed him and asked: "Are they for your wife or shall I show you something better?"

But to top it all a Florin man went into a ladies' shop and blushing said: "I want a corset for my wife." The clerk inquired: "What bust?" And he stammered: "Nothin'. It just wore out."

Up at Middletown a week or so ago they dug an excavation on the main highway to repair a water pipe. At night they naturally had a red lantern hanging there to warn motorists, which brings me to my story.

A Scotsman wrote to a friend here in the states, who was one of his clansmen. He asked: "Why don't you write? You can fill your pen free at the post office."

A sweet young girl from Manheim got engaged and told all her friends her fiancée was a doctor. When they asked her what kind of a doctor, she replied: "He told me he's a liver and kidney specialist."

Which reminds me of a conversation I heard in the dark of the movies. He had just proposed. She hesitated. He said: "I know I'm not much to look at." And she hastily replied: "Still, you'll be at work all day." — Tactful, isn't she?

I used to think that the worst weather possible was raining cats and dogs, but I think hailing a street car is worse.

A young lady while out walking heard, for the first time, of her mother's intentions to marry again, and she was obliged to sit right down and cry about it. She couldn't go a step-father.

And now would you like a breath-taking story about an aviator who was forced down in mid-ocean? There he was — swimming in the cold water, battling heroically against the waves. "Just a half-mile more," he thought, "and I'll make it to that tiny island." His strokes were getting weaker. He could hardly lift an arm anymore. The shore was only a few yards away. His last efforts were too much. He began to grow dizzy. — Then his head began to swim and carried him ashore.

A first year astronomy student has just enlightened me of the fact that the reason we always speak of the moon as silver, is because of the halves and quarters. — See what you learn at college?

In order to conserve fuel, a Barbara Street man had the painter give his house three coats. He figured that oughta make it warmer.

Heard what I thought was a piece of juicy scandal, only to be

THE LOW DOWN FROM HICKORY GROVE

Most everybody is half-way fipped on this or that, so it is not being too odd, I reckon, if I get worked up on something like a sales tax.

A fellow down the road from us runs a kind of a drygoods store in town, and you know, he can see what is going on. He says he has to put things like new dresses and suits, in his windows at night, now.

NEWTOWN

Mrs. Grace Geltmacher and Mrs. Daniel Derr visited Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Brady and Mrs. Leah Mann of Columbia Tuesday afternoon.

Miss Betty Mumma spent the weekend with Mrs. John Martin of East Petersburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Reigle of Mount Joy visited Mr. and Mrs. John Fogie Sr. Sunday afternoon.

Visitors of Mr. and Mrs. William Fogie Sr., were Lester Fogie of Camp McKain, Mississippi. Mr. Harry Fogie, Mrs. Anthony Orio and daughter, Antoinette, Mrs. Bernard Parvola and daughter, Mrs. Slazack and daughter Helen, all of Philadelphia.

Mrs. Ida Eisenberger, of Kinderhook, spent the weekend with her sister Mrs. Daniel Moore.

Mrs. Elizabeth Resh, who spent 4 months with her daughter, Mrs. George Moore, of Columbia, returned to her home on Monday.

disappointed. Someone remarked that a downtown hubby beats his wife up every morning. Waiting for the gruesome details, she added: "He gets up at six and she gets up at eight."

Oh, I know what you're thinking. After you finish reading this column you'll probably say to yourself: "And they hang pictures." — Well, why don't you send me some laffs and make it interesting?

We overheard a conversation between two Marietta street women the other day. One said her daughter says she doesn't want to get married. Her neighbor replied: "Just wait until the wrong man comes along."

The manpower shortage and gasoline rationing didn't keep Mr. Rupp, one of our school teachers, from getting to classes on time Tuesday A. M. Several uptown students supplied the "pushing power."

The other day some one asked me what happened when the human body is completely immersed in water. I said: "Usually the telephone rings."

Jim Berrier tells me that there's spent Monday at the home of Mr. an old adage that at certain times and on certain occasions they claim animals talk.

The other morning when he went out to feed his hogs the one said to the other: "My but you're growing — you must have put on 50 or 60 ration points in the last few weeks."

Just about the time the other pig was going to answer, Jim's wife rang the breakfast bell and that disturbed both of 'em.

The thrifty chap of today will pick a girl who powders her nose with a marshmallow before she eats it.

"When did Caesar reign?" asked the teacher of a Freshman. "I didn't know he reined," was the reply. A voice from across the aisle whispered: "Didn't they hail him?"

Happy Easter. — A WISE OWL
