is an ambulance. An ambulance is very necessary to any community. It may mean the life or death of a person. There should always be a driver and a nurse standing by in case the ambulance is needed. Ambulances today may be rather expensive but you can be sure that they come fully equipped for any emergency.

As a next step Mount Joy should undertake in making a swimming pool. Not that a swimming pool is necessary to every community, but in this case there should be one. The reason for this is that too many children around here go swimming in creeks. These creeks carry bacteria and many germs that are con-

The Martin S. Musser Vocational Awards $5 to Harry Musser for Vocational Agriculture and $5 to Eileen Walters for Vocational Home Economics.

The Elizabeth Shirk Simons Award: A $50 War Bond presented by the Doctors Simons in memory of their mother to Kathryn Gallagher, valedictorian and also winner of the Readers Digest Award.

The program and list of students appeared in last week's Bulletin.

Will Enter Service Five of the graduates leave shortly for duty as aviation cadets: James Arndt and James Houseal will report to the University of Pittsburgh and Clyde Nentwig to Gettysburg College on June 7. The others—Paul Sperla and Wilmer Oberholtzer, are still unassigned. Practically all the remaining boys in the class plan to enter military service this summer. Several girls are awaiting assignment as cadet nurses.

tagious. The health of the future residence of this community depends largely upon this undertaking.

At present Mount Joy has a very nice park and it also has a very nice location. What the park lacks is equipment. There could be shuffle board courts, badminton courts and many other kinds of facilities with provided equipment. In the summer they could have instructors in the park to instruct, judge and create games for the smaller children. These instructors could maintain any rules and see that the equipment is taken care of.

The Mount Joy High School has in back of it a large plot of land. There is a very nice baseball field in the park but since this land is available in back of the high school, why couldn't a baseball field be made there? It would be much handier for baseball practices and it would create a greater interest in baseball games among the student body of the high school.

The things mentioned in this essay may seem trivial and unimportant, but are they? How can we be sure of this if they are not undertaken. They may mean the health and happiness of our future generations.

(BY JAY E. EICHERLY JR.)

In order to keep up with the automobile, industrial expansion, city and population growth, it is only natural that the post-war period should be one of planning for the small town as well as for the city. Mount Joy should not leave itself behind in this development.

Towns should zone for the same reasons that individuals plan their activities for their own betterment. The time to plan is whenever the executives feel that they and the town are ready financially and constructively. It's never too late to start.

There are no good reasons for not planning in Mount Joy. Even though the inevitable mistakes are made it is better to plan for the future than to blindly trust in luck. The money invested in such planning would eventually return to its investors, plus the advantage of the plan itself, which is the real objective.

City planning and zoning should be carried out either simultaneously or in close conjunction. This should be very easily done in Mount Joy since there is unlimited room for expansion. If zoning laws were established first the new sections of the town would be planned according to these laws instead of planning the laws to the sections after they are built, which would make them less uniform and effective.

Mount Joy being only a small town the industrial and business sections have stayed close together, however, in zoning for the future several other things must be considered. The extent of water and sewage services, the population, population growth rates, density, distribution, racial characteristics, use of land, financial data, public service and industrial sites, housing surveys and general facts bearing upon local growth and development prospects are all important.

Zoning should be done by the same commission that does the planning because good zoning requires much the same studies as are required for planning. This commission should be composed of men who are acquainted with the town and each should be skilled in some phase of work needed in the zoning program. Mount Joy would not have to look further than its limits to find such men since several of the organizations and clubs in town have successful completed activities which are no longer or more complicated than zoning.

Zoning should be reasonable. Existing conditions should be taken carefully into account. It should not discourage improved kinds of housing or industrial development. The zoning ordinance should be simple in language and there should not be too many classifications.

Mount Joy will definitely grow after the post-war period due to its position and plans should be made to accommodate such eventualities.
